STRIKERS ARE FIRM

Reading Company's Offer of a 10 Per Cent. Raise of Wages is Ignored by the Men.

FEWER COLLIERIES ARE WORKING

Hazelton, Pa., Oct. 1.—President Mitchell at noon today said:

"The strike is practically complete and there will be no resumption of work without there first being a convention representing every colliery in the anthracite field. The prediction I made yesterday that no attention would be paid to the notices by the Reading company conceding a 10 per cent advance has proven true.

"Our reports from the Panther Creek valley indicate that this heretofore impregnable portion of the anthracite region has declared its intention of suspending operations at once.

"Accompanied by the national board members, I shall go to Wilkesbarre tomorrow to attend a great labor demonstration which will be participated in by fully 25,000 men."

MINERS IGNORE WAGE RAISE.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 1.—The notice posted yesterday by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, announcing an increase in wages of 10 per cent. to all of its employes was ignored by the striking mine workers and none of them went to the workings this morning.

It was the impression here last night that no attempt would be made today to operate the idle collieries and this feeling was strengthened by the fact that the soldiers were not ordered to patrol the roads at an early hour today.

The governor's troop and battery C went on a practice march at 8 o'clock, but this was not significant.

General Gobin was prepared for trouble in the Panther Creek valley today. The Lehigh Coal and Navigation company collieries are located there and that is the only section of the anthracite region yet affected by the strike.

The fact of the strikers going from Hazleton last night to Lansford and Coaldale, both in the Panther Creek region, led Superintendent Gehner, of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company to believe an attempt would be made to induce the men to quit. Sheriff Toole was in communication with General Gobin until a late hour last night and at 2 o'clock this morning Thomas Reese, a special deputy, went to Langsford to learn the situation.

At 6 o'clock he informed General Gobin by telephone that no attempt was made to interfere with the mine workers in that vicinity. He said meetings were held last night by the strikers, who afterward returned peaceably to their homes.

STRIKERS ON MARCH.

Hazelton, Pa., Oct. 1.—Another march, with the Calvin Pardee collieries at Lattimer, five miles from here, as the objective point, took place early today.

About 300 striking mine workers from Freeland started for Lattimer at 1 a. m. and a little later 100 strikers set out from Hazelton for the same place.

The two bodies effected a junction east of Lattimer and marched into the town at 4 o'clock. Each striker carried a small American flag.

Their arrival at Lattimer caused a great commotion. Nearly every man, woman and child in the place was roused out of bed. The marchers adopted the same tactics as were employed at Hazlebrook last week, going to the homes of all non-union strikers and quietly asking them to refrain from continuing at work.

They also covered all the roads leading from surrounding towns to Lattimer.

The strikers claim they succeeded in getting nearly 400 men to quit, but the company officials say they did not lose anywhere near that number. Sheriff Harvey, of Luzerne county, arrived at Lattimer just as the mine whistles blew for the starting of work at 7 o'clock.

He found nothing to do, however, as all the men were conducting themselves in an orderly manner.

After starting time the strikers again formed in line and marched through the town, after which they dispersed.

All was reported quiet in the Panther Creek valley this morning. About fifty of the strikers who went to the place yesterday from McAdoo and Janesville remained there over night for the purpose of trying to get the 220 men working at the collieries in that valley to quit.

They did not meet with very much success, as reports from that locality say that all the collieries are working with nearly the same force of men as on Saturday. No troops were sent there but Sheriff Toole, of Schuylkill county, had deputies on watch.

Reports from the various collieries throughout the Hazelton district today show that practically the same number of men were working as on Saturday, excepting at Lattimer. The only colliery where a noticeable change occurred was at that of A. Pardee & Co. at Cranberry, where some of the "Lokie" engineers and some of the driving boys struck, thus further crippling the works.

A "Lokie" is a diminutive mine locomotive.

When John Markle, of the firm of G. B. Markle & Co., was asked how many returned to work in his collieries today, the only reply he would make was:

"All the mines are working."

When the strike leaders were asked about the Markle mines they said there were very few men in the works. The firm owns five mines and usually employs 2,500 men.

The Markles' Ebervale colliery, which has not been in operation since the strike began, remains closed. Sheriff Harvey is authority for the story that most of the Freeland men who marched to Lattimer this morning intended to stop at the Markle No. 5 Jeddo mine on their way home. John Markle, he says, met the Freeland men at the outskirts of Jeddo.

He found Sheriff Harvey with the marchers and told him his services were not needed. Upon joining the men Mr. Markle marched with them to a school house near the No. 5 colliery, where he persuaded the strikers to go home.

President Mitchell was very much pleased at hearing the news from the Schuylkill region that fewer men went to work today in the Reading collieries than ever. He said the action of the men justified his faith in them and he called attention to the verification of his prediction that the posting of the offer of a 10 per cent. advance on the part of the Reading company would have no effect on the strike, as the men had other grievances that must be adjusted.

THE READING LOSES GROUND.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—According to the official report of General Superintendent R. C. Luther, of the Reading Coal and Iron company's mines, to President Harris this morning, but seven of the thirty-nine collieries operated by the company started up this morning.

This indicates that in spite of the offer of an advance in wages of 10 per cent the company is working five less mines today than on Saturday. The five collieries that failed to open this morning are: Copps, Eagle Hill, Wadesville, Silver Creek and Phoenix.

This leaves only one Reading colliery, the North Franklin, working in the Northern Schuylkill region.

The seven still working, some of them short-handed, are: Lincoln, North Franklin, Brookside, Pine Forest, Glendower, Good Spring and Locust Spring.

None of those operations are very large. Keystone and Kalima washeries, both small, are working.

NO CHANGE IS NOTED.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 1.—The strike situation in the Wyoming valley remains unchanged this morning. All of the collieries, with the exception of the one at Mocanaqua, employing 400 men, are tied up as usual.

It is apparent from the declarations of the strikers and their leaders that no action will be taken on the attempt of the mine owners to start their collieries by an offer of a 10 per cent increase in wages until word comes from President Mitchell.

No attempt was made to resume operations at any of the middle mines and notices have been posted inviting the men to return to work. The strikers are anxiously awaiting news from the national officers of the United Mine Workers.

A meeting of the general superintendents of the Lackawanna, Lehigh and Wilkesbarre, Delaware and Hudson, Lehigh Valley companies, Coxe Brothers & Co. and the individual operators will be held here this afternoon.

It is thought a formal offer will then be made to the miners working in this vicinity. The terms will probably be the same as those proposed by the Reading company, a 10 per cent increase in wages, with a promise to arbitrate other grievances if the men return to work.

There will be no formal recognition of the miners' union. If the men accept a 10 per cent increase, all well and good. If they do not the operators say the strike is destined to go on.

At strike headquarters it was given out that the men will take no action,

POSTMASTER GENERAL HERE

CHARLES EMORY SMITH WAS IN THE CITY SUNDAY.

Was the Guest of P. A. Randall and Drove About the City—No Politics in Visit.

Fort Wayne had a very distinguished visitor yesterday in the person of Hon. Charles Emory Smith, editor of the Philadelphia Press and postmaster general of the United States. Readers of The Sentinel will remember that he is the gentleman who succeeded Hon. James A. Gary in President McKinley's cabinet.

Mr. Smith came from Huntington Saturday evening and remained in the city until 4:35 o'clock Sunday afternoon. During his stay in Fort Wayne he was the guest of P. A. Randall, and while Mr. Randall was showing him about the city a reporter for The Sentinel enjoyed an interview with him at Swinney park. Mr. Smith stated that his visit had no political significance; that he was merely spending the day in the city while on his way back to Washington. He was greatly impressed with Fort Wayne, and said he had no idea it was so beautiful a city, with so many splendid parks.

HON. CHARLES EMORY SMITH,

Postmaster General of the United States.

Mr. Smith was much gratified to know that the rural mail delivery was giving such general satisfaction in this section, and stated that within a short time he expected the service to reach almost every neighborhood in the United States. Speaking of this new system that puts the daily mail at the door of every home, he believes it will be one of the greatest educational forces ever introduced, and will be a great help for good. The farmer will thus be given the same advantages in this regard that are enjoyed by the residents of the city.

Mr. Smith did not talk politics to The Sentinel reporter, but it could be told by the twinkle in his eye when the subject was mentioned that he believes all indications favor Mr. McKinley's re-election.

Before leaving the city Mr. Smith called on his old friend, Judge R. S. Taylor, and the two enjoyed an hour's chat together. Mr. Smith is one of the very strong newspaper men of the country, and has brought the Philadelphia Press up to the front rank of newspaperdom.

BRYAN IN DULUTH

SPEAKS TO PEOPLE ON THE SEVERAL ISSUES.

FRIENDS DECORATE TRAIN

QUOTES M'KINLEY ON TRUSTS AT WEST SUPERIOR, WIS.

ROOSEVELT IN NEBRASKA

SAYS REPUBLICAN PROMISES WERE KEPT.

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 1.—When William J. Bryan returned to this city today from West Superior, Wis., where he had spent the night, he found his train elaborately decorated.

A picture of Mr. Bryan filled the place of a headlight on the locomotive, while a motto in large letters was strung along Mr. Bryan's car, which declared, "The republic forever; an empire never!"

Mr. Bryan's first speech of the day was delivered from the veranda of the West Superior hotel in West Superior. He began there at a few minutes before 8 o'clock and talked half an hour to a large audience, dwelling especially on the trust question and making special reference to a combination of the flour milling industries.

In this speech Mr. Bryan also referred to a speech made by President McKinley in 1894, in which the president attacked the democratic party. He quoted the following from that speech:

"They were the enemies of the trust when they wanted the votes of the people in 1892, and when they got the power to deal a blow at trusts, according to the testimony of their own members, they became the willing tools of the most gigantic trust in the country."

Remarking upon the quotation, Mr. Bryan said:

"Mr. McKinley complains that the democrats did not destroy the trusts when they had an opportunity and when he complained you must believe he was honest in his complaint. You cannot accuse him of being a hypocrite, and yet Mr. McKinley has been president for three and a half years and during that time more trusts have been organized than in all the previous history of the country, and he has allowed three sessions of congress to convene and adjourn and did not recommend a specific measure for the destruction of the trusts.

"And Mr. Hanna, who stands at the head of the republican national committee during this campaign and who stood at the head of the republican national committee in 1896, declared the other day that there were no trusts.

"Now, if you believe Mr. McKinley was honest when he condemned the democrats for not destroying the trusts, how can you explain his policy in doing the same thing.

"He selected an attorney general from New Jersey, where most of the trusts have their homes, and that attorney general draws his salary for not interfering with the trusts. The attorney general of the state of Nebraska, a democrat, elected on the fusion ticket, has brought more suits in the state of Nebraska against the trust than the republican attorney general of the United States has brought against the trusts of the United States."

At Duluth Mr. Bryan spoke in the armory, from which all the seats had been taken in order to accommodate as many people as possible. Mr. Bryan said he could hope to add nothing to the arguments which had been made here by Hon. Charles A. Towne, who resides here.

"If he cannot warn you sufficiently against the dangers that beset you," he said, "you would not believe it, though one rose from the dead."

Mr. Bryan first adverted to what he characterized as the republican fondness for the financial question as a paramount issue. "That party is bending all its energies," he said, "towards the aggrandizement of wealth and the degradation of mankind. But partial as the republican party is towards the money question, the party is being driven from it and some are taking refuge in the tariff question."

Mr. Bryan believed that they would also be driven from that position before the close of the present campaign.

ROOSEVELT IN NEBRASKA.

Falls City, Neb., Oct. 1.—Governor Roosevelt's party reached this place at 8:20 a. m. The morning was rainy and the ground [illegible], but the inhabitants were at the station to hear and see Governor Roosevelt and there were many wagons and carriages which brought in farmers and their families from the surrounding country:

Governor Roosevelt, in the course of his remarks, said:

"I noticed the other day that Mr. Bryan said that the republican party had no right to claim the benefit of the fact that pork and wheat and corn had gone up.

"He was speaking of hogs at the time. The republican party said four years ago that if its policies were adopted those articles would go up. Its policies were adopted and they have gone up.

"You can proportion the responsibility between the evidence and the republican party as you choose, giving the republican party its share."

INCREASE OF FARM PRICES.

Beatrice, Neb., Oct. 1.—When the special Roosevelt train arrived at Auburn a heavy rain made the contemplated out-door meeting impracticable, and Governor Roosevelt was hurriedly driven to the opera house, half a mile distant. The governor made a ten-minute address to an audience that filled the building. He said in part:

"During the past four years your home products here have increased 45 per cent, your beef products have increased 60 per cent., and yet we were told four years ago there would be hard times if the republican ticket was elected. The value of your household goods has gone up 20 per cent., mortgages have been reduced 40 per cent. and your savings accounts have increased by 35 per cent. Now you should judge our opponents by their prophecies, not one of which have come true, and judge us by our prophecies, which have been fulfilled."

PRAISE FOR THE SOLDIER.

At Tecumseh, Governor Roosevelt was conveyed to the court house square, which was filled with people, where he spoke in the open air. His speech was devoted to the defense of the army.

IRELAND SPEAKS FOR POPE

PONTIFF PLEASED WITH THE PHILIPPINE COURSE.

American Archbishop Says He is Charged to Thank American People for Leo.

London, Oct. 1.—Archbishop Ireland, who has arrived here from Rome on his way to the United States, in an interview today is quoted as saying:

"In one of the audiences which he granted me the pope said: 'We are well pleased with the relations of the American government to the church in Cuba and the Philippines. The American government gives proof of good will and exhibits a spirit of justice and respect for the liberty and rights of the church. You will thank in my name the president of the republic for what is being done.'

"When I repeated to Cardinal Rampolla (the papal secretary of state) my conversation with the pope, the cardinal declared such statements were what he personally believed and knew to be true and that I was at liberty to repeat them to the American people. Furthermore, Cardinal Rampolla said that on no less than three different occasions petitions had been sent to the Vatican in the name of the Filipino leaders, asking that direct official relations be opened between them and the Vatican, but the vatican has always refused to listen to such petitions out of consideration for the American government."

CLUB HOUSE SCORCHED.

The club house of the R. F. C. club, on Swinney avenue, was badly damaged by fire on Saturday evening. The blaze was discovered by Janitor Alfred Stumpf about 5 o'clock, and was extinguished before the arrival of the department by residents in the vicinity. The carpets and furniture of the house were damaged by water and smoke, and the house will have to be rebuilt.

UNFORTUNATE FARMER.

Nicholas Christman, a well known and wealthy farmer of Pleasant township, has lost his sight as a result of a recent attack of paralysis of the head. Mr. Christman is one of the old settlers in Pleasant township and for many years was a leader in church and other circles in his neighborhood. He is the uncle of George, Andrew and Frank Miller, of this city.

WILL PUNISH TUAN

Official Advices That China is Going to Deal Severely With Boxer Leaders.

IMPORTANT ADVICES FROM CHINA

Washington, Oct. 1.—Several important dispatches were received today from China.

Generally they tend to confirm the events recorded Saturday from Canton. Consul McWade reports issuance of the decree punishing Tuan and his colleagues, so that there is no longer doubt as to the accuracy of Sheng's statement on that point.

Mr. Conger also has received official notification of the Chinese peace commission, which was forecasted by Minister Wu's advices several days ago. Mr. Conger made no reference to the condemnatory degree, hence it is inferred that it was not issued when his dispatch was sent last Thursday.

The text of these two dispatches is as follows:

"Canton, (China), Oct. 1, 1900.—Secretary of State, Washington:—Decrees just issued—emperor blames ministers for whole trouble. Orders Tuan, Kangi and other officials degraded and punished by imperial courts. Emperor holds Tuan and others entirely responsible for bloodshed. McWade."

"Pekin, Sept. 27, 1900.—Via Taku, Sept. 30, 1900.—Secretary of State, Washington:—Have received notive today from Prince Ching that he, Earl Li, Jung Lui, and Viceroys Tin Kuen Yi and Chang Chih Tung will act in concert in negotiations for peace. Jung Lu is in the interior. Li Hung Chang is at Tien Tsin. "Conger."

It is evident that the two viceroys mentioned are Liu Kun Yi, the viceroy Nankin, and Chang Chih Tung, the viceroy of Wu-Chang, the difference in spelling being in telegraphic transmission. There has been some questions as to Yung Lu being a member of the commission, but Mr. Conger's report settled all doubt. Minister Wu already had received an edict naming Yung Lu as one of the commission, but this was questioned in other Chinese quarters. The appointment is not likely to be satisfactory to any of the powers, as Yung Lu has made himself almost as offensive as Prince Tuan. He is generalissimo of the imperial troops and is regarded as mainly responsible for the fight on the legations during the crisis.

The other commissioners are highly acceptable. Earl Le and Prince Ching are already favorably known, and the two viceroys are among the most pacific, enlightened and pro-foreign men in the empire.

It is the understanding of Minister Wu that the viceroys will not come to Pekin to take part in the commission, but will be consulted by telegraph.

Li Hung Chang's long stay at Tien Tsin is exciting some comment, as he is aware of the American instructions to Minister Conger to open negotiations with him at Pekin.

It gives the idea that Earl Li is not fully satisfied that the precautionary element is overcome at Pekin, and is awaiting more positive assurances.

The attention of the officials of the navy being called to the report from Tien Tsin that the United States is about to take part in a naval expedition orgaanizing at Taku for operations against Shan-Hai-Kwan, it was stated that this report probably referred to an old project. Some time ago, while hostilities were in full progress, a movement against Shan-Hai-Kwan was projected to divert the Chinese from their resistance to the progress of the Pekin main column. With the fall of Pekin the necessity for such a move disappeared. It is regarded as unlikely that the United States forces will take part in it even it be revived by any other powers.

General Chaffee reports that he is moving with rapidity toward the execution of the department's orders relative to the withdrawal of his troops.

MISSIONARIES ARE SAFE.

Paros, Oct. 1.—The French consul [illegible] at [illegible], under date

MANCHURIA NOT ANNEXED.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 1.—The Official Messenger today declares the tenor of the government's official communications in regard to Russia's tasks in the far east clearly demonstrate that the "reports of the annexation of Manchuria are devoid of all foundation."

HEAR FROM CHAFFEE.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The war department is in receipt of a cablegram from General Chaffee indicating that he had received the instructions to withdraw most of the United States forces from China and had provided, in accordance with those instructions, for a legation guard. The dispatch follows:

"Received Sept. 30, 1900, via Taku.—Adjutant General, Washington: Sept. 29, 30 cabled from Tieu Tsin. Received your numbers 42 and 43. The Ninth infantry, third squadron of Sixth cavalry and light battery will constitute legation guard. Shall endeavor to get all supplies to Tong Chow before water falls. Chaffee."

Dispatches Nos. 42 and 43 referred to by General Chaffee were those containing his instructions to withdraw the American troops from Pekin.

SHELLED BY BRITISH.

Hong Kong, Oct. 1.—The British gunboat Robin has shelled the village of Luk-Lao on the west river in retaliation for the inhabitants firing on a British steamer. The ringleaders were afterwards captured and flogged.

HANNA DECLARES FOR HEMP

SUMMARY USE OF LAMP POSTS URGED FOR THOSE

Who Would Stand in the Way of a Settlement of the Big Anthracite Strike.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Senator Hanna, chairman of the republican national committee, arrived from the east today.

"Any man who would put a straw in the way of a settlement of the great coal miners' strike now progressing in Pennsylvania should be taken out to the nearest lamp post and hanged," said Senator Hanna this afternoon.

"I do not want to talk of the strike. I do not think that it should be mixed up in party or political questions and should not be discussed from a political standpoint. No one should be permitted to use it for political capital. It is the duty of every man to do his utmost to end the deplorable trouble.

"I am going to do everything in my power to win this election for McKinley and Roosevelt, and I believe we will win, too, but I will not give estimates of states or predict a majority. I will remain in Chicago during the remainder of the campaign and will make no speeches outside of this city. Here, however, I may address the laboring men several times. I like to talk to the workingmen. They can understand me and I understand them."

HEARD MR. HARDIN

SAENGERBUND HALL FILLED WITH BRYAN MEN.

PEOPLE WARNED OF DANGERS

WHICH THREATEN THEM UNDER PRESENT POLICIES.

AUDIENCE WAS ENTHUSIASTIC

MEETINGS HELD BY BOTH PARTIES—GOSSIP.

Last Saturday night Saengerbund hall was filled with Allen county voters who were desirous of listening to Gen. P. Wat Hardin, of Kentucky, discuss the issues of the day. Hon. R. C. Bell presided and introduced Mr. Hardin, who explained before beginning that he was not feeling well and before he had finished the big crowd wondered what Mr. Hardin could do if he was well. He handled all the questions that are being discussed by public speakers, not even forgetting to call attention to the fact that the republican orators who always spent a portion of their time telling audiences that the real issue was the money question were three years ago advocating the election of a candidate for the presidency on a platform which favored bimetallism "if other countries would agree." He began his speech by recounting the long centuries of the people's struggle for liberty and how finally a century and a quarter ago the founders of our country met and adopted a constitution which gave to the people more liberties than they had ever heretofore enjoyed. It was this constitution and this liberty, he said, which was threatened through the policy now being carried out by President McKinley backed by the immense trusts which alone would benefit were the policy successful. Mr. Hardin defended the principles of Jefferson that the people could and should rule themselves, wherever they might live and whoever they might be. The republican party stands today for the Hamiltonian idea of government and they would abrogate the bill of rights on which the government was founded. "The moment you strike at that foundation of our government," said the speaker, "you are drifting toward monarchy." He then discussed the speech of Senator Beveridge, which he claimed attacked the bill of rights of this government. Abraham Lincoln foresaw the dangers that threatened the people and he knew that every man who would gain from a job against the people would cloak himself behind some good, strong popular institution to cover his operations. Every man must be the guardian of his own liberty. Lincoln, standing in the very shadow of death, standing amid the smoke of battle, heard the sighs from a thousand desolated homes where the war had swept like a fiery breath. From the Atlantic to the Pacific, from where the breezes murmured the requiem of the fallen through the pines of Virginia to the orange groves of Florida, he heard the wail of widow and orphan, and that great and good man said that as a result of the war great corporations had been enthroned. That an era of corruption would follow, and that the money power would seek to entrench itself until the republic would be destroyed. That was the prophecy of so great a man as Lincoln. It is not strange that corrupt corporations should then have attached themselves to the republican party, with its great record, to accomplish their ends.

Mr. Hardin traced the history of the republican party, its position on the tariff, how it protected infant industries which are now grown into powerful trusts which threatened the liberty of the people in their greed for wealth. It was the the old story of evil growing out of evil.

He said: "Senator Beveridge seeks to justify the republican Philippine policy. He says the pledge of freedom to Cuba was a mistake, and that we should violate our promise to the world and take and hold Cuba. He says we must hold the Philippines, that we have the same right to them as we had to take lands from the Indians. That is not true. The Indians had no settled homes, they were nomadic savages, and my own state was their hunting ground. If they were civilized, or half civilized, as the Filipinos, it would have been cruel to take their lands. But they were savages, and we have been forced to keep a standing army for a century for the sole purpose of keeping them from savage acts. But the Filipinos are partially, at least, civilized. They own their own homes, and if let alone, will live contented, happy lives. Beveridge and his party say we must take these people and hold them as subjects.

"There, my friends, lies the menace. Can we do this thing they advise, with the Declaration of Independence staring us in the face? There is no warrant in our government for keeping subjects. Following out this policy we see the Monroe doctrine abandoned, the advice of Washington against entangling foreign alliances disregarded, and our country plunged on a career of imitation of the conquering march of European powers. The alliances will follow, then complications, great wars, more bond issues, a perpetual debt and permanent departure from the principles we have proudly preached to the world for more than a century.

"Beveridge says all nations that became great have become so through colonization and administration. That is a lie. The American people have become the greatest on earth, and they have never been colonists, and if they now regard their religion, their conscience, the traditions of a century, yes, the mute voice of unborn posterity for liberty, they will not follow this course that Beveridge and the republicans are preparing. Beveridge says, again, that nations have achieved commercial greatness by colonization, and that the dead nations began their decline when they abandoned colonization. Both are untrue. The American nation has become the commercial superior of the world without colonization, and the decline of every dead nation can be traced to its pursuit of colonization, and not to its abandonment of it. No nation in history abandoned its colonies until its inward decay compelled it to."

The republican leaders, Mr. Hardin said, were deceiving the republican voters. They talk of their own "gorgeous spreads," of the well-to-do man's "elegant table," and of the workingman's "dinner pail." They never heard Hanna advocate talking of a workingman's "gorgeous spread" or "elegant table." They did not even dignify labor by talking of his basket; it is always the "dinner pail." They never referred to his table.

He ended his address by entreating the voters not to forget that in casting a ballot for W. J. Bryan they were voting against imperialism and trusts and in favor of liberty.

MR. SCHANZ WILL SPEAK.

Then Tenth ward democratic club will meet Wednesday evening at its hall, corner of Smith street and East Creighton avenue. Charles Schanz will be the speaker of the evening.

DEBS TO COME.

Eugene V. Debs, candidate of the social democratic party for president of the United States, will address the citizens of Fort Wayne tomorrow evening at Princess rink in the interest of social democracy. He is brought to Fort Wayne under the auspices of the Fort Wayne Social Democracy club and Martin H. Wefel has charge of the meeting. It is not known at what time Mr. Debs will arrive. He speaks in Battle Creek, Mich., tonight. W. E. Rauch will probably preside at the meeting. The club will meet this evening to complete arrangements for the reception of Mr. Debs.

COCKRAN'S DATE OCTOBER 19.

County Chairman H. C. Berghoff has received information that Bourke Cockran's date for Fort Wayne is October 19. He has commenced to advertise the meeting and expects one of the biggest crowds of the campaign to hear him. Saturday night at Chicago Mr. Cockran spoke at the Coliseum, which was filled to the rafters and thousands of people were turned away. There was a riot at one time and 200 police were called in to care for the crowd, but could accomplish nothing except by violence.

DEMOCRATIC MEETINGS.

The democratic county committee has arranged for the following meetings next Saturday evening, Oct. 6: Monroe township, pole raising at Darr's farm, H. I. Smith and H. S. Pulse; Madison township, Quant school house No. 4, T. E. Ellison and A. E. Thomas; Pleasant township, Meyer school house No. 1, Allen Zollars and E. V. Emrick; Washington township, Butler school house No. 8, N. D. Doughman and R. T. Dawson; Lafayette township, Zanesville, S. M. Hench and C. H. Worden; Springfield township, pole raising at Sam Boger's corner, W. H. Reed and L. V. POLITICAL GOSSIP.

Hon. R. C. Bell will address the Bryan Soldiers' club Wednesday evening in the assembly room of the new court house.

Hon. Robert B. Hanna, republican candidate for congress, and Wilmer Leonard addressed the republicans of New Haven Saturday night at Stock's hall. There was a large crowd in attendance and they listened attentively to the gentlemen's presentation of the issues from a republican standpoint.

Hon. J. M. Robinson and H. C. Underwood addressed the citizens of Madison township in the old church at Hoagland Saturday evening. They report an excellent meeting.

The democrats at New Haven organized a Bryan club Friday evening last with a membership of eighty-six. The following officers were elected: President, James Hiler; secretary, J. A. Blaising; treasurer, Thomas Hathaway. The club, it is expected, will reach a membership within a week of 125.

NEW BISHOP'S CONSECRATION

IT MAY OCCUR IN FORT WAYNE NOVEMBER 30.

Very Rev. J. H. Guendling Reappointed Vicar General and Continued as Administrator.

Unusual interest now centers about the forthcoming consecration of Rev. Herman Alerding as bishop of Fort Wayne, and it is regarded as extremely probable that the service will be held in this city. The administrator, Rev. J. H. Guendling, has not yet returned from Indianapolis, whither he went on Saturday to confer with Rev. Father Alerding, and upon Father Guendling's return it is believed he will have some definite information to impart.

The consecration of a bishop is always held on a feast day of one of the apostles, and there are three such days approaching on which such a consecration could occur—the feast of St. Luke, October 18; SS. Simon and Jude, October 22, and St. Andrew, November 30. The first two dates are so near at hand that proper preparation could hardly be made, and November 30 is quite generally regarded as the date on which Bishop Alerding will be consecrated.

The place is also in doubt, though Fort Wayne will probably be selected. Undoubtedly the friends of Rev. Father Alerding among whom he has labored for so many years would be gratified to have the ceremony occur at Indianapolis. Cincinnati, the head of the archdiocess, may also be considered, but it is likely that the new bishop will desire to be consecrated in Fort Wayne, where his labors as bishop are to begin. This will be the first consecration of a bishop ever held in this city—Bishop Luers and Bishop Dwenger having been elevated to the episcopacy at Cincinnati and Bishop Rademacher at Nashville. It is an event of great moment and will bring together large numbers of the dignitaries of the Catholic church. Archbishop Elder will confer the mitre.

NOTIFIED WEEKS AGO.

The appointment of Father Alerding as bishop of Fort Wayne was made by the sacred college August 30, and on September 7 a cablegram apprised him of the choice. This announcement was not made public until after the receipt of the papal brief, or official notice, on Friday morning. It is probable the brief was brought from Rome by Archbishop Keane and was first sent to Archbishop Martinelli, the papal delegate at Washington. This appointment conferred upon Father Alerding the ordinary powers of a bishop from the moment of its receipt, though the bishop does not ordain priests nor give confirmation until after his formal consecration.

Father Alerding expected to leave Indianapolis today for Cincinnati to arrange a date for his consecration and it is expected that he will arrive in Fort Wayne within a few days to look over the situation and meet the local clergy. The new bishop comes to the diocese under the most auspicious circumstances and will find it in excellent condition, without debt and second to none in the United States in its charitable, religious and educational institutions.

IS REAPPOINTED.

Word from Indianapolis is to the effect that the new archbishop has already reappointed Very Rev. J. H. Guendling vicar general, the position he has so capably occupied since the death of Rev. Father Brammer. The vicar general is also continued as administrator of the diocese until the consecration of the new bishop, and the announcement will be highly gratifying to the numerous friends of Rev. Father Guendling. It indicates, too, that though privileged to do so, Father Alerding will not take up the active work of the diocese until his formal consecration some weeks hence.

HELD FAREWELL SERVICES

IMPRESSIVE MEETING AT THE THIRD CHURCH SUNDAY.

Presbyterian Congregations Held Union Gathering in the Old Building—Church's History.

The old Third Presbyterian church, situated at the corner of Calhoun and Holman streets, is now no longer a place of worship, the edifice this morning passing into the possession of Messrs. Mossman, Yarnelle & Co., who will use it as a warehouse.

The closing service was held last evening and the congregations of all the Presbyterian churches in the city assembled in the old building for the occasion. The service was of a reminiscent nature, the evening being devoted to the reading of the history of the various branches of church work. The meeting was opened with the reading of the Apostle's creed by Rev. J. A. P. Mc-

REV. J. A. P. M'GAW, D. D.,
Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church of Fort Wayne.

Gaw, followed by an invocation by Rev. J. C. Breckenridge, of Bethany church, after which the congregation united in singing "Come, Thou Almighty King." Prayer was offered by Rev. J. L. Leeper, of Westminster church, and the choir sang a beautiful anthem, which was followed by the reading of a brief history of the church by Dr. J. D. Chambers. The different officers of the church followed with short addresses, O. B. Fitch naming all the elders since the time of organization, and Alexander Wilson speaking for the deacons. F. P. Wilt, who was to have spoken on "The Trustees," had not completed his report. Mrs. Isabella Diffenderfer, one of the surviving charter members of the church, told of the early history of the congregation, and spoke of the many difficulties that had to be overcome in the early years of the church. Miss Mary Christie, who has attended the Sunday school since girlhood, told of the progress and growth of the Sunday school in the past years. Mrs. Margaret Morgan dealt with the subject, "The Women's Missionary Society," and in the course of her address stated that two missionaries had gone out from the Third church, Miss Christie to Utah and Miss Grace Glenn to Japan. Mrs. C. W. Boshler gave a history of the Ladies' Aid society and C. M. Chambers told of the Young People's society. The closing address was made by Rev. D. W. Moffat, of the First church, in which he, in the name of the Presbyterians of the city, wished the Third church God-speed in the change it was about to make. The congregation united in singing "Blest Be the Tie," after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. McGaw.

HISTORY OF THE CHURCH.

The Third Presbyterian church is an offshoot of the First Presbyterian church and was originally a mission established in a frame building which occupied the site of the present church. In 1865 Dr. Lowry, then pastor of the First church, recognized that a great field for mission work was opening up in that part of the city then known as Hamilton's fields and the Williams addition, called a meeting of the parents and children in his church residing in that district, in the old mission building, and the mission Sunday school thus organized was the nucleus of what is now known as the Third Presbyterian church.

The church proper was organized in 1867 and a subscription paper, pledging enough to pay a pastor $1,300 per year, was headed by the late Hon. Jesse L. Williams, who gave $300. The first record of official action of the organization bears the date of December 8, 1867, at which time thirty-four persons were received into membership, twenty of them coming from the First church. Of the thirty-four there still remain with the church Mrs. Christina Dunn and Mrs. Isabella Diffenderfer. The corner stone of the church was laid in the spring of 1868 and the late John B. Cochrane was the builder. The rear portion of the edifice was completed that year, and the audience room was completed in 1869, although not ready for occupancy until several months later. Several details of the original plans of the architect who made the drawings for the building were never completed to this day.

The first pastor was Rev. Nathan S. Smith, of Cincinnati, who remained until 1873, when he resigned, and succeeding pastors have been Rev. John Woods, until the spring of 1874; Rev. Harlan G. Mendenhall, who remained three years, and during whose pastorate 135 persons were received into membership; Rev. W. B. Minton, installed June 20, 1878; Rev. J. Vance Stockton, installed June 4, 1880; Rev. S. Ferre Marks, installed May 29, 1882; Rev. David Scott Kennedy, installed May 3, 1886; Rev. J. M. Boggs, installed January 6, 1889, and Rev. J. A. P. McGaw, installed September 6, 1898. The first elders of the church were W. N. Andrews, J. B. McDonald and Andrew Wallace.

The project of selling the old church and property has been advocated for several years, but not until this year did a purchaser appear. The site of the new church at the corner of Harrison and Taber streets was purchased more than a year ago. It has been the desire of members of the church in building the new edifice not to go into debt, but the desire to become settled in new and permanent quarters led to the determination to proceed without further delay. The new church will be known as the New Third Presbyterian church of Fort Wayne and in point of architecture it will be one of the handsomest places of worship in the city. Pending the completion of the new building the congregation will worship in Schwartz's hall, 548 South Calhoun street.

FROM SECOND-STORY WINDOW

FIFTEEN MONTHS OLD BABE FALLS TWENTY FEET.

Jaw is Dislocated and Its Head is Badly Cut—Farmer Bitten by Poisonous Insect.

The fifteen-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stier, of East Lewis street, fell from the second story at the home of Frank A. Young, of 197 East DeWald street, on Sunday, and received injuries that may yet result seriously. The parents of the little one were visiting at Mr. Young's home when the accident occurred, and the child was playing in a room upstairs. It had climbed on the window sill to look out, when it lost its balance and fell to the ground, a distance of twenty feet, striking face downward. When picked up the child's jaw presented a sickening sight, having been entirely displaced from the sockets. It had received a severe cut on the head, and the little body was bruised in many places. It is not definitely known whether the child received internal injuries. Dr. McOscar was the attending physician.

BITTEN BY POISONOUS INSECT.

George W. Tait, a farmer residing on the Hicksville road near the orphan asylum, was bitten on the knee by an insect, presumably a spider, a few days ago. Blood poisoning has since developed, and the limb is swelled to several times the normal proportions.

FELL FROM A CAR.

William Hollenbeck alighted from a street car on East Washington street Sunday evening while the car was in motion and was thrown violently to the pavement. Mr. Hollenbeck's face was badly scratched and one of his hands lacerated.

CITY FOOT BALL TEAM WON.

The Fort Wayne City foot ball team defeated the International Business college team Saturday at Centlivre's park by a score of 10 to 5. The college boys put up a fine game for beginners. The feature was the end runs by Kinsey Evans for the college team. The International Business college foot ball team has a great number of games scheduled for the season. The members of the I. B. will practice every Monday and Friday evening at Reservoir park. The team will line up against the Huntington business college team at the base ball park on Saturday, Oct. 13. Huntington has one of the strongest teams in Indiana and the game should be a fine one. The game should settle the championship of Indiana business college teams.

GETS HIS REWARD

LORD ROBERTS NOW CHIEF OF BRITISH ARMY.

LORD WOLSELEY TO RETIRE

PROMOTION CAME AS GIFT ON BIRTHDAY.

HE WON HIS SPURS IN INDIA

ADDED TO HIS LAURELS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

London, Oct. 1.—It is officially announced that Lord Roberts has been appointed commander-in-chief of the British army.

Yesterday was Lord Roberts' birthday.

Although the fact that the appointment had been made was already known, the formal announcement is hailed by the unionist party as a welcome pledge that army reorganization will be carried out in the most effective manner.

It was beginning to be recognized that something was needed to give strength to the unionist campaign. Accordingly semi-official announcements are that Mr. George Wyndham, parliamentary under secretary of state for war, in his speech at Derby this evening will outline the government's scheme of army reforms, and that the war office is arranging with Lord Roberts for the return of a large portion of the army in South Africa.

The Times, in an editorial reference to the appointment of Lord Roberts as commander-in-chief, hints that Lord Kitchener will come home to assist him at his new post.

Gen. Sir Frederick Sleigh Roberts, Bart., G. C. B., V. C., was born in 1832 and educated at Eton, Sandhust and Addiscombe England. He received his first commission as second lieutenant in the Bengal artillery and, after passing through the various other grades, was promoted to lieutenant general in 1878. He served with distinction throughout the Indian mutiny campaign. Throughout the Abyssinian campaign of 1868 he held the office of assistant quartermaster general. He also acted as assistant quartermaster general with the Cachar column in the Looshai expeditionary force (1871-72).

HIS AFGHAN CAMPAIGN.

At the beginning of the Afghan campaign he was appointed commander of the Kuram field force; subsequently he had the chief command of the army in Afghanistan, and annihilated the power of Ayoob Khan. On the return of Sir Frederick Roberts to England he was loaded with honors, and was created a baronet. In February, 1881, he was appointed to succeed Sir George Colley in the command of the troops in Natal and the Transvaal, but peace was concluded with the Boers before his arrival in the colony. He was afterward appointed a member of the council of Madras, and commanded the troops in that presidency from 1881 to 1885, and since then has been commander-in-chief in India. On the death of Sir H. Macpherson (October, 1886), Sir F. Roberts assumed the command of the Burmese expedition.

GREAT INDIAN RECORD.

His administration in India was brilliant and satisfactory to the home government from every standpoint. In December, 1899, the repeated reverses in South Africa warned the British government that a new commander-in-chief of the English armies was absolutely imperative, and Lord Roberts was ordered to that field. The series of brilliant victories that followed his appointment are all well known to the world.

BADEN-POWELL IN COMMAND.

Pretoria, Oct. 1.—General Baden-Powell has arrived here to take command of the police in the Transvaal and Orange River colony, where it is proposed to maintain a force of 12,000 men, all under General Baden-Powell.

TWENTY WERE KILLED.

Lorenzo Marques, Oct. 1.—An explosion occurred at Komatipoort while the British were destroying the Boer ammunition, resulting in the death of twenty of the Gordon Highlanders.

RECAPTURE BIG GUNS.

London, Oct. 1.—A dispatch from Lord Roberts, dated Sunday, Sept. 30, says:

"Rundles troops in the Bethlehem district have recaptured from the Boers a mountain battery gun lost at Nicholson's Nek, and also 65,000 rounds of Martini-Henry ammunition."

CANCER

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—not necessarily from the parents, but may be from some remote ancestor, for Cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestage of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated, obstinate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the Cancer heals, and the disease never returns.

Cancer begins often in a small way, as the following letter from Mrs. Shirer shows:

A small pimple came on my jaw about an inch below the ear on the left side of my face. It gave me no pain or inconvenience, and I should have forgotten about it had it not begun to inflame and itch; it would bleed a little, then scab over, but could not heal. This continued for some time, when my jaw began to swell, becoming very painful. The Cancer began to eat and spread, until it was as large as a half dollar, when I heard of S. S. S. and determined to give it a fair trial, and it was remarkable what a wonderful effect it had from the very beginning; the sore began to heal and after taking a few bottles disappeared entirely. This was two years ago; there are still no signs of the Cancer, and my general health continues good.—MRS. R. SHIRER, La Plata, Mo.

Tom Dascomb and Charley Bales last week established a record for fishermen. They were at Rome City three days and caught 156 fine bass and one pike. That their friends could not talk "fish story," the fishermen strung the fish on lines, hung them in the air and had a picture taken which gives ample evidence that the fishermen created havoc in Sylvan lake's finny tribe.

"RED CHEEKS."

"Other Children Have, Why Not Yours?"

The above comments occur in a letter referring to proper selection of food, from E. J. Wilson, 342 Hemlock St., Allegheny, Pa. "When our first baby boy reached seven months, he began to lose strength and grow pale. He could not digest any of the ordinary baby foods or prepared milk.

"Acting on the advice of a sister-in-law who was bringing the roses to the cheeks of her two children, by their diet of Grape-Nuts food, my wife purchased a package and began feeding it gradually to our baby, preparing it with a little hot water until it was the consistency of a thick gruel. She not only fed it to the baby but herself began eating it three times a day.

"The transformation was wonderful. Within a month the baby was free from all stomach trouble and my wife's strength was completely renewed, that feeling of fatigue having entirely disappeared. Do not over-feed when giving Grape-Nuts food to the baby. Other children have red cheeks, why not yours?"

This food is concentrated and requires less in volume than any food known. Its delicious taste wins friends and the remarkable effects win the reason of any thoughtful person. It was originally prepared for brain workers, but the effect upon the nerve centres and brain is so valuable that it can be used with even nursing babes, to their very great advantage.

BRIGGEMANN DIES IN CHICAGO.

Relatives in the city have been informed of the death of William Briggemann, which occurred in Chicago last Friday. The funeral occurred yesterday in that city. Mr. Briggemann formerly resided in this city and up to three years ago conducted a meat market at the corner of Creighton avenue and Gay street. L. E. Rehling, C. Broeking and Charles Jacobs, of this city, were brothers-in-law to the deceased. Owing to delay in notifying them of the death of Mr. Briggemann, none of those gentlemen were able to attend the funeral.

Mothers, be sure and use "Mrs. Winslow's Soothing Syrup" for your children while cutting teeth. It is the best remedy of all. MaySsod&w

Bourke Cockran's campaign tour will cost the democratic committee, according to a New York newspaper, $812 a day. All of this goes for car fare for the orator and his party and none of it as remuneration for the campaigner himself.

Dr Parkhurst back from Europe, refuses to say anything as to where he stands in national politics, but gives the impression that he is against McKinley strong enough to vote for Bryan Concerning New York state politics he comes right out and says he is against Odell for governor.

Beyond a war of words, fighting by telephone is, of course, impossible, but they come as near as possible to it in Paris, where it seems it is even safer than the French style of duel. Senor Antonio Tenero, a countryman of Don Quixote, after making several attempts to get a connection he wanted and finding with increasing rage that he was foiled each time, at last pulled out a revolver and fired four shots at the instrument, wrecking it completely.

The Boston Post thus discusses Mr. Bryan: "There is undoubtedly a strong trend of popular sentiment toward Bryan No person who moves about among men needs to be told of this; the fact is so evident that it cannot be ignored. He has improved with age and with acquaintance. The people generally have come to believe that he can be trusted with power, for they are now confident that he would do nothing rashly. This wider confidence in the man's splendid integrity, character and intelligence is one of the strongest of Mr. Bryan's new elements of strength."

August exports to Asia and Oceanica show a falling off of nearly $3,000,000 as compared with August of last year. The reasons for this, it is said, are the war in China and the refusal of exporters on the Pacific coast to furnish statements of the value of their exports to the Hawaiian Islands, which they claim are no longer foreign territory and that, therefore, the bureau of statistics has no authority to require a statement of the quantity and value of merchandise passing between those islands and the United States. The reduction in exports to China is from $1,392,205 in August, 1899, to $216,390 in August, 1900, due to the existence of hostilities in that country

FIVE WEEKS OF FIGHTING.

But five weeks of the campaign remain. Thus far the contest has been so wanting in noise and demonstration as to be almost unique in the history of American presidential struggles. The spellbinders have been hard at work and the details of organization have been receiving the usual attention, but the masses of the people have not yet had their emotions stirred and their passions heated to the extent of causing the usual outbursts of campaign hysteria. Nor is there any sign that great change can be invoked during the brief remainder of the campaign

There are evidences that the managers of both of the great political parties are preparing to make the ensuing weeks as warm as possible. Without doubt there will be considerable enlivening of interest, but that there will be any developments likely to relieve the directors of the party work of the puzzled anxiety they now feel is altogether unlikely. There is beginning to be some forecasting of results and the man with the figures always on draught is showing by elaborate diagrams and sums in addition and subtraction that the thing is certain to go such and such a way, but the situation is admittedly mystifying.

By the claims of the democrats and the tacit admissions of the republicans there are enough states in the doubtful column to make the result of the election wholly uncertain and to give predictions no greater value than mere guesswork possesses. New York, Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and North Dakota, are all states whose electoral votes are being claimed with varying confidence by both parties. The drift all along has been in favor of Bryan. He has benefitted vastly more by changes from four years ago than McKinley. Normal conditions prevail in the democratic party, to which vital condition are added many other advantages springing from the nature of issues and the moral prestige of new advocates of democratic success. If the drift continues, and there is little reason to doubt that it will Mr. Bryan's election is probable enough to account for the occasional ill-temper of Senator Hanna.

But at best the situation is chaotic, with the democratic party gaining the fastest in places where gains count for most

RECOVER HORSE AND BUGGY.

Superintendent Goisline received word from Kendallville Sunday that some person had stolen a horse and buggy from a citizen of Avilla who had driven to Kendallville Saturday night to attend a political meeting. This morning the sheriff of Noble county came to Fort Wayne, and with Sheriff Melching and police officers began a hunt for the outfit. Officers Romy and Pappert found the buggy down the St. Mary's river bank, at the foot of Barr street, and twenty feet away on the grass lay the harness. The horse was found in Guilliame's livery and feed stable, corner Superior and Barr street. The animal had come to the barn and was taken up and fed. It is believed the horse was driven to Fort Wayne and unhitched and abandoned by persons who did not care to be known.

POLICE NOTES.

PHILADELPHIA TIMES MAKES A CHANGE.

OPPOSED TO NEW POLICIES

SEES DANGER IN M'KINLEY'S RE-ELECTION.

SUPPORTED HIM LAST TIME

A STRONG EDITORIAL DECLARATION MADE

Philadelphia, Oct. 1. The Philadelphia Times, which supported McKinley for president four years ago, comes out for Bryan in its issue this morning and urges his election. Last June Charles F. Kindred, the republican leader of the Twenty-ninth ward, with several friends, purchased the Times, and Mr. Kindred has since been the president of the Times Publishing company and directed its affairs. When M. Kindred took charge of the Times it was reported that it was to be conducted as a republican journal Recently it has attacked the administration of Ashbridge, the republican mayor, and in the last few weeks its leaders have noticed that the tone of the editorials has not been unfriendly to Mr Bryan

EDITORIAL DECLARATION.

The Times says today in its editorial columns:

The Times has been unfaltingly hostile to those measures with which William McKinley particularly was identified, such as the monopoly-breeding, deficit-producing tariff that bore his name. Yet four years ago, in the sudden crisis that divided the councils of the democratic party and for the time being seemed to have checked its great career, it seemed better to the Times, as to many other leading democratic papers, to sustain Mr. McKinley's election as president rather than that of Mr Bryan. The decision was made in good faith. The result has shown it to be wrong. It has repented and recanted.

"All of the evils and the perils of the so-called republican policy have returned sevenfold, developed and extended till the very foundations of the government seem threatened A false economic system has resulted in vast combines of capital that throttle individual industry and hold control over all the functions of government, and the spokesman of the administration, a representative of one of these great trusts, is calling upon his fellow-capitalists for contributions to buy another four years' license to rob, another four years' life for their inflated and false prosperity.

The government thus controlled has found its fittest expression in schemes of military conquest and the blood and treasure of the nation are poured out to subdue a distant people and rob them of these rights of liberty and independence that America has always claimed for all mankind.

Imperialism and militarism are the natural outgrowth of commercialism in politics, of the power of the few over the many, the elevation of money above manhood with all the system of special privileges and corrupt control that the republican party since the civil war has increasingly fostered. The upholders of this system are themselves aware of its hollowness and are calling for aid from the money power to bolster it up for a time longer The condition is one that the country must meet and meet now, and the way to meet it is by a reassertion of the democratic idea and the election of a democratic president.

The nation is in peril from threatened subversion of the power of the land that is supporting the centralization of capital against the interests of labor; that is debauching our political system by the open collection of millions of money from protected trusts to expend in the national political contest, and that has inaugurated a reign of reckless profligacy and extravagence unexemplified in the history of the nation. It must be halted by the people if they would preserve their own government, "of the people, by the people and for the people" and it can be done only by the election of William J Bryan as the next president.

HOWARD TO BE HANGED DEC. 7.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 1.—The motion for a new trial in the case of James Howard was overruled by Judge Cantrill Saturday and Howard was sentenced to be hanged Dec. 7. It was agreed that the attorneys should be allowed to file their bill of exceptions in the appeal to the court of appeals any time between now and the third week in October. Howard, in answer to the court's question whether he could show cause why sentence should not be pronounced, said, in a firm, clear voice, "I am innocent." Howard was found guilty of firing the shot that killed William Goebel last January. In overruling Howard's motion for a new trial the court said the affidavits of the defense attacking the qualifications of several jurors had been fully offset by counter affidavits filed by the prosecution.

LAWTON KILLED BY TRAITOR

STORY OF A SOLDIER WHO SAW THE GENERAL SLAIN.

Private Mayhue Declares That the Man Who Fired the Fatal Shot Was an American.

Salt Lake, Utah, Oct. 1.—Leon Mayhue, a private in troop I, Eleventh United States cavalry, who returned from the Philippines yesterday, was present when Gen. Henry W. Lawton was killed last December near San Mateo. He saw the shot fired and declares that the man who aimed the rifle was a deserter from the American army. He said:

"General Lawton took our troop from the Eleventh cavalry as scouts when he came down from the north to capture San Mateo. He planned the battle December 19, and on the night before at 11:30 we proceeded toward the town, traveling twenty-three miles We reached the outskirts of the city at daylight, and firing began about 8 o'clock.

"I was with the skirmish line within fifty yards of General Lawton and we saw a man in black trousers, showing conspicuously among the white uniforms of the insurgent officers, come out on the tower of the church. He surveyed the ground on which we stood very carefully, then raised his musket and fired At that instant General Lawton, who was dismounted, moved his hand across his face as if to brush away an insect and sank to his knees

"We found in the church about 100 yards of telegraph tape, which interpreted showed that Gen. Del Pilar and an American had been in command of the insurgents That night word was brought in from the insurgent line that they intended capturing Lawton's body. We knew then had there not been an American in that church who saw him fall the Filipinos would not have known he was dead."

GEORGIA CAMPAIGN ENDS.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 1.—The campaign incident to the state election on Wednesday will close tonight after a heated finish in most of the doubtful counties of middle and northern Georgia. The ballot prepared for the election on Wednesday will be the longest ever voted in Georgia. The ticket will contain for the first time the names of the nominees for all the circuit judges and solicitorships to be filled this year and each judge and each solicitor is to be elected by the vote of the entire state.

The population of India in 1891 amounted to 288,000,000; at a very moderate estimate now it may be put down to 300,000,000.

SCENES IN GALVESTON AFTER THE STORM.

These photos show how Galveston looked immediately after the big storm In the west end of the city there were blocks where not a house was left standing. The upper view shows a lone survivor of a family He has been searching through the heaps of boards and timbers which he once called home in the hope of finding some trace of those who have been lost The more substantial buildings in the business streets stood the stress of the storm somewhat better but a glance at the lower picture shows the condition in which they were left Much of this debris is now being removed, but first it was thoroughly searched for the bodies of the thousands of victims who perished in the storm When the work was first begun, it was done by volunteers and gangs of hired laborers, but it was soon found that necessity demanded more systematic effort So the military authorities have impressed every able-bodied citizen into the work, and every man, rich or poor, who can handle a pick or a spade or an ax has been forced to do his share The force has been divided into four "watches," and thus the business has gone on day and night without cessation. From various causes, however, the number of laborers has diminished and as a last resort it was decided to do some of the work by contract In parts of the city the wreckage is piled up 15 feet high, and a journey [illegible] Galveston is gradually becoming fit for habitation

My daughter's nerves were terribly out of order. She was thin and weak; the least noise startled her, and she was wakeful at night. Before she had taken one package of Celery King the change in her was so great that she could hardly be taken for the same girl. She is rapidly growing well and strong, her complexion is perfect, and she sleeps well every night.—Mrs Lucy McNutt, Brush Valley, Pa.

INDIANA MYSTERY

UNIDENTIFIED HEAD FOUND IN SACK AT CEDAR LAKE.

FLESH CRUMBLES FROM IT

DENTISTRY FURNISHES THE ONLY CLUE.

HAPPENINGS IN HOOSIERDOM

GENERAL NEWS OF THE STATE OF INDIANA.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—A silver tooth plate, to which two false incisors of the upper jaw were wired, is the only clew to the identity of the severed human head that was found tied in a grain sack in Cedar lake, just across the Indiana state line.

Identification of the victim of the supposed murder by means of the head is absolutely impossible, so far as recognizing the features are concerned, because the head was packed in quick lime before being thrown into the lake and the features were destroyed by the action of the chemical.

The only hope of getting a clew to the mystery is that the dentistry work may be recognized.

The head bids fair to furnish a murder mystery as famous as the Guldesuppe case in New York.

ARREST CAUSES INSANITY.

New Albany, Ind., Oct. 1.—As a result of the arrest of her brother, E. J. Stein, Friday, on a charge of forging the name of his father to a note for $800, Miss Jessie Stein has lost her mind, and is now a violent maniac. The young girl was living with her brother, caring for his house during the absence of his wife, when the officer arrived to make the arrest. She is nervous, and the scene prostrated her. The neighbors went in soon after the officer and prisoner had departed and found her raving. The family is a wealthy and prominent one. Physicians are working with her, but so far have failed to find any improvement in her condition.

AGAINST RURAL DELIVERY.

Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 1.—The establishment of free rural postal delivery in this county has elicited a stentorian roar from the villages and the residents of the small towns will petition the department for free delivery discontinuance. The rural routes contemplate the abandonment of several village postoffices, among them New London, the oldest town in the county. New London was the pioneer law seat of the county, the postoffice being established in 1840. The village merchants believe that rural delivery is the death knell of all small towns, a virtual confiscation of property amounting to many thousand dollars.

HEAD GIVES MURDER CLEW.

Crown Point, Ind., Oct. 1.—An inquest upon the man's head found in Cedar lake tied in a grain sack was held this morning by Coroner Osinski but developed nothing as to identity of the grewsome object. Soon after the head came in contact with the air it began to crumble, which the authorities say indicates that it was packed in quicklime to destroy the features. The jaws contain several false teeth, and the only hope of getting a clew to the mystery is that the dentistry work may be recognized by some dentist.

CHURCH DEDICATED.

North Manchester, Ind., Oct. 1.—The Zion Lutheran church was appropriately dedicated yesterday morning by Dr. V. S. Biswell, D. D., of Springfield, Ohio, assisted by the pastor, Rev. D. F. Thomas. The edifice was built in 1880, but the trustees have just remodeled the church. The Northern Indiana Lutheran Synod will meet here the second week of October.

ONE WOMAN'S SORROW.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 1.—The discovery at Muncie of the widow of George L. Mason, of Indiana gas belt fame, working in a factory there, has created surprise throughout the gas region. Mrs. Mason says her husband has abandoned her, and that she had to part with her children, who were sent to Mason's mother at Macon, Ga., to support. Mason was a widely known character through the gas belt in the early days of Marion's boom, and it was he who helped make Marion famous as a manufacturing point. He was a member of the firm of Mason, Wiley & Butler.

He brought excursions of eastern capitalists here and gave banquets for them and induced them to invest thousands of dollars in various enterprises. It was through him that the electric street car lines were built. But he vanished from the city and was afterward heard from at various places as the promoter of some gigantic scheme. He finally became the head of a street car company at Toronto, Canada. His wife was prominent in social affairs, but is now living in poverty, it is said. It was while he was booming affairs here, at Muncie and Anderson that he met Miss Nellie Green and married her and they lived in luxury. It has been four years since the Mason children have seen their father and Mrs. Mason says she does not know where he is.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED

Windfall, Ind., Oct. 1.—Ellsworth Downey, a farmer residing eight miles northeast, aged forty years, was found dead in bed at his home yesterday morning. His wife was sent to the insane hospital last week. The coroner is investigating.

GAMBLING HOUSES CLOSED.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 1.—Marion is no longer a home for gamblers. Mayor Jones gave the sporting fraternity a shock Saturday night when he issued an order that all gambling houses must close. Chief White and his assistants were busy throughout the night communicating the order to the gambling house keepers, and before morning all were in darkness. The new mayor's order was indorsed from every pulpit in the city yesterday and his policy is receiving the encouragement of all the best citizens.

FIVE DOLLARS A BOX.

The Price Cut No Figure With Him.

"I want to say for the benefit of some poor dyspeptic that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will give comfort and a cure every time. Five dollars a box would not stop my purchasing them should I ever suffer again as I did for a week before using them.

The one 50 cent box I bought at my druggist's did the work and my digestion is all right again.

Many of my neighbors have also tried these tablets and found them to be just as represented and Mr. Ellms also wants me to use his name in endorsing Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Signed

A. Ellms and
Chas. F. Buzzell, Asst. Postmaster.
South Sudbury, Mass.

Mrs. Jas. Barton, of Toronto, Canada, writes: For eighteen months I suffered from what I supposed was bladder and kidney trouble, and took medicine from three different doctors, without any sign of cure. I felt so ill at last I was hardly able to do my work.

I thought I would try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and see if they would make me feel better, never really thinking I had dyspepsia, but after only three or four tablets had been taken all the acid trouble disappeared and then I discovered I had had acid dyspepsia, while the doctors had been treating me for kidney and bladder trouble and one of them treated me for rheumatism.

My digestion is fine, my complexion clear and I am able to do my work and low spirits are unknown to me.

I am so thankful for finding a cure so good and so pleasant to take as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I am surprised at the change they have made in me.

All druggists sell and recommend Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they contain only the simple natural digestives, and taken after meals prevent acidity and cause prompt digestion and assimilation of food.

Physicians everywhere endorse them because they are as safe for the child as for the adult; they are invaluable for sour stomach, nervous dyspepsia, heartburn, gas on stomach and bowels and every form of stomach derangement.

HARRY BRILL RESIGNS.

Harry S. Brill surprised the Pennsylvania officials and his railway friends this afternoon by tendering his resignation as general yardmaster at this point for the Pennsylvania company. Mr. Brill has been in the employ of the company for many years, for the past two years in the position from which he now retires. Previous to becoming general yardmaster, Mr. Brill was in the train service, first as brakeman and later freight and extra passenger conductor. He is one of the best railway men in the city and a most congenial and popular gentleman. His successor at the yards has not yet been appointed.

CARBAGE CREMATORY BURNED

Buffalo N. Y., Oct. 1.—The main building of the city garbage crematory known as the Baynes Garbage works on William street just outside of the city line was burned today. Loss, $80,000.

Fred Kaseo has returned from the east, where he has been residing for a year. Mr. Kaseo formerly worked at the electric works in this city.

no matter what offer the companies make, until President Mitchell had been consulted.

A great many of the strikers are willing to accept a 10 per cent. increase but they say they will do nothing to antagonize the officers of the United Mine Workers, since, in the opinion of the strikers, they have conducted affairs successfully so far.

It is the judgment of those here in a position to know that a settlement of the strike depended upon President Mitchell waiving the right of the national executive board, through him, to dictate what terms shall be accepted, and allowing the local unions to decide the matter.

STRIKERS RANKS INTACT.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 1.—There was not a single defection reported from the ranks of the striking mine workers in the Lackawanna region today, despite the report of a 10 per cent wage increase on the part of the mining companies.

Efforts to get another Lackawanna company washery into operation this morning were a failure, as the firemen and engineers who were asked to work there absolutely refused to do so and are reported to have taken the oath of obligation to the United Mine Workers.

General Superintendent Loomis, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, had no statement to make this morning on behalf of the Superintendent's association, but he stated there would be an operators' meeting at Wilkesbarre this afternoon, at which some definite announcements were likely.

At this meeting it is understood representatives of the big financial interests behind the coal carrying railroads will be present.

The strikers hereabouts say they are determined to follow their leaders and that they will not under any circumstances return to work until the official word is given them.

FEW MEN WENT TO WORK.

Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 1.—Although superintendents of the numerous collieries in this portion of the Ninth United Mine Workers' district attempted to start up their mines this morning, few, if any, men went to work.

A few business people expected there would be a stampede of employes of the Reading Coal and Iron company to go underground on account of the company granting an increase of 10 per cent on the net earnings of the men and boys, but they were disappointed.

If anything, less men showed up at the Reading company's workings than at other operations, owing to the strikers and their leaders having canvassed the workmen thoroughly after the posting yesterday of the company's notices informing the miners of the concession.

The canvassers pointed out that nothing was said about a reasonable reduction on the cost of powder, the abolishment of the sliding scale or the granting of other important concessions.

Long before daybreak all of the Reading company's men had determined not to go to work. It is generally agreed by most, if not all of the strikers, that they will not go to work until officially advised by President Mitchell.

There was no violence anywhere in the district this morning. Committees of strikers lined all avenues leading to the mines to guard against men going to work, but as few left their homes the sentinels had little or nothing to do.

READING UNABLE TO RESUME

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 1.—District Superintendent Adam Boyd, of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, said today that the Reading company collieries in this vicinity were unable to resume operations today because none of the mine workers had seen fit to avail themselves of the increase in wages. The collieries, Mr. Boyd said, are in readiness to begin work in just as soon as strikers care to go back. The superintendents estimated that 27,000 mine workers are idle by reason of the strike in the Reading company's mines.

The Twelfth regiment, with the exception of one company, left for home over the Pennsylvania railroad today.

The remaining company will depart with the tents as soon as the canvas is dry, an early morning shower having saturated them.

NO NEED OF CONVENTION.

Hazelton, Pa., Oct. 1.—President Mitchell again reiterated this afternoon that, notwithstanding the reports to the contrary, he is not preparing to issue the call for a convention nor does he contemplate at this time the issuance of such a call. He said there is nothing in the situation at present which will suggest the necessity of bringing together the delegates, but he intimated that something might be developed at any time which would require him to call a convention on one day's notice.

He would not say that he is looking for any sudden turn in the situation.

FIND BABY FONDLING BEAR.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 1.—The lost baby and the big black bear furnished a Sabbath sensation at police headquarters that lasted Chief Price and his men all day. Lizzie, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Self, was missed by her parents Saturday evening, who had left her playing on the sidewalk in front of the family home on Canton street. After searching for the child for an hour Mr. and Mrs. Self notified the police and a general search throughout the city was instituted. About 7 o'clock yesterday morning two officers riding through the section of the city park in which the "zoo" is located discovered Lizzie seated in front of the cage in which the big black bear is confined. The child's feet and arms were extended inside the cage between the bars of the structure and the little one was gleefully prattling to and petting the big brute. Lizzie was taken to headquarters and restored to her parents. Chief Price, who used to be a Texas ranger, remarked to the child's parents and the newspaper men, "If that had been me or one of the force that had taken such liberties with 'Big Ben' he'd chew an arm or leg off for us, to say the least. God took care of the baby."

AN INJUNCTION DENIED.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 1.—An application of the Chicago board of trade for a temporary injunction restraining the Milwaukee outside committeemen brokers from making use of the Chicago quotations, was denied by Judge Seaman today. The answers of the brokers, the court said, raise an issue as to whether the board of trade had lost its right of property in the quotations by publication. This, the court ruled, can only be determined by the taking of proofs. The case will be sent to a referee to take testimony.

PRESIDENT OF BELL CO DIES.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 1.—John E. Hudson, president of the American Bell Telephone company, died suddenly in the Boston and Maine railroad station at Beverly Farms today while waiting for a train.

The First Ward Democratic club will hold a meeting this evening in Weick's barn on Hanna street, and Phil B. Colerick will deliver an address. All democrats of the ward are expected to attend.

A SHORT STORY

"THEY SAY."

Have you heard of the terrible family, "They,"
And the dreadful venomous things they say?
Why, he'll the gossip under the sun
If you trace it back, will find begun
In that wretched home of "They."

A hum-ruin family, so I am told,
And its general spirit is "if
For ever source 'mongst all I've began
To build up the comfortable of man
Has entered the house of "They."

Gossips in secrets and spinsters of lies
Hound people whom all despise;
And yet the best of us now and then
Repeat queer tales about women and men
And quote the views of "They."

They live like lions and never labor
A "They's" one task is to watch his neighbor
And tell his business and private affairs.
To the world at large they are sowers of tares—
Those folks in the house of "They."

It is wholly useless to follow a "They"
With a whip or a gun, for he slips away
And into his house where you cannot go,
It is locked and bolted and guarded so—
This horrible house of "They."

Though you cannot get in, yet they get out
And spread their villainous tales about.
Of all the rascals under the sun
Who have come to punishment never one
Belongs to the house of "They."

—Ella Wheeler Wilcox.

My Wedding Day.

A Romance of Concord and Lexington

By L. G. Woodberry.

Well, as I was saying, this is the way it came about: I was a young thing then, just turned 18. Your grandfather had been my playmate, hero and protector from the time that I was old enough to go to school. I had never thought of marrying any one but him, and so when he asked me to be his wife, why, of course I said "Yes."

Well, it was in the spring of 1775 that we were to be married. Mother and I spent the winter getting my things made up, and I had as fine an outfit as a girl could possibly have in those days. The day set for the wedding was the 19th of April—yes, the very day on which the battle of Lexington occurred, as I have good reason to remember.

Those were anxious days for us. I remember how serious my father and brothers used to look as they discussed the events which were then taking place. Their only conversation was about rights, stamps and taxes.

When the towns began to raise "minutemen," why of course, we raised a company in our town and your grandfather and my brothers were members of it. We girls could not stand guard, of course, so in order to show our patriotism we all signed a paper in which we agreed not to have anything to do with the men of the town who refused to join the company.

The 19th of April was a beautiful day, though a warm one for the season. We were all up early that morning, for there was a great deal to be done. It was about 9 o'clock in the forenoon when my mother, who had been looking over some linen, suddenly raised her head, exclaiming as she did so, "Why Mary, was that the meeting house bell?"

"What can it mean?" I cried, and, running to the window, I caught sight of our neighbor's sons, Joe and John Eaton, running down the road with their guns. Across the way Harry Wright was plowing the field. The boys called out to him as they passed and, without stopping to unhitch the horse, he seized his gun and was off across the fields.

"It is an alarm mother!" I cried.

"The boys are down by the brook," she said. "The sound will not reach them. Run and tell them!"

Without delay I hurried to the kitchen, and, seizing the horn, I ran out of the house and started for the brook, which was some distance from the house. I blew a blast on the horn as I ran, and as the boys caught sight of me I pointed toward the road, where several men could be seen running with their guns. The boys understood and waving their hands to me, they were off across the field to the road.

"What do you suppose the matter is?" asked mother when I returned to the house.

"I do not know," was my reply, "but I am going to find out." And I ran out of the house and took a short cut across the fields to the meeting house, which was to be the gathering place if the alarm should ever be sounded. I, for one, had never expected to hear any alarm, for at home we hoped for a peaceful settlement of the difficulties. But when I reached the church and saw the whole town gathered on the green the men's stern air and the women's pale faces frightened me, and I began to fear that something serious was the matter.

"What is it? Where are they going?" I asked. And as I spoke the men came hurrying out of the meeting house, when I they had heard a few words from Parson Smith, and mounting their horses, rode off as fast as they could go. I looked for your grandfather, but he was not there. Catching sight of my father, I ran to him. "Have you seen Henry?" (that's your grandfather) I asked.

"Henry was at the tavern when the messenger rode through here," replied my father, "and, as he had his horse with him, he rode away without waiting for the company to assemble."

You may imagine my feelings as I turned to go home. This was my wedding day, and the man who was to marry me had ridden off without a word, knowing too, that he might never return. If all they were saying about fights and resistance was true.

My father had reached home before me, and as I opened the door I heard mother ask, "Do you think it is anything serious, father?"

"I am afraid it may be, wife," he said. "The messenger said that Governor Gage has sent some of the king's troops to destroy the supplies which have been stored at Concord. If the report is true, there will be resistance, and if it comes to that it will be very serious business for us."

My mother kept her fears to herself and did her best to make me feel that it would come out all right, but those hours were the most anxious I ever spent. So though the day we watched and waited for news.

The first news that came to us from the fight at Lexington and the other doings of that day arrived about 6 o'clock in the afternoon, when some minutemen from another town stopped at the tavern on their way home. They told the story of the day to the little crowd of anxious women who eagerly questioned them for news of some dear one.

My father would not let me go down to the tavern, but went down himself and brought us the news. I can see him now hurrying along the road.

"Something unusual has happened, Mary," exclaimed my mother. "I never saw your father look so excited."

I hastened down the path to meet him.

"Bad news my child; bad news!" he exclaimed. "There has been an encounter with the king's troops." And then, reading the question in my eyes, he continued, "But they brought no news of our men."

The hour set for the wedding was 8 o'clock, but it began to look as if there would be no wedding, for it was now after 7 o'clock, and none of our men had returned home.

Mother and I sat in silence in the kitchen while father walked back and forth in the room above.

At last we heard steps outside, and then my brother Arthur, who was among the first to reach home, staggered into the room. I sprang up and ran to him. He sank into the nearest chair, and his gun fell to the floor with a thud. Arthur was only a boy of 15, you must remember, and the day had been a terrible one.

When he had recovered a little, my father spoke. "What news do you bring, my son?" he asked.

Now, I had felt from the first that he had brought bad news, and by the way he hesitated and glanced from father to me and still did not speak I felt sure of it. So I put my worst fears into words.

"Arthur," I said, "is it Henry?"

"Listen," he said, speaking rapidly. "The king's troops were in full retreat when we reached the road. We did not keep with our companies, but each one found shelter as he was able behind trees, walls or fences. I met Henry as I was crossing a field, and we took shelter together and awaited the coming of the troops. We had just got settled when Henry caught sight of a flanking party coming right down on us. He called to the men near us to run for their lives, and at the same time we both jumped the wall and ran for a house which stood in in the field just opposite. I reached the opposite wall in safety and turned round to look for Henry, but he was not with me. At that moment the troops came round a sudden turn in the road and sent some shots in our direction. At the risk of being shot at I stood up and looked across the road. He must have been hit by the flanking party, for he lay just by the wall."

"Are you sure it was he?" asked father.

"Yes; I knew him by the green on his powderhorn," replied my brother.

"You staid by and looked after him?" asked father.

"I tried to, sir, but the troops came down on us, and we were obliged to move on. I went back to the place as soon as I could, but I must have mistaken the spot, for I could not find him."

Meanwhile I sat in my chair, feeling as if I had just awakened from a bad dream. I did not fully realize what had happened, for it seemed impossible.

"There are some people, Mary," said mother. "You would better go up to your room and lie down."

I did as I was told. There on the bed lay my wedding gown. I could not bear to look at it, and, picking it up, I placed it in the large chest in which my linen was packed and pulled down the lid, then I threw myself on the bed, and tears came to my relief. So I lay there thinking over the events of the day, my wedding day that was to have been. How different from what I had anticipated!

Suddenly I heard the sound of a horse's feet coming up the road at a furious pace. I sat up and listened. "Somebody is riding on an important errand," I said to myself. Nearer and nearer came the sound, and the rider, whoever he was, drew rein at our door. Then there was a murmur of voices and an opening and shutting of doors and then my mother's voice calling to me: "Mary, Mary; child, come down! Henry is here. He's come."

Scarcely believing that I heard aright, I got up and ran down stairs and into the kitchen, and there before me, his face pale as death, with a blood stained bandage bound about his forehead, stood your grandfather.

"Mary," he cried, holding out his hands to me, "I am in time! The clock has not struck yet!"

Then Parson Elder, who had come over to hear the news from Arthur, came forward and said, "Shall I perform the ceremony now?"

So right then and there your grandfather, in his working clothes, all stained with dust and blood, and I in my morning calico, were married.—Forward.

What Hurts.

"The other side," observed the candidate in much apprehension, "are putting some damaging reports in circulation."

"But no money to speak of," rejoined the chairman of the campaign committee complacently.—Detroit Journal.

THE BATTERS COULDN'T HIT

ERRORS WERE PLENTIFUL—BIG LEAGUE SCORES.

The Fort Waynes are winners of the post-season series with the Daytons, champions of the Inter-State league, and there are "fans" in Fort Wayne who believe that the local team could easily have won every game of the seven played. The result of the series stands five victories for Fort Wayne and two for Dayton, and in only two games did the champions show anything like championship form and Fort Wayneites wonder more than ever now how Manager Armour's youngsters ever won the pennant.

There was a double-header at League park yesterday and Fort Wayne won both games, and the Hoosiers will divide 60 per cent. of the receipts, while the champions will get the other 40 per cent. to split with each other, providing there is anything left when the expenses are paid. Fricken and Wicker were opposing twirlers in the first game, and the light-haired Dayton twirler did the best work, but the support he received from his catcher was very yellow, indeed. The other errors made by the champion players were quite costly. Umpire Hubbard made decisions on which both sides kicked, but Dayton got none the worst of it. Wicker led the hitting, putting the ball against the right field fence in the second inning and over the fence in the ninth.

The second game was a walkaway for Fort Wayne. The Daytons gave a miserable exhibition of fielding and Gilpatrick was very ineffective, being very wild. Wadsworth kept hits scattered and not a run was scored by the champions. Score:

SATURDAY'S GAME.

The Daytons won Saturday's game on account of Watkins' effective twirling. The little southpaw made no effort to strike out batsmen, but allowed them to hit the ball, which generally went right into the hands of some waiting fielder. Swaim was struck by one of Myers' hot ones and his leg so badly injured that he retired from the game, Cooper, succeeding him. Cooper was very effective, but the Fort Waynes couldn't get a run. INTER-STATE MEETING.

President Mautner has received notice that the regular fall meeting of the Inter-State league will be held in Dayton this week and he will attend. The meeting promises to be the most important in the history of the league and it is a foregone conclusion that there will be some changes in the circuit, but no one appears to know just what these changes will be, although it is believed that New Castle will be dropped and possibly Wheeling will quit. The New Castle management failed to pay all the salaries due the Quaker players and it is generally supposed that the Pennsylvania town will make no effort to remain in the league. The street railway company in Wheeling backed the Stogie team during the latter part of the season and it is not believed the company will care to keep the club next season, especially if all the other cities are hundreds of miles away. It is possible that Grand Rapids and Saginaw may be selected to fill the vacancies, and there is also some talk of Terre Haute being elected to membership. Should this be done the circuit will be Fort Wayne, Toledo, Dayton, Mansfield, Anderson, Marion, Grand Rapids and Saginaw. Marion, being a very small city, may be dropped and Terre Haute selected in place of the gas town. But these are questions to be settled at the meeting and not by the newspapers. President Power has stated that he will not again be a candidate for the presidency. The league should be careful in choosing a successor, as more depends on the filling of the presidency than on the selection of new cities to make up the circuit. For four years has President Power kept the Inter-State league on its feet and if he positively refuses to accept a re-election the magnates should move slowly before choosing his successor. Here's hoping that a compact circuit will be selected and a competent president chosen at the Dayton meeting.

THE ENGLISH ELECTIONS.

London, Oct. 1.—Sixteen English and Irish boroughs, electing twenty members of the house of commons, are polling today, so tonight's returns will furnish some indication of the trend of opinion. Winston Churchill is among the candidates whose fate will be decided today. Another long list of unopposed returns brings the total number of those already elected up to 2:30 p. m. today to 110 as follows. Conservatives, 78; unionists, 18; liberals, 8; nationalists, 6.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Wheat started weak today, Nov. ⅜c under Saturday at 76¼c to 76⅜c. This was due to the heavy deliveries, 2,000,000 bushels, lower Liverpool cables and the heavy world's shipment which aggregated 8,350,000 bushels. The sentiment turned on threatening weather in the northwest and buying by locals and November rallied to 77c. Local receipts were 350 cars, 10 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 857 cars against 850 last week and 1,354 a year ago.

The strength of northwestern markets and a visible increase of only 410,000 bushels were a help to the market later. November advanced and closed strong, ⅝@⅝c higher at 77⅜@77¾c.

Local receipts of corn were 1,184 and the market opened easier, November ½c lower at 36½c. Deliveries were only 35,000 bushels, however, and world's shipments light, 2,812,000 bushels, and these two considerations were influential in a rally to 37c.

The close was firm, November ½c higher at 37½c.

Oats were quiet and sympathized with wheat and corn. November opened a shade down at 22½@22¼c and sold to 22¾@22⅝c. Receipts were 443 cars.

Provisions were firm on the light deliveries. January pork opened unchanged at $11.60 and advanced to $11.70; January lard a shade lower at $6.77½, selling to $6.82½, and January ribs a shade higher at $6.20 @6.22½, rallying to $6.25.

THE CLOSE.

Prices at the close were as follows:

Wheat—Oct., 76⅞c; Nov., 77⅜@77¾c; Dec., 78⅜c.

Corn—Oct., 39¼c; Nov., 34⅜c; Dec., 34½@34⅝c; May, 35⅜@35¾c.

Oats—Oct., 21½@22 c; Nov., 22⅜@22½c; Dec., 22¾@22⅞c; May, 24¾c.

Pork—Oct., $12.57½; Nov., $11.45; Jan., $11.72½.

Lard—Oct., $7.17½; Nov., $7.15@7.17½; Dec., $6.95@6.97½; Jan., $6.85@6.87½.

Ribs—Oct. $7.80; Nov., $7.35; Jan., $6.27½.

Flax—Cash N. W., $1.47½@1.48¾; Cash S. W., $1.46½@1.47¾; Oct., $1.46½; Dec., $1.47@1.47½.

CHICAGO LIVE STOCK.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Cattle—Receipts, 26,000, including 6,000 westerns and 1,000 Texans; choice about steady; others 10c lower; butchers' stock weak. Good to prime steers, $5.40@5.85; poor to medium, $4.70@5.30; stockers and feeders, $2.00@2.60; bulls, $2.65@4.40; calves, $4.50@6.50; Texas fed steers, $4.10@4.90; Texas grass steers, $3.25@4.00; Texas bulls $2.40@3.25.

Hogs—Receipts today, 14,000; tomorrow, 20,000; left over, 4,652. Market weak to 5c lower; choice about steady; others weak. Mixed and butchers, $5.00@5.60; good to choice heavy, $5.00@5.45; rough heavy, $4.85@4.95; light, 5c lower, $5.10@5.50; bulk of sales, $5.17½@5.37½.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 1.—Changes were much mixed at the opening of the stock market, but the Southwestern Grangers and the leading specialties were higher as a rule. American Tobacco was up a point, and New York Central gained a sharp fraction. Generally the changes were small.

An upward movement in the Steel group obtained great headway in the first hour, Pressed Steel Car gaining 2 points, Tennessee Coal 1¾ and kindred stocks large fractions. There was also a good demand for Sugar, People's Gas and Brooklyn Transit, which responded about a point. In a few of the railroads good gains were made, but the majority moved narrowly. Very heavy buying of Union Pacific advanced it 1¼.

Railroad stocks were in larger demand than for a long time and the specialties fell somewhat into the background. Improvements of a point or more were made by some of the western trunk lines, Southwestern and Pacific stocks. Sugar spurted up to 113 and Manhattan to 88.

Bonds were quiet and irregular.

THE MONEY MARKET.

New York, Oct. 1.—Money on call nominally at 2 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4¾@5½ per cent; sterling exchange weak with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.85½ @4.85¾ for demand and at $4.82@4.82¼ for 60 days; posted rates, $4.82½@4.83⅛ and $4.86½@4.87; commercial bills, $4.81¼@4.81¾; silver certificates, 63½@64¼c; bar silver, 63⅜c; Mexican dollars, 49⅞c.

NEW YORK PRODUCE.

New York, Oct. 1.—Butter—Receipts, 5,956 pkgs; market quiet; creamery, 17@22c; June creamery, 18@21½c; factory, 13½@16½c.

DEATH'S RECORD OF THE DAY

MRS. CHRISTINA HAKE EXPIRED THIS MORNING.

Was the Widow of a Former Prominent German Citizen—Other Mortuary Matters.

Mrs. Christina Hake died at 9:30 o'clock this morning at her residence, 28 Wells street. Mrs. Hake was the widow of the late Frank Hake, formerly a well known German citizen of this city who died nearly six years ago.

Mrs. Hake has been in poor health for several weeks and her death was due to an attack of penumonia, combined with the infirmities of her advanced years. She was born in Germany sixty-nine years ago, and came with her husband to Fort Wayne in 1866, since which date this city has been continuously her home.

Her marriage to Mr. Hake occurred forty-three years ago, and to them were born eight children, five of whom survive. They are Mrs. Mary Dennis, Mrs. Regina Henkenius, Mrs. Christina Himbert and Mrs. Lena Bieker, of this city, the latter making her home with the mother, and Mrs. Nettie Thone, of Peoria Ill.

Mrs. Hake possessed a wide acquaintance and was universally esteemed as a kind, devoted Christian woman. She was for many years a member of St. Paul's Catholic church, and at the time of her death held membership in the Church of the Prescious Blood.

The funeral services will be announced later.

NIERMANN.

Delbert Nierman, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Niermann, of 410 Broadway, died at 11 o'clock Saturday night from inflammation of the bowels, at the age of three years and ten months.

Funeral services will be held from the residence Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Lindenwood.

FUNERAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Parnin.—Funeral services of Adolph Parnin will be held Tuesday morning at 9:30 from the residence, 5 Fulton street, and at 10 o'clock from the Cathedral. In the notice of Mr. Parnin's death previously published the name of a son, Louis Parnin, of Minneapolis, Minn., was inadvertently omitted.

Reid.—Funeral services of Francis M. Reid will be held from the residence, 5 Romy avenue, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

The funeral services will be under the auspices of the Fort Wayne Amateur Driving club, of which the young man was a member.

PASTOR DIES IN HIS PULPIT.

New York, Oct. 1.—Rev. Dr. Gilbert H. Gregory expired yesterday in the presence of his congregation at the morning service in St. Stephen's M. E. church, Marble Hill, at the upper end of Manhattan island. Dr. Gregory's physician had urged him to retire from active church work, as he had long been a sufferer from heart trouble. They told him that he might live for years if he would cease to labor, but if he continued to work he was liable to be stricken at any moment. The clergyman replied: "I prefer to meet death in that way to retiring and shirking my duty in order to live longer." The service had progressed to the singing of a hymn which precedes the sermon. Dr. Gregory arose and read three verses of the hymn, beginning "Lord, divine, all love excelling." While the music of the anthem filled the church Dr. Gregory seated himself and then fell limp over one of the arms of the chair. Members of the congregation went to his assistance and two physicians who happened to be passing the church were called in. But the minister was beyond human aid and in five minutes from the time that he was stricken Dr. Gregory was dead. Dr. Gregory was born in Medina, N. Y. He was 63 years of age.

A SIGH AND A SONG.

Love's a sigh and love's a song,
Love's a gloom and glory;
Shall we linger with him long—
Hear the old sweet story?
Heights to climb and deeds to do;
Shall we dream the springtime thro

Welladay! Love leads to May;
Though the winter's round us,
Somehow, in his artful way,
With a wreath he's crowned us.
Heights to climb and deeds to do,
Shall we dream a lifetime through?

Yes, if love in gloom and gleam
Come in sweetest seeming;
If he but direct the dream,
Sweet will be the dreaming!
Shall we only dream and go?
Yes, if love will have it so.

A LUCKY BLUNDER.

It Kept John Hobbs From Marrying the Wrong Girl and Led Him to Marry the Right One.

It was just 3:30 by the dusty clock that did duty in the editor's office of The Daily Telegram, when John Hobbs, manager and general factotum for that enterprising paper, from which he derived a snug little income, suddenly remembered the day of the week. It was Thursday and on the following evening the most select concert of the season would take place, where the social set of Wrensville would be in evidence.

Now for nearly a year John had been a frequent and more or less regular caller on Miss Mabelle Whitney, the very pretty daughter of a very rich merchant.

He had intended to invite her all along, but this delay in his invitation might mean a disappointment. He would soon know and why not embody in his note a declaration of his affections, and so put to the test whether she returned his love or not. This seemed a happy thought, so he began:

My Dear Friend—May I hope for the pleasure of your company at the concert tomorrow evening by the Singers' club? I have a question to ask you, the answer to which will make me either the most miserable or happiest of men. If you accept my invitation to the concert, I shall understand your answer will not be "No" to the more momentous question, and a refusal of my invitation I shall consider as a refusal of yours, with deepest regard, JOHN ELLIOTT HOBBS.

For a man of so brilliant a mind this was really a very lame proposal, but John signed his name with a consciousness of having said just enough and not too much, feeling quite sure in the depths of his honest devotion to her that her answer would be what he hoped. With this load off his mind he turned to the perusal of his afternoon mail, with which his desk was littered.

Another story from the pen of Miss Davenport. Well, this one he had better reject, for she was really getting beyond her depth, or so it seemed to him. To be sure, she sketched her characters with an artist's skill and was decidedly original in plot and action, but the public, his public, must be amused, and her heroines never seemed happy, and, what was more, never married the heroes, nor any one else, for that matter. He did not want to personally say "no" to this girl, in whom unconsciously he had become so interested and whom he recognized as a clever writer, sure to win for herself a name in the world. But he had already made up his mind not to accept more of her work, and so taking up the stub pen which had certainly seen better days, he dashed off as follows:

My Dear Madam—Notwithstanding our appreciation of and admiration for your style we find we must discontinue acceptance for the present. Trusting to be of service at some future date, I am, yours very truly, JOHN ELLIOTT HOBBS.

"I flatter myself that is neatly done," thought John, so hastily placing the notes in their respective envelopes and addressing the same he rang for the office boy.

Friday morning dawned dull and rainy, with little prospect of clearing weather, and as John sat in his office his courage and spirits were at ebb tide. It was all owing to the weather, he thought, and not a premonition of failure. Anyway he had stopped at the florist's and ordered a box of gorgeous violets sent his love, and they must be received by this time.

Just then the postman opened the door. Not a line from her in this mail, only some advertisements, a bill or two, three cards of invitation, a check, thanks for that, and last of all, a small envelope in the well known handwriting of Miss Davenport. A reply to his dismissal of the day before, he presumed, and, fearing to open the note he read:

My Dear Mr. Hobbs—The contents of your letter, although a very great surprise to me, have made me very happy. It is hardly necessary for me to add that I "accept" your invitation and shall expect you this evening. With regards from my mother and self, I am, most sincerely,
MIRANDA E. DAVENPORT.

What did it mean. What invitation did she accept and why should his letter make her very happy? Quite the reverse, he had supposed. It sounded like some mystery of romance from her versatile pen, but it was no jesting matter he reflected, remembering the concert and his anxiety of mind concerning his answer from Miss Whitney. Just then, in his reflection, the door was flung open and a messenger boy sang out: "Mr. Hobbs! Very important. No answer." And depositing a package handed John his book for signature. John recognized the handwriting of the address and hastily tore it open. A large bunch of violets met his astonished gaze and a letter, which read as follows:

Mr. Hobbs:

Sir—Allow me to return your property, which by some mistake was sent to me. As to my style, I consider it presumptuous on your part to pass any comment on what cannot possibly be of interest or concern of yours. I most heartily indorse your desire to discontinue all future correspondence, as your insults are only less clever than your compliments. Yours, etc.,
MARGERIE WHITNEY.

Poor John read it with sinking heart, too utterly miserable to express the surprise it merited. Another riddle

NOTES OF THE DAY.

One of the Liverpool clergy of the Established Church of England is trying to employ church women as regular supplementary curates, and he suggests that much organizing work of the parish might be better done by women than by clergymen. He declares that he can get three women to work for the price of one curate and to do three times the work.

It has developed that the majority of motor bicycles which have proved impracticable were unsuccessful because their builders placed the motor too high. This caused a tendency to slip when rounding corners. Other builders, in an effort to overcome this very defect, have placed their motors so low that there was danger of striking the ground when going over rough places.

M. Gain has examined the structure of the embryo of grains of wheat and barley obtained from Egyptian mummy cases and finds that although the grains have undergone but little change in external appearance, and the reserve substances have retained their chemical composition, the chemical composition of the embryo has been completely altered, and it is no longer capable of development.

An Audrain county, Missouri, man found that he could not live happily with his wife, and rather than sue for a divorce they signed a deed of separation which was filed with the county recorder. It is said to be the first instrument of the kind ever on record in Missouri. It divides the property and is more binding than a decree of divorce, in that it forever separates the contracting parties and provides against any reconciliation in the future.

NO. 21 MAKES A FAST RUN

FORT WAYNE TO CHICAGO IN THREE HOURS.

CHANGE IN FREIGHT OFFICE

AGENT KIRKLAND REVISES HIS CLERICAL FORCE.

A month ago The Sentinel stated that Will and Ferd Urbahns would retire from the Nickel Plate's employ to engage in the life insurance business. The change occurred today and with it came several changes in the ranks of the dispatchers and telegraphers in Mr. Blair's and Mr. Caldwell's offices. Ferd Urbahns, who was Mr. Blair's chief clerk, has been succeeded by L. Bart, a telegrapher. This is the only change in that office. In the dispatcher's office, J. T. Callahan has been transferred from the night to the day trick, succeeding Will Urbahns, and will have the trick between the hours of 7:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. Leroy Hartzler takes the night trick vacated by Mr. Callahan. This promotes Operator W. C Kerr to dispatcher and Frank Logue to extra dispatcher. There may be one or two other changes resulting from those mentioned in the foregoing, but they have not been fully decided upon. In the case of Messrs. Callahan and Hartzler, the change is simply a desirable transfer, but in the case of Messrs. Kerr, Logue and Bart it is a decided promotion, and The Sentinel congratulates them. They are competent and faithful in the performance of their duties and further promotions will surely be their lot.

SHORTAGE OF EQUIPMENT.

Traffic managers of eastern railroads are worrying over the unusual shortage of freight cars. They declare that it is almost impossible to secure sufficient equipment, and that serious conditions are rapidly gaining shape. This shortage, unless speedily relieved, may result in a car famine similar to that which recently existed in Kansas City and other important Missouri river points. According to some of the traffic men the immediate cause of this demand for cars is the tremendous amount of freight that the roads are called upon to carry, both east and westbound. According to others the shortage in part is due to a shortage in ocean tonnage. The freight yards of the various roads are filled with cars waiting to be unloaded, and freight for shipment is piling up faster than it can be handled. A well-informed traffic official Saturday said that in the neighborhood of 20,000 cars were tied up in the various Atlantic ports. The central freight lines are among the greatest sufferers from this state of affairs.

OFF FOR MEXICO CITY.

R G. Thompson, of the Wabash railroad, will leave next week for Denver, going thence to the City of Mexico. This trip is made now to perfect the advance arrangements for entertaining his guests on the occasion of the 1901 tour of Mexico, which will leave the latter part of next February. The Wabash Mexico tour last season was received with such marked favor that another is being arranged which will embrace not only the same royal appointments, but the most comprehensive itinerary that has yet been offered. Mr. Thompson will be accompanied on his trip next week by Master Mechanic G. S. McKee, of this city, and H. V. P. Taylor, of St. Louis, assistant general passenger agent of the Wabash. The trip will consume a couple of weeks.

CHANGES IN FREIGHT CLERKS.

This morning there was a change in the clerical force at the Pittsburg freight offices, brought about by the resignation of two men. The retiring ones are Fred McCracken, rate clerk, and Joseph Trentman, messenger. W. R. Gerberding has been promoted to the office of rate clerk and Fred Clausmeier has been appointed messenger. Mr. Gardner, who came from the Chicago office, has been appointed second assistant cashier. Young Clausmeier is a son of ex-Sheriff Clausmeier. Fred McCracken will join his father in the insurance business.

VERY CREDITABLE RUN.

Engineer Herman Durnell, who was at the throttle of engine 283, hauling Pennsylvania train No. 21 yesterday, made a remarkable run to Chicago. The train consisted of one baggage, one express, one dining, one special, one combination, three sleeping cars and a coach—nine in all—and it covered the distance in quick time for a train of that size. It left one hour and twenty-seven minutes late and when it went into Chicago it was just fourteen minutes behind schedule time. From Fort Wayne to Clark Junction the train averaged forty-nine miles per hour, which includes three station stops and one stop for water. Excluding stops, the rate was fifty-four miles per hour. The sixty-two miles between Plymouth and Clark Junction, including a stop at Valparaiso, was covered in sixty-nine minutes. From Valparaiso to Clark Junction, twenty-two miles, the train traveled at the rate of 57.3 miles per hour, covering the distance in twenty-three minutes. This run, considering the weight of the train, beats any previous runs on record. The train also made a good run from Crestline to Fort Wayne, making up ten minutes of lost time en route. On this part of the run the conditions were not favorable to speed. Engineer J. C. McCarthy was at the throttle. No. 283 is a class K engine, which was designed by Fort Wayne men and built in this city in 1892. In many respects they are superior to any engines now owned by the company.

ONE MORE TOLEDO EXCURSION.

On account of the union meeting of the railway organizations at Toledo, the Wabash has been requested to make a special rate next Sunday and has agreed to do so. If there is evidence that the crowd will be of considerable proportions, the Wabash will run a special train to Toledo on that occasion, starting the train from Peru. All of the five great railway organizations will participate in the union meeting at Toledo

JURISDICTION EXTENDED.

W F Beardsley, master mechanic of the Toledo division of the Pennsylvania company lines, with headquarters at Crestline, Ohio, has had his jurisdiction extended to the Marietta division of the system, vice J. Glaser, who has resigned. This order went into effect this morning.

DONS THE WORKING JACKET.

N J. Eichhorn, who recently retired from the office of the storekeeper for the shop department of the Wabash, this morning entered the mechanical department to complete his trade. He was assigned to the erecting department in the locomotive repair shop. The clerical department does not afford opportunities for advancement that the mechanical department does and it is on this account that Mr. Eichhorn makes the change.

GEO SCHMOLL TRANSFERRED.

As predicted in The Sentinel several days ago, George A. Schmoll has been transferred from Wellsville to Allegheny City and made general foreman of the Pennsylvania company's shops, succeeding Charles W. Cross, resigned to go with the Lake Shore. This change is in line of promotion, as Mr. Schmoll will have a good many more men under him at Allegheny than he had at Wellsville and there is a corresponding increase in salary. No appointment to the Wellsville position has been made.

John Shoup, the Nickel Plate brakeman who was killed at Linden last week, was buried at Findlay yesterday. The car shortage has extended to eastern territory. Roads between Buffalo and Chicago and St Louis report that, whereas, recently, their sidetracks were congested with empty freight cars, the demand now largely exceeds the available supply Western roads are having all the traffic they can readily handle.

An official of the Pennsylvania says the profits from the seashore travel this summer have been very large. The company has carried large crowds on its regular trains, and, besides, ran numerous excursion trains from Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and other points. Atlantic City has been well patronized by western people.

In future the Rock Island will refuse to haul private cars used by theatrical companies unless they are provided with steel wheels and are in a condition to stand a rigid examination. DR. ADAMS TO REST.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 1.—Dr. Charles Kendall Adams, president of the University of Wisconsin, has temporarily retired from the management of the University and will travel for his health. The board of regents formally announced yesterday that Dr. Adams had been given leave of absence for a year on half pay, owing to the unsatisfactory condition of his health. The president recently submitted to a thorough examination and the regents assert positively that as a result they are assured that his malady is curable. All traces of the organic disease are disappearing, and it is thought that a change of air, in a warm, equitable climate, with freedom from care, will speedily build him up to perfect health. Dean E. A. Birge has been chosen as acting president during the absence of Dr. Adams President Adams has been at the head of the University of Wisconsin since September 14, 1892. He resigned the presidency of Cornell to accept the position, and under his able administration the Badger state college has made substantial progress.

VOTING IN CONNECTICUT.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 1.—The "little town" elections, annual affairs, are in progress in Connecticut today in all but six of the 168 towns in the state. City elections are being held also in Norwalk South Norwalk and New London. The two Norwalks are balloting for a full city government, while New London is choosing a mayor and one-third of the city council In the town elections the following offices are filled: Town clerk, treasurer, selectmen, constables, collectors grand jurors, assessors, registrars of voters and school visitors. In the years of state and national elections these little elections preceding the more important contests by the narrow margin of a month, practically, are taken by many as straws indicating November possibilities.

ARIZONA'S CAMPAIGN.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 1.—The political campaign in the territory will formally open this week. The two rival democratic candidates for delegates to congress, Mark Smith and J. F Wilson, will fight it out, holding separate meetings. Statehood has been made the rallying cry by both republicans and democrats.

Since the close of the Franco-German war Germany has been at peace; she has none of the extraordinary expenses that war brings. The result of that contest brought her, in addition to the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, the enormous sum of $1,000,000 in cash. She should be, therefore, in fairly prosperous condition; yet, according to the Freisinnige Zeitung, the debt of the empire has been trebled since the death of Emperor William, which occurred shortly after the war.

The indigo production in Java is rapidly falling off. Many of the planters are growing tobacco instead. The artificial product is steadily displacing it. A new process is being used, however, which permits of obtaining a higher percentage of coloring matter from the leaf and also produces a purer indigo.

STRIKERS ARE FIRM

Reading Company's Offer of a 10 Per Cent. Raise of Wages is Ignored by the Men.

FEWER COLLIERIES ARE WORKING

Hazelton, Pa., Oct. 1.—President Mitchell at noon today said:

"The strike is practically complete and there will be no resumption of work without there first being a convention representing every colliery in the anthracite field. The prediction I made yesterday that no attention would be paid to the notices by the Reading company conceding a 10 per cent advance has proven true.

"Our reports from the Panther Creek valley indicate that this heretofore impregnable portion of the anthracite region has declared its intention of suspending operations at once.

"Accompanied by the national board members, I shall go to Wilkesbarre tomorrow to attend a great labor demonstration which will be participated in by fully 25,000 men."

MINERS IGNORE WAGE RAISE.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 1.—The notice posted yesterday by the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, announcing an increase in wages of 10 per cent. to all of its employes was ignored by the striking mine workers and none of them went to the workings this morning.

It was the impression here last night that no attempt would be made today to operate the idle collieries and this feeling was strengthened by the fact that the soldiers were not ordered to patrol the roads at an early hour today.

The governor's troop and battery C went on a practice march at 8 o'clock, but this was not significant.

General Gobin was prepared for trouble in the Panther Creek valley today. The Lehigh Coal and Navigation company collieries are located there and that is the only section of the anthracite region yet affected by the strike.

The fact of the strikers going from Hazleton last night to Lansford and Coaldale, both in the Panther Creek region, led Superintendent Gebner, of the Lehigh Coal and Navigation company to believe an attempt would be made to induce the men to quit. Sheriff Toole was in communication with General Gobin until a late hour last night and at 2 o'clock this morning Thomas Reese, a special deputy, went to Langsford to learn the situation.

At 6 o'clock he informed General Gobin by telephone that no attempt was made to interfere with the mine workers in that vicinity. He said meetings were held last night by the strikers, who afterward returned peaceably to their homes.

STRIKERS ON MARCH.

Hazelton, Pa., Oct. 1.—Another march, with the Calvin Pardee collieries at Lattimer, five miles from here, as the objective point, took place early today.

About 300 striking mine workers from Freeland started for Lattimer at 1 a. m. and a little later 100 strikers set out from Hazelton for the same place.

The two bodies effected a junction east of Lattimer and marched into the town at 4 o'clock. Each striker carried a small American flag.

Their arrival at Lattimer caused a great commotion. Nearly every man, woman and child in the place was roused out of bed. The marchers adopted the same tactics as were employed at Hazlebrook last week, going to the homes of all non-union strikers and quietly asking them to refrain from continuing at work.

They also covered all the roads leading from surrounding towns to Lattimer.

The strikers claim they succeeded in getting nearly 400 men to quit, but the company officials say they did not lose anywhere near that number. Sheriff Harvey, of Luzerne county, arrived at Lattimer just as the mine whistles blew for the starting of work at 7 o'clock.

He found nothing to do, however, as all the men were conducting themselves in an orderly manner.

After starting time the strikers again formed in line and marched through the town, after which they dispersed.

All was reported quiet in the Panther Creek valley this morning. About fifty of the strikers who went to the place yesterday from McAdoo and Jamesville remained there over night for the purpose of trying to get the 220 men working at the collieries in that valley to quit.

They did not meet with very much success, as reports from that locality say that all the collieries are working with nearly the same force of men as on Saturday. No troops were sent there but Sheriff Toole, of Schuylkill county, had deputies on watch.

Reports from the various collieries throughout the Hazelton district today show that practically the same number of men were working as on Saturday, excepting at Lattimer. The only colliery where a noticeable change occurred was at that of A. Pardee & Co. at Cranberry, where some of the "Lokie" engineers and some of the driving boys struck, thus further crippling the works.

A "Lokie" is a diminutive mine locomotive.

When John Markle, of the firm of G. B. Markle & Co., was asked how many returned to work in his collieries today, the only reply he would make was:

"All the mines are working."

When the strike leaders were asked about the Markle mines they said there were very few men in the works. The firm owns five mines and usually employs 2,500 men.

The Markles' Ebervale colliery, which has not been in operation since the strike began, remains closed. Sheriff Harvey is authority for the story that most of the Freeland men who marched to Lattimer this morning intended to stop at the Markle No. 5 Jeddo mine on their way home. John Markle, he says, met the Freeland men at the outskirts of Jeddo.

He found Sheriff Harvey with the marchers and told him his services were not needed. Upon joining the men Mr. Markle marched with them to a school house near the No. 5 colliery, where he persuaded the strikers to go home.

President Mitchell was very much pleased at hearing the news from the Schuylkill region that fewer men went to work today in the Reading collieries than ever. He said the action of the men justified his faith in them and he called attention to the verification of his prediction that the posting of the offer of a 10 per cent. advance on the part of the Reading company would have no effect on the strike, as the men had other grievances that must be adjusted.

THE READING LOSES GROUND.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—According to the official report of General Superintendent R. C. Luther, of the Reading Coal and Iron company's mines, to President Harris this morning, but seven of the thirty-nine collieries operated by the company started up this morning.

This indicates that in spite of the offer of an advance in wages of 10 per cent the company is working five less mines today than on Saturday. The five collieries that failed to open this morning are: Copps, Eagle Hill, Wadesville, Silver Creek and Phoenix.

This leaves only one Reading colliery, the North Franklin, working in the Northern Schuylkill region.

The seven still working, some of them short-handed, are: Lincoln, North Franklin, Brookside, Pine Forest, Glendower, Good Spring and Locust Spring.

None of those operations are very large. Keystone and Kalima washeries, both small, are working.

NO CHANGE IS NOTED.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 1.—The strike situation in the Wyoming valley remains unchanged this morning. All of the collieries, with the exception of the one at Mocanaqua, employing 400 men, are tied up as usual.

It is apparent from the declarations of the strikers and their leaders that no action will be taken on the attempt of the mine owners to start their collieries by an offer of a 10 per cent increase in wages until word comes from President Mitchell.

No attempt was made to resume operations at any of the middle mines and notices have been posted inviting the men to return to work. The strikers are anxiously awaiting news from the national officers of the United Mine Workers.

A meeting of the general superintendents of the Lackawanna, Lehigh and Wilkesbarre, Delaware and Hudson, Lehigh Valley companies, Coxe Brothers & Co. and the individual operators will be held here this afternoon.

It is thought a formal offer will then be made to the miners working in this vicinity. The terms will probably be the same as those proposed by the Reading company, a 10 per cent increase in wages, with a promise to arbitrate other grievances if the men return to work.

There will be no formal recognition of the miners' union. If the men accept a 10 per cent increase, all well and good. If they do not the operators say the strike is destined to go on.

At strike headquarters it was given out that the men will take no action,

POSTMASTER GENERAL HERE

CHARLES EMORY SMITH WAS IN THE CITY SUNDAY.

Was the Guest of P. A. Randall and Drove About the City—No Politics in Visit.

Fort Wayne had a very distinguished visitor yesterday in the person of Hon. Charles Emory Smith, editor of the Philadelphia Press and postmaster general of the United States. Readers of The Sentinel will remember that he is the gentleman who succeeded Hon. James A. Gary in President McKinley's cabinet.

Mr. Smith came from Huntington Saturday evening and remained in the city until 4:35 o'clock Sunday afternoon. During his stay in Fort Wayne he was the guest of P. A. Randall, and while Mr. Randall was showing him about the city a reporter for The Sentinel enjoyed an interview with him at Swinney park. Mr. Smith stated that his visit had no political significance; that he was merely spending the day in the city while on his way back to Washington. He was greatly impressed with Fort Wayne, and said he had no idea it was so beautiful a city, with so many splendid parks.

HON. CHARLES EMORY SMITH,

Postmaster General of the United States.

Mr. Smith was much gratified to know that the rural mail delivery was giving such general satisfaction in this section, and stated that within a short time he expected the service to reach almost every neighborhood in the United States. Speaking of this new system that puts the daily mail at the door of every home, he believes it will be one of the greatest educational forces ever introduced, and will be a great help for good. The farmer will thus be given the same advantages in this regard that are enjoyed by the residents of the city.

Mr. Smith did not talk politics to The Sentinel reporter, but it could be told by the twinkle in his eye when the subject was mentioned that he believes all indications favor Mr. McKinley's re-election.

Before leaving the city Mr. Smith called on his old friend, Judge R. S. Taylor, and the two enjoyed an hour's chat together. Mr. Smith is one of the very strong newspaper men of the country, and has brought the Philadelphia Press up to the front rank of newspaperdom.

BRYAN IN DULUTH

SPEAKS TO PEOPLE ON THE SEVERAL ISSUES.

FRIENDS DECORATE TRAIN

QUOTES M'KINLEY ON TRUSTS AT WEST SUPERIOR, WIS.

ROOSEVELT IN NEBRASKA

SAYS REPUBLICAN PROMISES WERE KEPT.

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 1.—When William J. Bryan returned to this city today from West Superior, Wis., where he had spent the night, he found his train elaborately decorated.

A picture of Mr. Bryan filled the place of a headlight on the locomotive, while a motto in large letters was strung along Mr. Bryan's car, which declared, "The republic forever; an empire never!"

Mr. Bryan's first speech of the day was delivered from the veranda of the West Superior hotel in West Superior. He began there at a few minutes before 8 o'clock and talked half an hour to a large audience, dwelling especially on the trust question and making special reference to a combination of the flour milling industries.

In this speech Mr. Bryan also referred to a speech made by President McKinley in 1894, in which the president attacked the democratic party. He quoted the following from that speech:

"They were the enemies of the trust when they wanted the votes of the people in 1892, and when they got the power to deal a blow at trusts, according to the testimony of their own members, they became the willing tools of the most gigantic trust in the country."

Remarking upon the quotation, Mr. Bryan said:

"Mr. McKinley complains that the democrats did not destroy the trusts when they had an opportunity and when he complained you must believe he was honest in his complaint. You cannot accuse him of being a hypocrite, and yet Mr. McKinley has been president for three and a half years and during that time more trusts have been organized than in all the previous history of the country, and he has allowed three sessions of congress to convene and adjourn and did not recommend a specific measure for the destruction of the trusts.

"And Mr. Hanna, who stands at the head of the republican national committee during this campaign and who stood at the head of the republican national committee in 1896, declared the other day that there were no trusts.

"Now, if you believe Mr. McKinley was honest when he condemned the democrats for not destroying the trusts, how can you explain his policy in doing the same thing.

"He selected an attorney general from New Jersey, where most of the trusts have their homes, and that attorney general draws his salary for not interfering with the trusts. The attorney general of the state of Nebraska, a democrat, elected on the fusion ticket, has brought more suits in the state of Nebraska against the trust than the republican attorney general of the United States has brought against the trusts of the United States."

At Duluth Mr. Bryan spoke in the armory, from which all the seats had been taken in order to accommodate as many people as possible. Mr. Bryan said he could hope to add nothing to the arguments which had been made here by Hon. Charles A. Towne, who resides here.

"If he cannot warn you sufficiently against the dangers that beset you," he said, "you would not believe it, though one rose from the dead."

Mr. Bryan first adverted to what he characterized as the republican fondness for the financial question as a paramount issue. "That party is bending all its energies," he said, "towards the aggrandizement of wealth and the degradation of mankind. But partial as the republican party is towards the money question, the party is being driven from it and some are taking refuge in the tariff question."

Mr. Bryan believed that they would also be driven from that position before the close of the present campaign.

ROOSEVELT IN NEBRASKA.

Falls City, Neb., Oct. 1.—Governor Roosevelt's party reached this place at 8:20 a. m. The morning was rainy and the ground watersoaked, but the inhabitants were at the station to hear and see Governor Roosevelt and there were many wagons and carriages which brought in farmers and their families from the surrounding country.

Governor Roosevelt, in the course of his remarks, said:

"I noticed the other day that Mr. Bryan said that the republican party had no right to claim the benefit of the fact that pork and wheat and corn had gone up.

"He was speaking of hogs at the time. The republican party said four years ago that if its policies were adopted those articles would go up. Its policies were adopted and they have gone up.

"You can proportion the responsibility between the evidence and the republican party as you choose, giving the republican party its share."

INCREASE OF FARM PRICES.

Beatrice, Neb., Oct. 1.—When the special Roosevelt train arrived at Auburn a heavy rain made the contemplated out-door meeting impracticable, and Governor Roosevelt was hurriedly driven to the opera house, half a mile distant. The governor made a ten-minute address to an audience that filled the building. He said in part:

"During the past four years your home products here have increased 45 per cent, your beef products have increased 60 per cent., and yet we were told four years ago there would be hard times if the republican ticket was elected. The value of your household goods has gone up 20 per cent., mortgages have been reduced 40 per cent, and your savings accounts have increased by 35 per cent. Now you should judge our opponents by their prophecies, not one of which have come true, and judge us by our prophecies, which have been fulfilled."

PRAISE FOR THE SOLDIER.

At Tecumseh, Governor Roosevelt was conveyed to the court house square, which was filled with people, where he spoke in the open air. His speech was devoted to the defense of the army.

IRELAND SPEAKS FOR POPE

PONTIFF PLEASED WITH THE PHILIPPINE COURSE.

American Archbishop Says He is Charged to Thank American People for Leo.

London, Oct. 1.—Archbishop Ireland, who has arrived here from Rome on his way to the United States, in an interview today is quoted as saying:

"In one of the audiences which he granted me the pope said: 'We are well pleased with the relations of the American government to the church in Cuba and the Philippines. The American government gives proof of good will and exhibits a spirit of justice and respect for the liberty and rights of the church. You will thank in my name the president of the republic for what is being done.'

"When I repeated to Cardinal Rampolla (the papal secretary of state) my conversation with the pope, the cardinal declared such statements were what he personally believed and knew to be true and that I was at liberty to repeat them to the American people. Furthermore, Cardinal Rampolla said that on no less than three different occasions petitions had been sent to the Vatican in the name of the Filipino leaders, asking that direct official relations be opened between them and the Vatican, but the vatican has always refused to listen to such petitions out of consideration for the American government."

CLUB HOUSE SCORCHED.

The club house of the R. F. C. club, on Swinney avenue, was badly damaged by fire on Saturday evening. The blaze was discovered by Janitor Alfred Stumpf about 5 o'clock, and was extinguished before the arrival of the department by residents in the vicinity. The carpets and furniture of the house were damaged by water and smoke, and the house will have to be rebuilt.

UNFORTUNATE FARMER.

Nicholas Christman, a well known and wealthy farmer of Pleasant township, has lost his sight as a result of a recent attack of paralysis of the head. Mr. Christman is one of the old settlers in Pleasant township and for many years was a leader in church and other circles in his neighborhood. He is the uncle of George, Andrew and Frank Miller, of this city.

WILL PUNISH TUAN

Official Advices That China is Going to Deal Severely With Boxer Leaders.

IMPORTANT ADVICES FROM CHINA

Washington, Oct. 1.—Several important dispatches were received today from China.

Generally they tend to confirm the events recorded Saturday from Canton. Consul McWade reports issuance of the decree punishing Tuan and his colleagues, so that there is no longer doubt as to the accuracy of Sheng's statement on that point.

Mr. Conger also has received official notification of the Chinese pence commission, which was forecasted by Minister Wu's advices several days ago. Mr. Conger made no reference to the condemnatory degree, hence it is inferred that it was not issued when his dispatch was sent last Thursday.

The text of these two dispatches is as follows:

"Canton, (China), Oct. 1, 1900.—Secretary of State, Washington:—Decrees just issued—emperor blames ministers for whole trouble. Orders Tuan, Kangi and other officials degraded and punished by imperial courts. Emperor holds Tuan and others entirely responsible for bloodshed. McWade."

"Pekin, Sept. 27, 1900.—Via Taku, Sept. 30, 1900.—Secretary of State, Washington: Have received notive today from Prince Ching that he, Earl Li, Jung Lui, and Viceroys Tin Kuen Yi and Chang Chih Tung will act in concert in negotiations for peace. Jung Lu is in the interior. Li Hung Chang is at Tien Tsin. "Conger."

It is evident that the two viceroys mentioned are Liu Kun Yi, the viceroy Nankin, and Chang Chih Tung, the viceroy of Wu-Chang, the difference in spelling being in telegraphic transmission. There has been some questions as to Yung Lu being a member of the commission, but Mr. Conger's report settled all doubt. Minister Wu already had received an edict naming Yung Lu as one of the commission, but this was questioned in other Chinese quarters. The appointment is not likely to be satisfactory to any of the powers, as Yung Lu has made himself almost as offensive as Prince Tuan. He is generalissimo of the imperial troops and is regarded as mainly responsible for the fight on the legations during the crisis.

The other commissioners are highly acceptable. Earl Le and Prince Ching are already favorably known, and the two viceroys are among the most pacific, enlightened and pro-foreign men in the empire.

It is the understanding of Minister Wu that the viceroys will not come to Pekin to take part in the commission, but will be consulted by telegraph.

Li Hung Chang's long stay at Tien Tsin is exciting some comment, as he is aware of the American instructions to Minister Conger to open negotiations with him at Pekin.

It gives the idea that Earl Li is not fully satisfied that the precautionary element is overcome at Pekin, and is awaiting more positive assurances.

The attention of the officials of the navy being called to the report from Tien Tsin that the United States is about to take part in a naval expedition organizing at Taku for operations against Shan-Hai-Kwan, it was stated that this report probably referred to an old project. Some time ago, while hostilities were in full progress, a movement against Shan-Hai-Kwan was projected to divert the Chinese from their resistance to the progress of the Pekin main column. With the fall of Pekin the necessity for such a move disappeared. It is regarded as unlikely that the United States forces will take part in it even if be revived by any other powers.

General Chaffee reports that he is moving with rapidity toward the execution of the department's orders relative to the withdrawal of his troops.

MISSIONARIES ARE SAFE.

Paris, Oct. 1.—The French consul general at Shanghai, under date of Saturday, September 29, telegraphs that he has been informed by the governor of Sent-Che-Li that, through the intermediation of Sheng, the administrator of telegraphs and railroads, the missionaries and engineers at Theng-Ting-Fu were safe and sound September 23; that the military and civil authorities had taken precautions to protect all the missionaries, and that the Belgian mission at Ning-Tian-Lung was safe.

MANCHURIA NOT ANNEXED.

St. Petersburg, Oct. 1.—The Official Messenger today declares the tenor of the government's official communications in regard to Russia's tasks in the far east clearly demonstrate that the "reports of the annexation of Manchuria are devoid of all foundation."

HEAR FROM CHAFFEE.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The war department is in receipt of a cablegram from General Chaffee indicating that he had received the instructions to withdraw most of the United States forces from China and had provided, in accordance with those instructions, for a legation guard. The dispatch follows:

"Received Sept. 30, 1900, via Taku.—Adjutant General, Washington: Sept. 29, 30 cabled from Tien Tsin. Received your numbers 42 and 43. The Ninth infantry, third squadron of Sixth cavalry and light battery will constitute legation guard. Shall endeavor to get all supplies in Tong Chow before water falls. Chaffee."

Dispatches Nos. 42 and 43 referred to by General Chaffee were those containing his instructions to withdraw the American troops from Pekin.

SHELLED BY BRITISH.

Hong Kong, Oct. 1.—The British gunboat Robin has shelled the village of Lnk-Lao on the west river in retaliation for the inhabitants firing on a British steamer. The ringleaders were afterwards captured and flogged.

HANNA DECLARES FOR HEMP

SUMMARY USE OF LAMP POSTS URGED FOR THOSE

Who Would Stand in the Way of a Settlement of the Big Anthracite Strike.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Senator Hanna, chairman of the republican national committee, arrived from the east today.

"Any man who would put a straw in the way of a settlement of the great coal miners' strike now progressing in Pennsylvania should be taken out to the nearest lamp post and hanged," said Senator Hanna this afternoon.

"I do not want to talk of the strike. I do not think that it should be mixed up in party or political questions and should not be discussed from a political standpoint. No one should be permitted to use it for political capital. It is the duty of every man to do his utmost to end the deplorable trouble.

"I am going to do everything in my power to win this election for McKinley and Roosevelt, and I believe we will win, too, but I will not give estimates of states or predict a majority. I will remain in Chicago during the remainder of the campaign and will make no speeches outside of this city. Here, however, I may address the laboring men several times. I like to talk to the workingmen. They can understand me and I understand them."

L. F. Alexander, who has been in the employ of L. O. Hull, has accepted a position with Fisher Bros.

"It was almost a miracle. Burdock Blood Bitters cured me of a terrible breaking out all over the body. I am very grateful." Miss Julia Fitbridge, West Cornwell, Conn.

HEARD MR. HARDIN

SAENGERBUND HALL FILLED WITH BRYAN MEN.

PEOPLE WARNED OF DANGERS

WHICH THREATEN THEM UNDER PRESENT POLICIES.

MEETINGS HELD BY BOTH PARTIES—GOSSIP.

Last Saturday night Saengerbund hall was filled with Allen county voters who were desirous of listening to Gen. P. Wat Hardin, of Kentucky, discuss the issues of the day. Hon. R. C. Ball presided and introduced Mr. Hardin, who explained before beginning that he was not feeling well and before he had finished the big crowd wondered what Mr. Hardin could do if he was well. He handled all the questions that are being discussed by public speakers, not even forgetting to call attention to the fact that the republican orators who always spent a portion of their time telling audiences that the real issue was the money question were three years ago advocating the election of a candidate for the presidency on a platform which favored bimetallism "if other countries would agree." He began his speech by recounting the long centuries of the people's struggle for liberty and how finally a century and a quarter ago the founders of our country met and adopted a constitution which gave to the people more liberties than they had ever heretofore enjoyed. It was this constitution and this liberty, he said, which was threatened through the policy now being carried out by President McKinley backed by the immense trusts which alone would benefit were the policy successful. Mr. Hardin defended the principles of Jefferson that the people could and should rule themselves, wherever they might live and whoever they might be. The republican party stands today for the Hamiltonian idea of government and they would abrogate the bill of rights on which the government was founded. "The moment you strike at that foundation of our government," said the speaker, "you are drifting toward monarchy." He then discussed the speech of Senator Beveridge, which he claimed attacked the bill of rights of this government. Abraham Lincoln foresaw the dangers that threatened the people and he knew that every man who would gain from a job against the people would cloak himself behind some good, strong popular institution to cover his operations. Every man must be the guardian of his own liberty. Lincoln, standing in the very shadow of death, standing amid the smoke of battle, heard the signs from a thousand desolated homes where the war had swept like a fiery breath. From the Atlantic to the Pacific, from where the breezes murmured the requiem of the fallen through the pines of Virginia to the orange groves of Florida, he heard the wail of widow and orphan, and that great and good man said that as a result of the war great corporations had been enthroned. That an era of corruption would follow, and that the money power would seek to entrench itself until the republic would be destroyed. That was the prophecy of so great a man as Lincoln. It is not strange that corrupt corporations should then have attached themselves to the republican party, with its great record, to accomplish their ends.

Mr. Hardin traced the history of the republican party, its position on the tariff, how it protected infant industries which are now grown into powerful trusts which threatened the liberty of the people in their greed for wealth. It was the the old story of evil growing out of evil.

He said: "Senator Beveridge seeks to justify the republican Philippine policy. He says the pledge of freedom to Cuba was a mistake, and that we should violate our promise to the world and take and hold Cuba. He says we must hold the Philippines, that we have the same right to them as we had to take lands from the Indians. That is not true. The Indians had no settled homes, they were nomadic savages, and my own state was their hunting ground. If they were civilized, or half civilized, as the Filipinos, it would have been cruel to take their lands. But they were savages, and we have been forced to keep a standing army for a century for the sole purpose of keeping them from savage acts. But the Filipinos are partially, at least, civilized. They own their own homes, and if let alone, will live contented, happy lives. Beveridge and his party say we must take these people and hold them as subjects.

"There, my friends, lies the menace. Can we do this thing they advise, with the Declaration of Independence staring us in the face? There is no warrant in our government for keeping subjects. Following out this policy we see the Monroe doctrine abandoned, the advice of Washington against entangling foreign alliances disregarded, and our country plunged on a career of imitation of the conquering march of European powers. The alliances will follow, then complications, great wars, more bond issues, a perpetual debt and permanent departure from the principles we have proudly preached to the world for more than a century.

"Beveridge says all nations that became great have become so through colonization and administration. That is a lie. The American people have become the greatest on earth, and they have never been colonists, and if they now regard their religion, their conscience, the traditions of a century, yes, the mute voice of unborn posterity for liberty, they will not follow this course that Beveridge and the republicans are preparing. Beveridge says, again, that nations have achieved commercial greatness by colonization, and that the dead nations began their decline when they abandoned colonization. Both are untrue. The American nation has become the commercial superior of the world without colonization, and the decline of every dead nation can be traced to its pursuit of colonization, and not to its abandonment of it. No nation in history abandoned its colonies until its inward decay compelled it to."

The republican leaders, Mr. Hardin said, were deceiving the republican voters. They talk of their own "gorgeous spreads," of the well-to-do man's "elegant table," and of the workingman's "dinner pail." They never heard Hanna advocate talking of a workingman's "gorgeous spread" or "elegant table." They did not even dignify labor by talking of his basket; it is always the "dinner pail." They never referred to his table.

He ended his address by entreating the voters not to forget that in casting a ballot for W. J. Bryan they were voting against imperialism and trusts and in favor of liberty.

MR. SCHANZ WILL SPEAK.

Then Tenth ward democratic club will meet Wednesday evening at its hall, corner of Smith street and East Creighton avenue. Charles Schanz will be the speaker of the evening.

DEBS TO COME.

Eugene V. Debs, candidate of the social democratic party for president of the United States, will address the citizens of Fort Wayne tomorrow evening at Princess rink in the interest of social democracy. He is brought to Fort Wayne under the auspices of the Fort Wayne Social Democracy club and Martin H. Wefel has charge of the meeting. It is not known at what time Mr. Debs will arrive. He speaks in Battle Creek, Mich., tonight. W. E. Rauch will probably preside at the meeting. The club will meet this evening to complete arrangements for the reception of Mr. Debs.

COCKRAN'S DATE OCTOBER 19.

County Chairman H. C. Berghoff has received information that Bourke Cockran's date for Fort Wayne is October 19. He has commenced to advertise the meeting and expects one of the biggest crowds of the campaign to hear him. Saturday night at Chicago Mr. Cockran spoke at the Coliseum, which was filled to the rafters and thousands of people were turned away. There was a riot at one time and 200 police were called in to cure for the crowd, but could accomplish nothing except by violence.

DEMOCRATIC MEETINGS.

The democratic county committee has arranged for the following meetings next Saturday evening, Oct. 6: Monroe township, pole raising at Darr's farm, H. I. Smith and H. S. Pulse; Madison township, Quant school house No. 1, T. E. Ellison and A. E. Thomas; Pleasant township, Meyer school house No. 1, Allen Zellars and E. V. Emrick; Washington township, Butler school house No. 8, N. D. Doughman and E. T. Dawson; Lafayette township, Zanesville, S. M. Hench and C. H. Worden; Springfield township, pole raising at Sam Boger's corner, W. H. Reed and L. V. Ulery; Milan township, Bishop school house No. 3, Henry Colerick and Anselm Fuelber; Lake township, pole raising at Arcola, G. W. Louttit and J. C. Martin. On October 4th there will be a pole raising at Kammeyer school house, in Washington township. O. P. Eversole and Carl Smith will speak.

POLITICAL GOSSIP.

Hon. R. C. Bell will address the Bryan Soldiers' club Wednesday evening in the assembly room of the new court house.

Hon. Robert B. Hanna, republican candidate for congress, and Wilmer Leonard addressed the republicans of New Haven Saturday night at Stock's hall. There was a large crowd in attendance and they listened attentively to the gentlemen's presentation of the issues from a republican standpoint.

Hon. J. M. Robinson and H. C. Underwood addressed the citizens of Madison township in the old church at Hoagland Saturday evening. They report an excellent meeting.

The democrats at New Haven organized a Bryan club Friday evening last with a membership of eighty-six. The following officers were elected: President, James Hiler; secretary, J. A. Blaising; treasurer, Thomas Hathaway. The club, it is expected, will reach a membership within a week of 125.

NEW BISHOP'S CONSECRATION

IT MAY OCCUR IN FORT WAYNE NOVEMBER 30.

Very Rev. J. H. Guendling Reappointed Vicar General and Continued as Administrator.

Unusual interest now centers about the forthcoming consecration of Rev. Herman Alerding as bishop of Fort Wayne, and it is regarded as extremely probable that the service will be held in this city. The administrator, Rev. J. H. Guendling, has not yet returned from Indianapolis, whither he went on Saturday to confer with Rev. Father Alerding, and upon Father Guendling's return it is believed he will have some definite information to impart.

The consecration of a bishop is always held on a feast day of one of the apostles, and there are three such days approaching on which such a consecration could occur—the feast of St. Luke, October 18; SS. Simon and Jude, October 22, and St. Andrew, November 30. The first two dates are so near at hand that proper preparation could hardly be made, and November 30 is quite generally regarded as the date on which Bishop Alerding will be consecrated.

The place is also in doubt, though Fort Wayne will probably be selected. Undoubtedly the friends of Rev. Father Alerding among whom he has labored for so many years would be gratified to have the ceremony occur at Indianapolis. Cincinnati, the head of the archdiocese, may also be considered, but it is likely that the new bishop will desire to be consecrated in Fort Wayne, where his labors as bishop are to begin. This will be the first consecration of a bishop ever held in this city—Bishop Luers and Bishop Dwenger having been elevated to the episcopacy at Cincinnati and Bishop Rademacher at Nashville. It is an event of great moment and will bring together large numbers of the dignitaries of the Catholic church. Archbishop Elder will confer the mitre.

NOTIFIED WEEKS AGO.

The appointment of Father Alerding as bishop of Fort Wayne was made by the sacred college August 30, and on September 7 a cablegram apprised him of the choice. This announcement was not made public until after the receipt of the papal brief, or official notice, on Friday morning. It is probable the brief was brought from Rome by Archbishop Keane and was first sent to Archbishop Martinelli, the papal delegate at Washington. This appointment conferred upon Father Alerding the ordinary powers of a bishop from the moment of its receipt, though the bishop does not ordain priests nor give confirmation until after his formal consecration.

Father Alerding expected to leave Indianapolis today for Cincinnati to arrange a date for his consecration and it is expected that he will arrive in Fort Wayne within a few days to look over the situation and meet the local clergy. The new bishop comes to the diocese under the most auspicious circumstances and will find it in excellent condition, without debt and second to none in the United States in its charitable, religious and educational institutions.

IS REAPPOINTED.

Word from Indianapolis is to the effect that the new archbishop has already reappointed Very Rev. J. H. Guendling vicar general, the position he has so capably occupied since the death of Rev. Father Brammer. The vicar general is also continued as administrator of the diocese until the consecration of the new bishop, and the announcement will be highly gratifying to the numerous friends of Rev. Father Guendling. It indicates, too, that though privileged to do so, Father Alerding will not take up the active work of the diocese until his formal consecration some weeks hence.

HELD FAREWELL SERVICES

IMPRESSIVE MEETING AT THE THIRD CHURCH SUNDAY.

Presbyterian Congregations Held Union Gathering in the Old Building—Church's History.

The old Third Presbyterian church, situated at the corner of Calhoun and Holman streets, is now no longer a place of worship, the edifice this morning passing into the possession of Messrs. Mossman, Varnelle & Co., who will use it as a warehouse.

The closing service was held last evening and the congregations of all the Presbyterian churches in the city assembled in the old building for the occasion. The service was of a reminiscent nature, the evening being devoted to the reading of the history of the various branches of church work. The meeting was opened with the reading of the Apostle's creed by Rev. J. A. P. McGaw, followed by an invocation by Rev. J. C. Breckenridge, of Bethany church, after which the congregation united in singing "Come, Thou Almighty King." Prayer was offered by Rev. J. L. Leeper, of Westminster church, and the choir sang a beautiful anthem, which was followed by the reading of a brief history of the church by Dr. J. D. Chambers. The different officers of the church followed with short addresses, O. B. Fitch naming all the elders since the time of organization, and Alexander Wilson speaking for the deacons. F. P. Will, who was to have spoken on "The Trustees," had not completed his report. Mrs. Isabella Diffenderfer, one of the surviving charter members of the church, told of the early history of the congregation, and spoke of the many difficulties that had to be overcome in the early years of the church. Miss Mary Christie, who has attended the Sunday school since girlhood, told of the progress and growth of the Sunday school in the past years. Mrs. Margaret Morgan dealt with the subject, "The Women's Missionary Society," and in the course of her address stated that two missionaries had gone out from the Third church, Miss Christie to Utah and Miss Grace Glenn to Japan. Mrs. C. W. Bashler gave a history of the Ladies' Aid society and C. M. Chambers told of the Young People's society. The closing address was made by Rev. D. W. Moffat, of the First church, in which he, in the name of the Presbyterians of the city, wished the Third church God-speed in the change it was about to make. The congregation united in singing "Blest Be the Tie," after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. McGaw.

REV. J. A. P. M'GAW, D. D.,
Pastor of the Third Presbyterian Church of Fort Wayne.

HISTORY OF THE CHURCH.

The Third Presbyterian church is an offshoot of the First Presbyterian church and was originally a mission established in a frame building which occupied the site of the present church. In 1865 Dr. Lowry, then pastor of the First church, recognized that a great field for mission work was opening up in that part of the city then known as Hamilton's fields and the Williams addition, called a meeting of the parents and children in his church residing in that district, in the old mission building, and the mission Sunday school thus organized was the nucleus of what is now known as the Third Presbyterian church.

The church proper was organized in 1867 and a subscription paper, pledging enough to pay a pastor $1,200 per year, was headed by the late Hon. Jesse L. Williams, who gave $300. The first record of official action of the organization bears the date of December 8, 1867, at which time thirty-four persons were received into membership, twenty of them coming from the First church. Of the thirty-four there still remain with the church Mrs. Christina Dunn and Mrs. Isabella Diffenderfer. The corner stone of the church was laid in the spring of 1868 and the late John B. Cochrane was the builder. The rear portion of the edifice was completed that year, and the audience room was completed in 1869, although not ready for occupancy until several months later. Several details of the original plans of the architect who made the drawings for the building were never completed to this day.

The first pastor was Rev. Nathan S. Smith, of Cincinnati, who remained until 1873, when he resigned, and succeeding pastors have been Rev. John Woods, until the spring of 1874; Rev. Harlan G. Mendenhall, who remained three years, and during whose pastorate 135 persons were received into membership; Rev. W. E. Minton, installed June 20, 1878; Rev. J. Vance Stockton, installed June 4, 1880; Rev. S. Ferre Marks, installed May 29, 1882; Rev. David Scott Kennedy, installed May 3, 1886; Rev. J. M. Boggs, installed January 6, 1889, and Rev. J. A. P. McGaw, installed September 6, 1893. The first elders of the church were W. N. Andrews, J. B. McDonald and Andrew Wallace.

The project of selling the old church and property has been advocated for several years, but not until this year did a purchaser appear. The site of the new church at the corner of Harrison and Taber streets was purchased more than a year ago. It has been the desire of members of the church in building the new edifice not to go into debt, but the desire to become settled in new and permanent quarters led to the determination to proceed without further delay. The new church will be known as the New Third Presbyterian church of Fort Wayne and in point of architecture it will be one of the handsomest places of worship in the city. Pending the completion of the new building the congregation will worship in Schwartz's hall, 548 South Calhoun street.

FROM SECOND-STORY WINDOW

FIFTEEN MONTHS OLD BABE FALLS TWENTY FEET.

Jaw is Dislocated and Its Head is Badly Cut—Farmer Bitten by Poisonous Insect.

The fifteen-months-old baby of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Stier, of East Lewis street, fell from the second story at the home of Frank A. Young, of 197 East DeWald street, on Sunday, and received injuries that may yet result seriously. The parents of the little one were visiting at Mr. Young's home when the accident occurred, and the child was playing in a room upstairs. It had climbed on the window sill to look out, when it lost its balance and fell to the ground, a distance of twenty feet, striking face downward. When picked up the child's face presented a sickening sight, having been entirely displaced from the sockets. It had received a severe cut on the head, and the little body was bruised in many places. It is not definitely known whether the child received internal injuries. Dr. McOscar was the attending physician.

BITTEN BY POISONOUS INSECT.

George W. Tait, a farmer residing on the Hicksville road near the orphan asylum, was bitten on the knee by an insect, presumably a spider, a few days ago. Blood poisoning has since developed, and the limb is swelled to several times the normal proportions.

FELL FROM A CAR.

William Hollenbeck alighted from a street car on East Washington street Sunday evening while the car was in motion and was thrown violently to the pavement. Mr. Hollenbeck's face was badly scratched and one of his hands lacerated.

CITY FOOT BALL TEAM WON.

The Fort Wayne City foot ball team defeated the International Business college team Saturday at Centlivre's park by a score of 10 to 5. The college boys put up a fine game for beginners. The feature was the end runs by Kinsey Evans for the college team. The International Business college foot ball team has a great number of games scheduled for the season. The members of the I. B. will practice every Monday and Friday evening at Reservoir park. The team will line up against the Huntington business college team at the base ball park on Saturday, Oct. 13. Huntington has one of the strongest teams in Indiana and the game should be a fine one. The game should settle the championship of Indiana business college teams.

GETS HIS REWARD

LORD ROBERTS NOW CHIEF OF BRITISH ARMY.

LORD WOLSELEY TO RETIRE

PROMOTION CAME AS GIFT ON BIRTHDAY.

HE WON HIS SPURS IN INDIA

ADDED TO HIS LAURELS IN SOUTH AFRICA.

London, Oct. 1.—It is officially announced that Lord Roberts has been appointed commander-in-chief of the British army.

Yesterday was Lord Roberts' birthday.

Although the fact that the appointment had been made was already known, the formal announcement is hailed by the unionist party as a welcome pledge that army reorganization will be carried out in the most effective manner.

It was beginning to be recognized that something was needed to give strength to the unionist campaign. Accordingly semi-official announcements are that Mr. George Wyndham, parliamentary under secretary of state for war, in his speech at Derby this evening will outline the government's scheme of army reforms, and that the war office is arranging with Lord Roberts for the return of a large portion of the army in South Africa.

The Times, in an editorial reference to the appointment of Lord Roberts as commander-in-chief, hints that Lord Kitchener will come home to assist him at his new post.

Gen. Sir Frederick Sleigh Roberts, Bart., G. C. B., V. C., was born in 1832 and educated at Eton, Sandhurst and Addiscombe England. He received his first commission as second lieutenant in the Bengal artillery and, after passing through the various other grades, was promoted to lieutenant general in 1870. He served with distinction throughout the Indian mutiny campaign. Throughout the Abyssinian campaign of 1868 he held the office of assistant quartermaster general. He also acted as assistant quartermaster general with the Cachar column in the Looshai expeditionary force (1871-72).

HIS AFGHAN CAMPAIGN.

At the beginning of the Afghan campaign he was appointed commander of the Kuram field force; subsequently he had the chief command of the army in Afghanistan, and annihilated the power of Ayoob Khan. On the return of Sir Frederick Roberts to England he was loaded with honors, and was created a baronet. In February, 1881, he was appointed to succeed Sir George Colley in the command of the troops in Natal and the Transvaal, but peace was concluded with the Boers before his arrival in the colony. He was afterward appointed a member of the council of Madras, and commanded the troops in that presidency from 1881 to 1885, and since then has been commander-in-chief in India. On the death of Sir H. Macpherson (October, 1886), Sir F. Roberts assumed the command of the Burmese expedition.

GREAT INDIAN RECORD.

His administration in India was brilliant and satisfactory to the home government from every standpoint. In December, 1899, the repeated reverses in South Africa warned the British government that a new commander-in-chief of the English armies was absolutely imperative, and Lord Roberts was ordered to that field. The series of brilliant victories that followed his appointment are all well known to the world.

BADEN-POWELL IN COMMAND.

Pretoria, Oct. 1.—General Baden-Powell has arrived here to take command of the police in the Transvaal and Orange River colony, where it is proposed to maintain a force of 12,000 men, all under General Baden-Powell.

TWENTY WERE KILLED.

Lorenzo Marques, Oct. 1.—An explosion occurred at Komatipoort while the British were destroying the Boer ammunition, resulting in the death of twenty of the Gordon Highlanders.

RECAPTURE BIG GUNS.

London, Oct. 1.—A dispatch from Lord Roberts, dated Sunday, Sept. 30, says:

"Rundles troops in the Bechlehelm district have recaptured from the Boers a mountain battery gun lost at Nicholson's Nek, and also 65,000 rounds of Martini-Henry ammunition."

CANCER

Sufferers from this horrible malady nearly always inherit it—not necessarily from the parents, but may be from some remote ancestor, for Cancer often runs through several generations. This deadly poison may lay dormant in the blood for years, or until you reach middle life, then the first little sore or ulcer makes its appearance—or a swollen gland in the breast, or some other part of the body, gives the first warning.

To cure Cancer thoroughly and permanently all the poisonous virus must be eliminated from the blood—every vestage of it driven out. This S. S. S. does, and is the only medicine that can reach deep-seated, obstinate blood troubles like this. When all the poison has been forced out of the system the Cancer heals, and the disease never returns.

Cancer begins often in a small way, as the following letter from Mrs. Shirer shows:

A small pimple came on my jaw about an inch below the corner the left side of my face. It gave me no pain or inconvenience, and I should have forgotten about it had it not begun to inflame and itch. It would bleed a little, then scab over, but would not heal. This continued for some time, when my jaw began to swell, becoming very painful. The Cancer began to eat and spread, until it was as large as a half dollar, when I heard of S. S. S. and determined to give it a fair trial, and it was remarkable what a wonderful effect it had from the very beginning; the sore began to heal and after taking a few bottles disappeared entirely. This was two years ago; there are still no signs of the Cancer, and my general health continues good.—MRS. R. SHIRER, La Plata, Mo.

Tom Dascomb and Charley Bales last week established a record for fishermen. They were at Rome City three days and caught 156 fine bass and one pike. That their friends could not talk "fish story," the fishermen storing the fish on lines, hung them in the air and had a picture taken which gives ample evidence that the fishermen created havoc in Sylvan lake's finny tribe.

"RED CHEEKS."

"Other Children Have, Why Not Yours?"

The above comments occur in a letter referring to proper selection of food, from E. J. Wilson, 342 Hemlock St., Allegheny, Pa. "When our first baby boy reached seven months, he began to lose strength and grow pale. He could not digest any of the ordinary baby foods or prepared milk.

"Acting on the advice of a sister-in-law who was bringing the roses to the cheeks of her two children, by their diet of Grape-Nuts food, my wife purchased a package and began feeding it gradually to our baby, preparing it with a little hot water until it was the consistency of a thick gruel. She not only fed it to the baby but herself began eating it three times a day.

"The transformation was wonderful. Within a month the baby was free from all stomach trouble and my wife's strength was completely renewed, that feeling of fatigue having entirely disappeared. Do not over-feed when giving Grape-Nuts food to the baby. Other children have red cheeks, why not yours?"

This food is concentrated and requires less in volume than any food known. Its delicious taste wins friends and the remarkable effects win the reason of any thoughtful person. It was originally prepared for brain workers, but the effect upon the nerve centres and brain is so valuable that it can be used with even nursing babes, to their very great advantage.

Bourke Cockran's campaign tour will cost the democratic committee, according to a New York newspaper, $212 a day. All of this goes for car fare for the orator and his party and none of it as remuneration for the campaigner himself.

Dr. Parkhurst, back from Europe, refuses to say anything as to where he stands in national politics, but gives the impression that he is against McKinley strong enough to vote for Bryan. Concerning New York state politics he comes right out and says he is against Odell for governor.

Beyond a war of words, fighting by telephone is, of course, impossible, but they come as near as perrible to it in Paris, where it seems it is even safer than the French style of duel. Senor Antonia Tranero, a countryman of Don Quixote, after making several attempts to get a connection he wanted and finding with increasing rage that he was foiled each time, at last pulled out a revolver and fired four shots at the instrument, wrecking it completely.

The Boston Post thus discusses Mr. Bryan: "There is undoubtedly a strong trend of popular sentiment toward Bryan. No person who moves about among men needs to be told of this; the fact is so evident that it cannot be ignored. He has improved with age and with acquaintance. The people generally have come to believe that he can be trusted with power, for they are now confident that he would do nothing rashly. This wider confidence in the man's splendid integrity, character and intelligence is one of the strongest of Mr. Bryan's new elements of strength."

August exports to Asia and Oceanica show a falling off of nearly $3,000,000 as compared with August of last year. The reasons for this, it is said, are the war in China and the refusal of exporters on the Pacific coast to furnish statements of the value of their exports to the Hawaiian Islands, which they claim are no longer foreign territory and that, therefore, the bureau of statistics has no authority to require a statement of the quantity and value of merchandise passing between those islands and the United States. The reduction in exports to China is from $1,392,295 in August, 1899, to $210,300 in August, 1900, due to the existence of hostilities in that country.

FIVE WEEKS OF FIGHTING.

But five weeks of the campaign remain. Thus far the contest has been so wanting in noise and demonstration as to be almost unique in the history of American presidential struggles. The spellbinders have been hard at work and the details of organization have been receiving the usual attention, but the masses of the people have not yet had their emotions stirred and their passions heated to the extent of causing the usual outbursts of campaign hysteria. Nor is there any sign that great change can be invoked during the brief remainder of the campaign.

There are evidences that the managers of both of the great political parties are preparing to make the ensuing weeks as warm as possible. Without doubt there will be considerable enlivening of interest, but that there will be any developments likely to relieve the directors of the party work of the puzzled anxiety they now feel is altogether unlikely. There is beginning to be some forecasting of results and the man with the figures always on draught is showing by elaborate diagrams and sums in addition and subtraction that the thing is certain to go such and such a way, but the situation is admittedly mystifying.

By the claims of the democrats and the tacit admissions of the republicans there are enough states in the doubtful column to make the result of the election wholly uncertain and to give predictions no greater value than mere guesswork possesses. New York, Maryland, West Virginia, Kentucky, Indiana, Illinois and North Dakota, are all states whose electoral votes are being claimed with varying confidence by both parties. The drift all along has been in favor of Bryan. He has benefitted vastly more by changes from four years ago than McKinley. Normal conditions prevail in the democratic party, to which vital condition are added many other advantages springing from the nature of issues and the moral prestige of new advocates of democratic success. If the drift continues, and there is little reason to doubt that it will, Mr. Bryan's election is probable enough to account for the occasional ill-temper of Senator Hanna.

But at best the situation is chaotic, with the democratic party going the fastest in places where gains count for most.

RECOVER HORSE AND BUGGY.

Superintendent Gorsline received word from Kendallville Sunday that some person had stolen a horse and buggy from a citizen of Avilla who had driven to Kendallville Saturday night to attend a political meeting. This morning the sheriff of Noble county came to Fort Wayne, and with Sheriff Melching and police officers began a hunt for the outfit. Officers Remy and Pappert found the buggy down the St. Mary's river bank, at the foot of Barr street, and twenty feet away on the grass lay the harness. The horse was found in Guillaume's livery and feed stable, corner Superior and Barr street. The animal had come to the barn and was taken up and fed. It is believed the horse was driven to Fort Wayne and unhitched and abandoned by persons who did not care to be known.

POLICE NOTES.

There were five prisoners in police court this morning, four drunks and a vagrant. Mayor Scherer sent three of the prisoners to jail and released the other two.

At the police station is a telescope filled with lady's clothing. The telescope was found by Officer Elliott on South Calhoun street. The owner can have same by calling at the station.

PHILADELPHIA TIMES MAKES A CHANGE.

OPPOSED TO NEW POLICIES

SEES DANGER IN M'KINLEY'S RE-ELECTION.

A STRONG EDITORIAL DECLARATION MADE.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—The Philadelphia Times, which supported McKinley for president four years ago, comes out for Bryan in its issue this morning and urges his election. Last June Charles E. Kindred, the republican leader of the Twenty-ninth ward, with several friends, purchased the Times, and Mr. Kindred has since been the president of the Times Publishing company and directed its affairs. When M. Kindred took charge of the Times it was reported that it was to be conducted as a republican journal. Recently it has attacked the administration of Ashbridge, the republican mayor, and in the last few weeks its readers have noticed that the tone of the editorials has not been unfriendly to Mr. Bryan.

EDITORIAL DECLARATION.

The Times says today in its editorial columns:

The Times has been unfailingly hostile to those measures with which William McKinley particularly was identified, such as the monopoly-breeding, deficit-producing tariff that bore his name. Yet four years ago, in the sudden crisis that divided the councils of the democratic party and for the time being seemed to have checked its great career, it seemed better to the Times, as to many other leading democratic papers, to sustain Mr. McKinley's election as president rather than that of Mr. Bryan. The decision was made in good faith. The result has shown it to be wrong. It has repented and recanted.

All of the evils and the perils of the so-called republican policy have returned sevenfold, developed and extended till the very foundations of the government seem threatened. A false economic system has resulted in vast combines of capital that throttle individual industry and hold control over all the functions of government, and the spokesman of the administration, a representative of one of these great trusts, is calling upon his fellow-capitalists for contributions to buy another four years' license to rob, another four years' life for their inflated and false prosperity.

The government thus controlled has found its fittest expression in schemes of military conquest and the blood and treasure of the nation are poured out to subdue a distant people and rob them of those rights of liberty and independence that America has always claimed for all mankind.

Imperialism and militarism are the natural outgrowth of commercialism in politics, of the power of the few over the many, the elevation of money above manhood with all the system of special privileges and corrupt control that the republican party since the civil war has increasingly fostered. The upholders of this system are themselves aware of its hollowness and are calling far aid from the money power to bolster it up for a time longer. The condition is one that the country must meet and meet now, and the way to meet it is by a reassertion of the democratic idea and the election of a democratic president.

The nation is in peril from threatened subversion of the power of the land that is supporting the centralization of capital against the interests of labor; that is debauching our political system by the open collection of millions of money from protected trusts to expend in the national political contest, and that has inaugurated a reign of reckless profligacy and extravagance unexemplified in the history of the nation. It must be halted by the people if they would preserve their own government, "of the people, by the people and for the people," and it can be done only by the election of William J. Bryan as the next president.

HOWARD TO BE HANGED DEC. 7.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 1.—The motion for a new trial in the case of James Howard was overruled by Judge Cantrill Saturday and Howard was sentenced to be hanged Dec. 7. It was agreed that the attorneys should be allowed to file their bill of exceptions in the appeal to the court of appeals any time between now and the third week in October. Howard, in answer to the court's question whether he could show cause why sentence should not be pronounced, said, in a firm, clear voice: "I am innocent." Howard was found guilty of firing the shot that killed William Goebel last January. In overruling Howard's motion for a new trial the court said the affidavits of the defense attacking the qualifications of several jurors had been fully offset by counter affidavits filed by the prosecution.

LAWTON KILLED BY TRAITOR

STORY OF A SOLDIER WHO SAW THE GENERAL SLAIN.

Private Mayhue Declares That the Man Who Fired the Fatal Shot Was an American.

Salt Lake, Utah, Oct. 1.—Leon Mayhue, a private in troop I, Eleventh United States cavalry, who returned from the Philippines yesterday, was present when Gen. Henry W. Lawton was killed last December near San Mateo. He saw the shot fired and declares that the man who aimed the rifle was a deserter from the American army. He said:

"General Lawton took our troop from the Eleventh cavalry as scouts when he came down from the north to capture San Mateo. He planned the battle December 19, and on the night before at 11:30 we proceeded toward the town, traveling twenty-three miles. We reached the outskirts of the city at daylight, and firing began about 8 o'clock.

"I was with the skirmish line within fifty yards of General Lawton and we saw a man in black trousers, showing conspicuously among the white uniforms of the insurgent officers, come out on the tower of the church. He surveyed the ground on which we stood very carefully, then raised his musket and fired. At that instant General Lawton, who was dismounted, moved his hand across his face as if to brush away an insect and sank to his knees.

"We found in the church about 100 yards of telegraph tape, which interpreted showed that Gen. Del Pilar and an American had been in command of the insurgents. That night word was brought in from the insurgent line that they intended capturing Lawton's body. We knew then had there not been an American in that church who saw him fall the Filipinos would not have known he was dead."

THE PROHIBITION SPECIAL.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—The prohibition special left Chicago today on the Lake Shore road for a trip of nine days through Ohio, Indiana and the south. Stops will be made in Ohio, Indiana, Kentucky and Tennessee, returning to Chicago on the evening of October 9. The party will be the same as on the trip through the northwest with the exception of Henry B. Metcalf, candidate for vice-president, who has been called to his home in Pawtucket, R. I., on account of the illness of his son. Those who will accompany the special are: John G. Wooley, candidate for president; Oliver W. Stewart and Mrs. Stewart, Miss Grace Holly, Volney B. Cushing, Samuel Dickie and W. F. Mulvihill.

GEORGIA CAMPAIGN ENDS.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 1.—The campaign incident to the state election on Wednesday will close tonight after a heated finish in most of the doubtful counties of middle and northern Georgia. The ballot prepared for the election on Wednesday will be the longest ever voted in Georgia. The ticket will contain for the first time the names of the nominees for all the circuit judges and solicitorships to be filled this year and each judge and each solicitor is to be elected by the vote of the entire state.

The population of India in 1891 amounted to 288,000,000; at a very moderate estimate now it may be put down to 300,000,000.

SCENES IN GALVESTON AFTER THE STORM.

These photos show how Galveston looked immediately after the big storm. In the west end of the city there were blocks where not a house was left standing. The upper view shows a lone survivor of a family. He has been searching through the heaps of boards and timbers which he once called home in the hope of finding some trace of those who have been lost. The more substantial buildings in the business streets stood the stress of the storm somewhat better, but a glance at the lower picture shows the condition in which they were left. Much of this debris is now being removed, but first it was thoroughly searched for the bodies of the thousands of victims who perished in the storm. When the work was first begun, it was done by volunteers and gangs of hired laborers, but it was soon found that necessity demanded more systematic effort. So the military authorities have impressed every able-bodied citizen into the work, and every man, rich or poor, who can handle a pick or a spade or an ax has been forced to do his share. The force has been divided into four "watches," and thus the business has gone on day and night without cessation. From various causes, however, the number of laborers has diminished, and as a last resort it was decided to do some of the work by contract. In parts of the city the wreckage is piled up 15 feet high, and a force of 3,000 outside laborers has been put to work. As a result Galveston is gradually becoming fit for habitation.

INDIANA MYSTERY

UNIDENTIFIED HEAD FOUND IN SACK AT CEDAR LAKE.

DENTISTRY FURNISHES THE ONLY CLUE.

GENERAL NEWS OF THE STATE OF INDIANA.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—A silver tooth plate, to which two false incisors of the upper jaw were wired, is the only clew to the identity of the severed human head that was found tied in a grain sack in Cedar lake, just across the Indiana state line.

Identification of the victim of the supposed murder by means of the head is absolutely impossible, so far as recognizing the features are concerned, because the head was packed in quick lime before being thrown into the lake and the features were destroyed by the action of the chemical.

The only hope of getting a clew to the mystery is that the dentistry work may be recognized.

The head bids fair to furnish a murder mystery as famous as the Guldesuppe case in New York.

ARREST CAUSES INSANITY.

New Albany, Ind., Oct. 1.—As a result of the arrest of her brother, E. J. Stein, Friday, on a charge of forging the name of his father to a note for $800, Miss Jessie Stein has lost her mind, and is now a violent maniac. The young girl was living with her brother, caring for his house during the absence of his wife, when the officer arrived to make the arrest. She is nervous, and the scene prostrated her. The neighbors went in soon after the officer and prisoner had departed and found her raving. The family is a wealthy and prominent one. Physicians are working with her, but so far have failed to find any improvement in her condition.

AGAINST RURAL DELIVERY.

Kokomo, Ind., Oct. 1.—The establishment of free rural postal delivery in this county has elicited a stentorian roar from the villages and the residents of the small towns will petition the department for free delivery discontinuance. The rural routes contemplate the abandonment of several village postoffices, among them New London, the oldest town in the county. New London was the pioneer law sent of the county, the postoffice being established in 1840. The village merchants believe that rural delivery is the death knell of all small towns, a virtual confiscation of property amounting to many thousand dollars.

HEAD GIVES MURDER CLEW.

Crown Point, Ind., Oct. 1.—An inquest upon the man's head found in Cedar lake tied in a grain sack was held this morning by Coroner Osinski but developed nothing as to identity of the grewsome object. Soon after the head came in contact with the air it began to crumble, which the authorities say indicates that it was packed in quicklime to destroy the features. The jaws contain several false teeth, and the only hope of getting a clew to the mystery is that the dentistry work may be recognized by some dentist.

CHURCH DEDICATED.

North Manchester, Ind., Oct. 1.—The Zion Lutheran church was appropriately dedicated yesterday morning by Dr. V. S. Biswell, D. D., of Springfield, Ohio, assisted by the pastor, Rev. D. F. Thomas. The edifice was built in 1880, but the trustees have just remodeled the church. The Northern Indiana Lutheran Synod will meet here the second week of October.

ONE WOMAN'S SORROW.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 1.—The discovery at Muncie of the widow of George L. Mason, of Indiana gas belt fame, working in a factory there, has created surprise throughout the gas region. Mrs. Mason says her husband has abandoned her, and that she had to part with her children, who were sent to Mason's mother at Macon, Ga., to support. Mason was a widely known character through the gas belt in the early days of Marion's boom, and it was he who helped make Marion famous as a manufacturing point. He was a member of the firm of Mason, Wiley & Butler.

He brought excursions of eastern capitalists here and gave banquets for them and induced them to invest thousands of dollars in various enterprises. It was through him that the electric street car lines were built. But he vanished from the city and was afterward heard from at various places as the promoter of some gigantic scheme. He finally became the head of a street car company at Toronto, Canada. His wife was prominent in social affairs, but is now living in poverty, it is said. It was while he was booming affairs here, at Muncie and Anderson that he met Miss Nellie Green and married her and they lived in luxury. It has been four years since the Mason children have seen their father and Mrs. Mason says she does not know where he is.

FOUND DEAD IN HIS BED.

Windfall, Ind., Oct. 1.—Ellsworth Downey, a farmer residing eight miles northeast, aged forty years, was found dead in bed at his home yesterday morning. His wife was sent to the insane hospital last week. The coroner is investigating.

GAMBLING HOUSES CLOSED.

Marion, Ind., Oct. 1.—Marion is no longer a home for gamblers. Mayor Jones gave the sporting fraternity a shock Saturday night when he issued an order that all gambling houses must close. Chief White and his assistants were busy throughout the night communicating the order to the gambling house keepers, and before morning all were in darkness. The new mayor's order was indorsed from every pulpit in the city yesterday and his policy is receiving the encouragement of all the best citizens.

FIVE DOLLARS A BOX.

The Price Cut No Figure With Him.

"I want to say for the benefit of some poor dyspeptic that Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will give comfort and a cure every time. Five dollars a box would not stop my purchasing them should I ever suffer again as I did for a week before using them.

The one 50 cent box I bought at my druggist's did the work and my digestion is all right again.

Many of my neighbors have also tried these tablets and found them to be just as represented and Mr. Ellms also wants me to use his name in endorsing Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. Signed

A. Ellms and
Chas. F. Buzzell, Asst. Postmaster.
South Sudbury, Mass.

Mrs. Jas. Barton, of Toronto, Canada, writes: For eighteen months I suffered from what I supposed was bladder and kidney trouble, and took medicine from three different doctors, without any sign of cure. I felt so ill at last I was hardly able to do my work.

I thought I would try a box of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets and see if they would make me feel better, never really thinking I had dyspepsia, but after only three or four tablets had been taken all the acid trouble disappeared and then I discovered I had had acid dyspepsia, while the doctors had been treating me for kidney and bladder trouble and one of them treated me for rheumatism.

My digestion is fine, my complexion clear and I am able to do my work and low spirits are unknown to me.

I am so thankful for finding a cure so good and so pleasant to take as Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets. I am surprised at the change they have made in me.

All druggists sell and recommend Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, because they contain only the simple natural digestives, and taken after meals prevent acidity and cause prompt digestion and assimilation of food.

Physicians everywhere endorse them because they are as safe for the child as for the adult; they are invaluable for sour stomach, nervous dyspepsia, heartburn, gas on stomach and bowels and every form of stomach derangement.

HARRY BRILL RESIGNS.

Harry S. Brill surprised the Pennsylvania officials and his railway friends this afternoon by tendering his resignation as general yardmaster at this point for the Pennsylnia company. Mr. Brill has been in the employ of the company for many years, for the past two years in the position from which he now retires. Previous to becoming general yardmaster, Mr. Brill was in the train service, first as brakeman and later freight and extra passenger conductor. He is one of the best railway men in the city and a most congenial and popular gentleman. His successor at the yards has not yet been appointed.

CARBAGE CREMATORY BURNED

Buffalo N. Y., Oct. 1.—The main building of the city garbage crematory known as the Baynes Garbage works on William street just outside of the city line was burned today. Loss, $80,000.

Fred Kaseo has returned from the east, where he has been residing for a year. Mr. Kaseo formerly worked at the electric works in this city.

no matter what offer the companies make, until President Mitchell had been consulted.

A great many of the strikers are willing to accept a 10 per cent. increase but they say they will do nothing to antagonize the officers of the United Mine Workers, since, in the opinion of the strikers, they have conducted affairs successfully so far.

It is the judgment of those here in a position to know that a settlement of the strike depended upon President Mitchell waiving the right of the national executive board, through him, to dictate what terms shall be accepted, and allowing the local unions to decide the matter.

STRIKERS RANKS INTACT.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 1.—There was not a single defection reported from the ranks of the striking mine workers in the Lackawanna region today, despite the report of a 10 per cent wage increase on the part of the mining companies.

Efforts to get another Lackawanna company washery into operation this morning were a failure, as the firemen and engineers who were asked to work there absolutely refused to do so and are reported to have taken the oath of obligation to the United Mine Workers.

General Superintendent Loomis, of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western company, had no statement to make this morning on behalf of the Superintendent's association, but he stated there would be an operators' meeting at Wilkesbarre this afternoon, at which some definite announcements were likely.

At this meeting it is understood representatives of the big financial interests behind the coal carrying railroads will be present.

The strikers hereabouts say they are determined to follow their leaders and that they will not under any circumstances return to work until the official word is given them.

FEW MEN WENT TO WORK.

Shamokin, Pa., Oct. 1.—Although superintendents of the numerous collieries in this portion of the Ninth United Mine Workers' district attempted to start up their mines this morning, few, if any, men went to work.

A few business people expected there would be a stampede of employes of the Reading Coal and Iron company to go underground on account of the company granting an increase of 10 per cent. on the net earnings of the men and boys, but they were disappointed.

If anything, less men showed up at the Reading company's workings than at other operations, owing to the strikers and their leaders having canvassed the workmen thoroughly after the posting yesterday of the company's notices informing the miners of the concession.

The canvassers pointed out that nothing was said about a reasonable reduction on the cost of powder, the abolishment of the sliding scale or the granting of other important concessions.

Long before daybreak all of the Reading company's men had determined not to go to work. It is generally agreed by most, if not all of the strikers, that they will not go to work until officially advised by President Mitchell.

There was no violence anywhere in the district this morning. Committees of strikers lined all avenues leading to the mines to guard against men going to work, but as few left their homes the sentinels had little or nothing to do.

READING UNABLE TO RESUME.

Shenandoah, Pa., Oct. 1.—District Superintendent Adam Boyd, of the Philadelphia and Reading Coal and Iron company, said today that the Reading company collieries in this vicinity were unable to resume operations today because none of the mine workers had seen fit to avail themselves of the increase in wages. The collieries, Mr. Boyd said, are in readiness to begin work in just as soon as strikers care to go back. The superintendents estimated that 27,000 mine workers are idle by reason of the strike in the Reading company's mines.

The Twelfth regiment, with the exception of one company, left for home over the Pennsylvania railroad today.

The remaining company will depart with the tents as soon as the canvas is dry, an early morning shower having saturated them.

NO NEED OF CONVENTION.

Hazelton, Pa., Oct. 1.—President Mitchell again reiterated this afternoon that, notwithstanding the reports to the contrary, he is not preparing to issue the call for a convention nor does he contemplate at this time the issuance of such a call. He said there is nothing in the situation at present which will suggest the necessity of bringing together the delegates, but he intimated that something might be developed at any time which would require him to call a convention on one day's notice.

He would not say that he is looking for any sudden turn in the situation.

FIND BABY FONDLING BEAR.

Dallas, Tex., Oct. 1.—The lost baby and the big black bear furnished a Sabbath sensation at police headquarters that lasted Chief Price and his men all day. Lizzie, the 3-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Self, was missed by her parents Saturday evening, who had left her playing on the sidewalk in front of the family home on Canton street. After searching for the child for an hour Mr. and Mrs. Self notified the police and a general search throughout the city was instituted. About 7 o'clock yesterday morning two officers riding through the section of the city park in which the "zoo" is located discovered Lizzie seated in front of the cage in which the big black bear is confined. The child's feet and arms were extended inside the cage between the bars of the structure and the little one was gleefully prattling to and petting the big brute. Lizzie was taken to headquarters and restored to her parents. Chief Price, who used to be a Texas ranger, remarked to the child's parents and the newspaper men: "If that had been me or one of the force that had taken such liberties with 'Big Ben' he'd chew an arm or leg off for us, to say the least. God took care of the baby."

AN INJUNCTION DENIED.

Milwaukee, Wis., Oct. 1. An application of the Chicago board of trade for a temporary injunction restraining the Milwaukee outside committeemen brokers from making use of the Chicago quotations, was denied by Judge Seaman today. The answers of the brokers, the court said, raise an issue as to whether the board of trade had lost its right of property in the quotations by publication. This, the court ruled, can only be determined by the taking of proofs. The case will be sent to a referee to take testimony.

PRESIDENT OF BELL CO. DIES.

Beverly, Mass., Oct. 1.—John E. Hudson, president of the American Bell Telephone company, died suddenly in the Boston and Maine railroad station at Beverly Farms today while waiting for a train.

HUSBAND WANTS DIVORCE.

In the circuit court, through his attorneys, Swayne & Swayne, Samuel Jackson makes application for a divorce from Amanda Jackson, making the usual allegations.

A SHORT STORY

"THEY SAY."

Have you heard of the terrible family, "They,"
And the dreadful venomous things they say?
Why, half the gossip under the sun,
If you trace it back, you will find begun
In that wretched house of "They."

A numerous family, so I am told,
And its genealogical tree is old;
For ever since Adam and Eve began
To build up the calumnies race of man
Has existed the house of "They."

Gossip mongers and spreaders of lies,
Hateful people whom all despise!
And yet the best of us now and then
Repeat queer tales about women and men
And quote the house of "They."

They live like lords and never labor.
A "They's" one task is to watch his neighbor
And tell his business and private affairs.
We the world at large they are sworn of foes—
Those folks in the house of "They."

It is wholly useless to follow a "They"
With a whip or a gun, for he slips away
And into his house, where you cannot go,
It is locked and bolted and guarded so—
This horrible house of "They."

Though you cannot get in, yet they get out
And spread their villainous tales about.
Of all the rascals under the sun
Who have come to punishment never one
Belongs to the house of "They."

My Wedding Day.

By L. C. Woodberry.

Well, as I was saying, this is the way it came about: I was a young thing then, just turned 18. Your grandfather had been my playmate, hero and protector from the time that I was old enough to go to school. I had never thought of marrying any one but him, and so when he asked me to be his wife, why, of course, I said "Yes."

Well, it was in the spring of 1775 that we were to be married. Mother and I spent the winter getting my things made up, and I had as fine an outfit as a girl could possibly have in those days. The day set for the wedding was the 19th of April—yes, the very day on which the battle of Lexington occurred, as I have good reason to remember.

Those were anxious days for us. I remember how serious my father and brothers used to look as they discussed the events which were then taking place. Their only conversation was about rights, stamps and taxes.

When the towns began to raise "minutemen," why, of course, we raised a company in our town, and your grandfather and my brothers were members of it. We girls could not stand guard, of course, so in order to show our patriotism we all signed a paper in which we agreed not to have anything to do with the men of the town who refused to join the company.

The 19th of April was a beautiful day, though a warm one for the season. We were all up early that morning, for there was a great deal to be done. It was about 9 o'clock in the forenoon when my mother, who had been looking over some linen, suddenly raised her head, exclaiming as she did so, "Why, Mary, was that the meeting house bell?"

"What can it mean?" I cried, and, running to the window, I caught sight of our neighbor's sons, Joe and John Eaton, running down the road with their guns. Across the way Harry Wright was plowing the field. The boys called out to him as they passed, and, without stopping to unhitch the horse, he seized his gun and was off across the fields.

"It is an alarm, mother!" I cried.

"The boys are down by the brook," she said. "The sound will not reach them. Run and tell them!"

Without delay I hurried to the kitchen, and, seizing the horn, I ran out of the house and started for the brook, which was some distance from the house. I blew a blast on the horn as I ran, and as the boys caught sight of me I pointed toward the road, where several men could be seen running with their guns. The boys understood, and, waving their hands to me, they were off across the field to the road.

"What do you suppose the matter is?" asked mother when I returned to the house.

"I do not know," was my reply, "but I am going to find out." And I ran out of the house and took a short cut across the fields to the meeting house, which was to be the gathering place if the alarm should ever be sounded. I, for one, had never expected to hear any alarm, for at home we hoped for a peaceful settlement of the difficulties. But when I reached the church and saw the whole town gathered on the green the men's stern air and the women's pale faces frightened me, and I began to fear that something serious was the matter.

"What is it? Where are they going?" I asked. And as I spoke the men came hurrying out of the meeting house, when they had heard a few words from Parson Smith, and, mounting their horses, rode off as fast as they could go. I looked for your grandfather, but he was not there. Catching sight of my father, I ran to him. "Have you seen Henry?" (that's your grandfather) I asked.

"Henry was at the tavern when the messenger rode through here," replied my father, "and, as he had his horse with him, he rode away without waiting for the company to assemble."

You may imagine my feelings as I turned to go home. This was my wedding day, and the man who was to marry me had ridden off without a word, knowing, too, that he might never return, if all they were saying about fights and resistance was true.

My father had reached home before me, and as I opened the door I heard mother ask, "Do you think it is anything serious, father?"

"I am afraid it may be, wife," he said. "The messenger said that Governor Gage has sent some of the king's troops to destroy the supplies which have been stored at Concord. If the report is true, there will be resistance, and if it comes to that it will be very serious business for us."

My mother kept her fears to herself and did her best to make me feel that it would come out all right, but those hours were the most anxious I ever spent. So through the day we watched and waited for news.

The first news that came to us from the fight at Lexington and the other doings of that day arrived about 4 o'clock in the afternoon, when some minutemen from another town stopped at the tavern on their way home. They told the story of the day to the little crowd of anxious women who eagerly questioned them for news of some dear one.

My father would not let me go down to the tavern, but went down himself and brought us the news. I can see him now hurrying along the road.

"Something unusual has happened, Mary!" exclaimed my mother. "I never saw your father look so excited."

I hastened down the path to meet him.

"Bad news, my child; bad news!" he exclaimed. "There has been an encounter with the king's troops." And then, reading the question in my eyes, he continued, "But they brought no news of our men."

The hour set for the wedding was 8 o'clock, but it began to look as if there would be no wedding, for it was now after 7 o'clock, and none of our men had returned home.

Mother and I sat in silence in the kitchen while father walked back and forth in the room above.

At last we heard steps outside, and then my brother Arthur, who was among the first to reach home, staggered into the room. I sprang up and ran to him. He sank into the nearest chair, and his gun fell to the floor with a thud. Arthur was only a boy of 15, you must remember, and the day had been a terrible one.

When he had recovered a little, my father spoke. "What news do you bring, my son?" he asked.

Now, I had felt from the first that he had brought bad news, and by the way he hesitated and glanced from father to me and still did not speak I felt sure of it. So I put my worst fears into words.

"Arthur," I said, "is it Henry?"

"Listen," he said, speaking rapidly. "The king's troops were in full retreat when we reached the road. We did not keep with our companies, but each one found shelter as he was able, behind trees, walls or fences. I met Henry as I was crossing a field, and we took shelter together and awaited the coming of the troops. We had just got settled when Henry caught sight of a flanking party coming right down on us. He called to the men near us to run for their lives, and at the same time we both jumped the wall and ran for a house which stood in the field just opposite. I reached the opposite wall in safety and turned round to look for Henry, but he was not with me. At that moment the troops came round a sudden turn in the road and sent some shots in our direction. At the risk of being shot at I stood up and looked across the road. He must have been hit by the flanking party, for he lay just by the wall."

"Are you sure it was he?" asked father.

"Yes; I knew him by the green on his powderhorn," replied my brother.

"You staid by and looked after him?" asked father.

"I tried to, sir, but the troops came down on us, and we were obliged to move on. I went back to the place as soon as I could, but I must have mistaken the spot, for I could not find him."

Meanwhile I sat in my chair, feeling as if I had just awakened from a bad dream. I did not fully realize what had happened, for it seemed impossible.

"Here are some people, Mary," said mother. "You would better go up to your room and lie down."

I did as I was told. There on the bed lay my wedding gown. I could not bear to look at it, and, picking it up, I placed it in the large chest in which my linen was packed and pulled down the lid; then I threw myself on the bed, and tears came to my relief. So I lay there thinking over the events of the day, my wedding day that was to have been. How different from what I had anticipated!

Suddenly I heard the sound of a horse's feet coming up the road at a furious pace. I sat up and listened. "Somebody is riding on an important errand," I said to myself. Nearer and nearer came the sound, and the rider, whoever he was, drew rein at our door. Then there were a murmur of voices and an opening and shutting of doors and then my mother's voice calling to me: "Mary, Mary; child, come down! Henry is here. He's come."

Scarcely believing that I heard aright, I got up and ran down stairs and into the kitchen, and there before me, his face pale as death, with a blood stained bandage bound about his forehead, stood your grandfather.

"Mary," he cried, holding out his hands to me, "I am in time! The clock has not struck yet!"

Then Parson Elder, who had come over to hear the news from Arthur, came forward and said, "Shall I perform the ceremony now?"

So right then and there your grandfather, in his working clothes, all stained with dust and blood, and I in my morning calico, were married.—Forward.

What Hurts.

"The other side," observed the candidate in much apprehension, "are putting some damaging reports in circulation."

"But no money to speak of," rejoined the chairman of the campaign committee complacently.—Detroit Journal.

WON FIVE GAMES

FORT WAYNES EXCELLED THE 1900 CHAMPIONS.

WON TWO GAMES YESTERDAY

THE SECOND RESULTED IN A WHITEWASH.

ERRORS WERE PLENTIFUL—BIG LEAGUE SCORES.

The Fort Waynes are winners of the post-season series with the Daytons, champions of the Inter-State league, and there are "fans" in Fort Wayne who believe that the local team could easily have won every game of the seven played. The result of the series stands five victories for Fort Wayne and two for Dayton, and in only two games did the champions show anything like championship form and Fort Wayneites wonder more than ever now how Manager Armour's youngsters ever won the pennant.

There was a double-header at League park yesterday and Fort Wayne won both games, and the Hoosiers will divide 60 per cent. of the receipts, while the champions will get the other 40 per cent. to split with each other, providing there is anything left when the expenses are paid. Fricken and Wicker were opposing twirlers in the first game, and the light-haired Dayton twirler did the best work, but the support he received from his catcher was very yellow, indeed. The other errors made by the champion players were quite costly. Umpire Hubbard made decisions on which both sides kicked, but Dayton got none the worst of it. Wicker led the hitting, putting the ball against the right field fence in the second inning and over the fence in the ninth.

The second game was a walkaway for Fort Wayne. The Daytons gave a miserable exhibition of fielding and Gilpatrick was very ineffective, being very wild. Wadsworth kept hits scattered and not a run was scored by the champions. Score:

SATURDAY'S GAME.

The Daytons won Saturday's game on account of Watkins' effective twirling. The little southpaw made no effort to strike out batsmen, but allowed them to hit the ball, which generally went right into the hands of some waiting fielder. Swaim was struck by one of Myers' hot ones and his leg so badly injured that he retired from the game, Cooper succeeding him. Cooper was very effective, but the Fort Waynes couldn't get a run. INTER-STATE MEETING.

President Mautner has received notice that the regular fall meeting of the Inter State league will be held in Dayton this week and he will attend. The meeting promises to be the most important in the history of the league and it is a foregone conclusion that there will be some changes in the circuit, but no one appears to know just what these changes will be, although it is believed that New Castle will be dropped and possibly Wheeling will quit. The New Castle management failed to pay all the salaries due the Quaker players and it is generally supposed that the Pennsylvania town will make no effort to remain in the league. The street railway company in Wheeling backed the Stogie team during the latter part of the season and it is not believed the company will care to keep the club next season, especially if all the other cities are hundreds of miles away. It is possible that Grand Rapids and Saginaw may be selected to fill the vacancies, and there is also some talk of Terre Haute being elected to membership. Should this be done the circuit will be Fort Wayne, Toledo, Dayton, Mansfield, Anderson, Marion, Grand Rapids and Saginaw. Marion, being a very small city, may be dropped and Terre Haute selected in place of the gas town. But these are questions to be settled at the meeting and not by the newspapers. President Power has stated that he will not again be a candidate for the presidency. The league should be careful in choosing a successor, as more depends on the filling of the presidency than on the selection of new cities to make up the circuit. For four years has President Power kept the Inter-State league on its feet and if he positively refuses to accept a re-election the magnates should move slowly before choosing his successor. Here's hoping that a compact circuit will be selected and a competent president chosen at the Dayton meeting.

THE ENGLISH ELECTIONS.

London, Oct. 1.—Sixteen English and Irish boroughs, electing twenty members of the house of commons, are polling today, so tonight's returns will furnish some indication of the trend of opinion. Winston Churchill is among the candidates whose fate will be decided today. Another long list of unopposed returns brings the total number of those already elected up to 2:30 p. m. today to 110 as follows. Conservatives, 78; unionists, 18; liberals, 8; nationalists, 6.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Wheat started weak today, Nov. 3/8c under Saturday at 70⅛c to 70⅜c. This was due to the heavy deliveries, 2,000,000 bushels, lower Liverpool cables and the heavy world's shipment which aggregated 8,350,000 bushels. The sentiment turned on threatening weather in the northwest and buying by locals and November rallied to 77c. Local receipts were 350 cars, 10 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 857 cars against 850 last week and 1,354 a year ago.

The strength of northwestern markets and a visible increase of only 410,000 bushels were a help to the market later. November advanced and closed strong, ⅜@¾c higher at 77⅜@77⅝c.

Local receipts of corn were 1,184 and the market opened easier, November ⅛c lower at 36½c. Deliveries were only 35,000 bushels, however, and world's shipments light, 2,812,000 bushels, and these two considerations were industrial in a rally to 37c.

The close was firm, November ½c higher at 37⅛c.

Oats were quiet and sympathized with wheat and corn. November opened a shade down at 22⅛@22¼c and sold to 22¼@22⅜c. Receipts were 443 cars.

Provisions were firm on the light deliveries. January pork opened unchanged at $11.60 and advanced to $11.70; January lard a shade lower at $6.77½, selling to $6.82½, and January ribs a shade higher at $6.20@6.22½, rallying to $6.25.

THE CLOSE.

Prices at the close were as follows:

Wheat—Oct., 76⅞c; Nov., 77⅜@77⅝c; Dec., 78⅜c.

Corn—Oct., 39½c; Nov., 34⅜c; Dec., 34⅛@34⅜c; May, 35⅝@35¾c.

Oats—Oct., 21½@22 c; Nov., 22⅜@22½c; Dec., 22¾@22⅝c; May, 24¾c.

Pork—Oct., $12.57½; Nov., $11.45; Jan., $11.72½.

Lard—Oct., $7.17½; Nov., $7.15@7.17½; Dec., $6.95@6.97½; Jan., $6.85@6.87½.

Good to prime steers, $5.40@5.85; poor to medium, $4.70@5.30; stockers and feeders, $2.00@2.60; bulls, $2.65@4.40; calves, $4.50@6.50; Texas fed steers, $4.10@4.90; Texas grass steers, $3.25@4.00; Texas bulls $2.10@3.25.

Hogs—Receipts today, 14,000; tomorrow, 20,000; left over, 4,652. Market weak to 5c lower; choice about steady; others weak. Mixed and butchers, $5.00@5.60; good to choice heavy, $5.00@5.45; rough heavy, $4.85@4.95; light, 5c lower, $5.10@5.50; bulk of sales, $5.17½@5.37½.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 1.—Changes were much mixed at the opening of the stock market, but the Southwestern Grangers and the leading specialties were higher as a rule. American Tobacco was up a point, and New York Central gained a sharp fraction. Generally the changes were small.

An upward movement in the Steel group obtained great headway in the first hour, Pressed Steel Car gaining 2 points, Tennessee Coal [illegible] and kindred stocks large fractions. There was also a good demand for Sugar, People's Gas and Brooklyn Transit, which responded about a point. In a few of the railroads good gains were made, but the majority moved narrowly. Very heavy buying of Union Pacific advanced it 1¼.

Railroad stocks were in larger demand than for a long time and the specialties fell somewhat into the background. Improvements of a point or more were made by some of the western trunk lines, Southwestern and Pacific stocks. Sugar spurted up to 113 and Manhattan to 86.

Bonds were quiet and irregular.

THE MONEY MARKET.

New York, Oct. 1.—Money on call nominally at 2 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4¾@5½ per cent; sterling exchange weak with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.85½@4.85¾ for demand and at $4.82@4.82¼ for 60 days; posted rates, $4.82½@4.83½ and $4.86¼@4.87; commercial bills, $4.81¼@4.81¾; silver certificates, 63⅛@64⅛c; bar silver, 63⅜c; Mexican dollars, 49⅞c.

NEW YORK PRODUCE.

New York, Oct. 1.—Butter—Receipts, 5,956 pkgs; market quiet; creamery, 17@22c; June creamery, 18@21½c; factory, 13½@16½c.

MRS. CHRISTINA HAKE EXPIRED THIS MORNING.

Was the Widow of a Former Prominent German Citizen—Other Mortuary Matters.

Mrs. Christina Hake died at 5:30 o'clock this morning at her residence, 28 Wells street. Mrs. Hake was the widow of the late Frank Hake, formerly a well known German citizen of this city who died nearly six years ago.

Mrs. Hake has been in poor health for several weeks and her death was due to an attack of pneumonia, combined with the infirmities of her advanced years. She was born in Germany sixty-nine years ago, and came with her husband to Fort Wayne in 1866, since which date this city has been continuously her home.

Her marriage to Mr. Hake occurred forty-three years ago, and to them were born eight children, five of whom survive. They are Mrs. Mary Dennis, Mrs. Regina Henkenius, Mrs. Christina Himbert and Mrs. Lena Bicker, of this city, the latter making her home with the mother, and Mrs. Nellie Thone, of Peoria Ill.

Mrs. Hake possessed a wide acquaintance and was universally esteemed as a kind, devoted Christian woman. She was for many years a member of St. Paul's Catholic church, and at the time of her death held membership in the Church of the Precious Blood.

The funeral services will be announced later.

Delbert Niermann, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Niermann, of 410 Broadway, died at 11 o'clock Saturday night from inflammation of the bowels, at the age of three years and ten months.

Funeral services will be held from the residence Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Lindenwood.

FUNERAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Parnin.—Funeral services of Adolph Parnin will be held Tuesday morning at 9:30 from the residence, 5 Fulton street, and at 10 o'clock from the Cathedral. In the notice of Mr. Parnin's death previously published the name of a son, Louis Parnin, of Minneapolis, Minn., was inadvertently omitted.

Reid.—Funeral services of Francis M. Reid will be held from the residence, 5 Romy avenue, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

The funeral services will be under the auspices of the Fort Wayne Amateur Driving club, of which the young man was a member.

PASTOR DIES IN HIS PULPIT.

New York, Oct. 1.—Rev. Dr. Gilbert H. Gregory expired yesterday in the presence of his congregation at the morning service in St. Stephen's M. E. church, Marble Hill, at the upper end of Manhattan island. Dr. Gregory's physician had urged him to retire from active church work, as he had long been a sufferer from heart trouble. They told him that he might live for years if he would cease to labor, but if he continued to work he was liable to be stricken at any moment. The clergyman replied: "I prefer to meet death in that way to retiring and shirking my duty in order to live longer." The service had progressed to the singing of a hymn which precedes the sermon. Dr. Gregory arose and read three verses of the hymn, beginning "Lord, divine, all love excelling." While the music of the anthem filled the church Dr. Gregory seated himself and then fell limp over one of the arms of the chair. Members of the congregation went to his assistance and two physicians who happened to be passing the church were called in. But the minister was beyond human aid and in five minutes from the time that he was stricken Dr. Gregory was dead. Dr. Gregory was born in Medina, N. Y. He was 63 years of age.

A SIGH AND A SONG.

Love's a sigh and love's a song,
Love's a gloom and glory;
Shall we linger with him long—
Hear the old sweet story?
Heights to climb and deeds to do;
Shall we dream the springtime thro

Welladay! Love leads to May;
Though the winter's romel us,
Somehow, in his artful way,
With a wreath he's crowned us.
Heights to climb and deeds to do,
Shall we dream a lifetime through?

Yes, if love in gloom and gleam
Come in sweetest seeming;
If he but direct the dream,
Sweet will be the dreaming!
Shall we only dream and go?
Yes, if love will have it so.

A LUCKY BLUNDER.

It Kept John Hobbs From Marrying the Wrong Girl and Led Him to Marry the Right One.

It was just 8:30 by the dusty clock that did duty in the editor's office of The Daily Telegram, when John Hobbs, manager and general factotum for that enterprising paper, from which he derived a snug little income, suddenly remembered the day of the week. It was Thursday and on the following evening the most select concert of the season would take place, where the social set of Wrensville would be in evidence.

Now for nearly a year John had been a frequent and more or less regular caller on Miss Mabelle Whitney, the very pretty daughter of a very rich merchant.

He had intended to invite her all along, but this delay in his invitation might mean a disappointment. He would soon know and why not embody in his note a declaration of his affections, and so put to the test whether she returned his love or not. This seemed a happy thought, so he began:

My Dear Friend—May I hope for the pleasure of your company at the concert tomorrow evening by the Singers' club? I have a question to ask you, the answer to which will make me either the most miserable or happiest of men. If you accept my invitation to the concert, I shall understand your answer will not be "No" to the more momentous question, and a refusal of my invitation I shall consider as a refusal of yours, with deepest regard. JOHN ELLIOTT HOBBS.

For a man of so brilliant a mind this was really a very lame proposal, but John signed his name with a consciousness of having said just enough and not too much, feeling quite sure in the depths of his honest devotion to her that her answer would be what he hoped. With this load off his mind he turned to the perusal of his afternoon mail, with which his desk was littered.

Another story from the pen of Miss Davenport. Well, this one he had better reject, for she was really getting beyond her depth, or so it seemed to him. To be sure, she sketched her characters with an artist's skill and was decidedly original in plot and action, but the public, his public, must be amused, and her heroines never seemed happy, and, what was more, never married the heroes, nor any one else, for that matter. He did not want to personally say "no" to this girl, in whom unconsciously he had become so interested and whom he recognized as a clever writer, sure to win for herself a name in the world. But he had already made up his mind not to accept more of her work, and so taking up the stub pen which had certainly seen better days, he dashed off as follows:

My Dear Madam—Notwithstanding our appreciation of and admiration for your style we find we must discontinue acceptance for the present. Trusting to be of service at some future date, I am, yours very truly, JOHN ELLIOTT HOBBS.

"I flatter myself that is neatly done," thought John, so hastily placing the notes in their respective envelopes and addressing the same he rang for the office boy.

Friday morning dawned dull and rainy, with little prospect of clearing weather, and as John sat in his office his courage and spirits were at ebb tide. It was all owing to the weather, he thought, and not a premonition of failure. Anyway he had stopped at the florist's and ordered a box of gorgeous violets sent his love, and they must be received by this time.

Just then the postman opened the door. Not a line from her in this mail, only some advertisements, a bill or two, three cards of invitation, a check, thanks for that, and last of all, a small envelope in the well known handwriting of Miss Davenport. A reply to his dismissal of the day before, he presumed, and, fearing to open the note he read:

My Dear Mr. Hobbs—The contents of your letter, although a very great surprise to me, have made me very happy. It is hardly necessary for me to add that I "accept" your invitation and shall expect you this evening. With regards from my mother and self, I am, most sincerely,
MADELEN E. DAVENPORT.

What did it mean. What invitation did she accept and why should his letter make her very happy? Quite the reverse, he had supposed. It sounded like some mystery of romance from her versatile pen, but it was no jesting matter he reflected, remembering the concert and his anxiety of mind concerning his answer from Miss Whitney. Just then, in his reflection, the door was flung open and a messenger boy sang out: "Mr. Hobbs! Very important. No answer." And depositing a package handed John his book for signature. John recognized the handwriting of the address and hastily tore it open. A large bunch of violets met his astonished gaze and a letter, which read as follows:

Mr. Hobbs:

Sir—Allow me to return your property, which by some mistake was sent to me. As to my style, I consider it presumptuous on your part to pass any comments on what cannot possibly be of interest or concern of yours. I most heartily indorse your desire to discontinue all future correspondence, as your insults are only less clever than your compliments. Yours, etc.,
MADELEN WHITNEY.

Poor John read it with sinking heart, too utterly miserable to express the surprise it merited. Another riddle to my heart to her. About the original of the photograph I reasoned this way: She would not be carrying her own miniature around in all probability. It must have been lost by a friend, and probably—here was the hard part of it—by her lover. If I advertised it, he would claim it, and I should not meet her.

"I didn't advertise. I did something far more irrational. I spent my spare hours searching. I visited stores and walked the streets. I haunted the residence part of the city. I went to the opera and scanned the boxes rather than the stage. Needless to say, I did not find her; yet I never lost hope. I felt I must find her and look at her. I felt this afresh every time I opened this case. I would not give up the search. When I had exhausted every resource of my own, I did something which I had shrunk from doing before; I haunted out the best detective in the city and told him to spare neither time nor money in finding her.

"Within two weeks I received a note from him. He was obliged to leave the town suddenly. He wrote something like this:

"'I've found her at 320 Water avenue. Imogene Monroe. Will give you particulars when I return tomorrow. She is anxious to recover the miniature.'

"But I could not await the next day, and saw no reason why it would be necessary. I had the photograph and would take it to her. Because of it I should insure myself a reception at least.

"I went to 320 Water avenue that evening. It is an elegant residence in perfect keeping with the case and face. I had scribbled on my card, 'The finder of the miniature.' The maid who admitted me said that Miss Monroe was at home. She took the card and left me in the reception room. It was one of the most—what shall I call it?—delicious rooms I was ever in. One side was lined with deep windows draped in soft, dainty curtains and filled with plants and flowers. The air was heavy with the scent of roses.

"I stood before one of the windows looking at the blossoms when she came. She came so quietly and gently that I did not hear her. It was only when the sweetest, lowest, clearest voice I had ever heard said, 'At last I am to have my miniature,' that I knew she was in the room. I confess I trembled as I turned and took the hand of—

Alyn stopped and smiled. It was a half sad, half amused, wholly inscrutable smile. My sewing had fallen into my lap, and I leaned forward listening breathlessly.

"The hand of the original of the picture. These eyes, this mouth, this delicate complexion, this same soft curling hair. I was looking on it all, the same but—"

Alyn raised his eyes. The amusement had faded away.

"The hair was snowy white, and the skin was wrinkled. Hers was indeed the face of the miniature, the face of 50 years ago. My foolish fancy was destroyed, but in its place came the sweetest little white haired lady that man was ever privileged to call friend. And this miniature! Some way I had a strange reluctance to part with it, and so here it is with me now. That is all," concluded Alyn abruptly.

"That is enough." I said quietly. "I think that face has stood between you and"—

Alyn broke in hastily:

"Oh, that is nothing. I couldn't carry this," holding up the photograph, "into such places as I had been frequenting, and so—well, it's all right."

Alyn buttoned up his coat and smiled at me frankly as he went out by way of the office door.

The doctor has always said there was the making of a man in that boy. —St. Louis Star.

Some Simple Remedies.

In one of the United States health reports published in Washington a few simple remedies for emergency uses are suggested. Witch hazel is one and is recommended as one of the quickest soothers and restorers of a tired brain. Bathe the eyes and forehead freely with the liquid and apply a cloth wet with it at the back of the neck.

Cloths wet in a strong solution of borax water are very cool and healing in case of a burn; care should be taken, however, to exclude the air in putting them on.

A tiny pinch of powdered borax placed on the tongue and allowed to dissolve slowly will almost instantly stop a hacking, irritating cough that may be disturbing one at night. The same treatment relieves an ulcer in the throat, and at the slightest irritation or soreness of the throat a gargle of salt water and borax will be found efficient.

Learning a Language.

How is it that Englishmen are not the best linguists in Europe? Simply and solely because of the general and absurd "deaf and dumb" method of studying foreign languages. Foreigners learning English know better than to waste years over books; they simply "chatter" and learn one word and expression after another, and become familiar with them by constant repetition, with the result that in a few months they can speak and write our language sufficiently well for all practical purposes.—London Mail.

A strange feature of the Galveston calamity is the absolute disappearance of the natural scavenger of the country—the buzzard—just when he is most needed. Not one is to be seen anywhere, though it would be natural to suppose that the bodies of so many dead animals and human beings would attract thousands of buzzards from distant parts.

A Frenchman is constructing an automobile of 100 horse-power. Such a vehicle in view of the stringent anti-speeding law now being enforced throughout France, is likely to prove a white elephant on its hands.

Aluminum has been one of the coming metals for a long time, but at last it has arrived. It is now getting largely into the arts and utilities. Its range is all the way from a picture frame to a frying pan.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

One of the Liverpool clergy of the Established Church of England is trying to employ church women as regular supplementary curates, and he suggests that much organizing work of the parish might be better done by women than by clergymen. He declares that he can get three women to work for the price of one curate and to do three times the work.

It has developed that the majority of motor bicycles which have proved impracticable were unsuccessful because their builders placed the motor too high. This caused a tendency to slip when rounding corners. Other builders, in an effort to overcome this very defect, have placed their motors so low that there was danger of striking the ground when going over rough places.

M. Gain has examined the structure of the embryo of grains of wheat and barley obtained from Egyptian mummy cases and finds that although the grains have undergone but little change in external appearance, and the reserve substances have retained their chemical composition, the chemical composition of the embryo has been completely altered, and it is no longer capable of development.

An Audrain county, Missouri, man found that he could not live happily with his wife, and rather than sue for a divorce they signed a deed of separation which was filed with the county recorder. It is said to be the first instrument of the kind ever on record in Missouri. It divides the property and is more binding than a decree of divorce, in that it forever separates the contracting parties and provides against any reconciliation in the future.

NO. 21 MAKES A FAST RUN

FORT WAYNE TO CHICAGO IN THREE HOURS.

AGENT KIRKLAND REVISES HIS CLERICAL FORCE.

A month ago The Sentinel stated that Will and Ferd Urbahns would retire from the Nickel Plate's employ to engage in the life insurance business. The change occurred today and with it came several changes in the ranks of the dispatchers and telegraphers in Mr. Blair's and Mr. Caldwell's offices. Ferd Urbahns, who was Mr. Blair's chief clerk, has been succeeded by L. Bart, a telegrapher. This is the only change in that office. In the dispatcher's office, J. T. Callahan has been transferred from the night to the day trick, succeeding Will Urbahns, and will have the trick between the hours of 7:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. Leroy Hartzler takes the night trick vacated by Mr. Callahan. This promotes Operator W. C. Kerr to dispatcher and Frank Logue to extra dispatcher. There may be one or two other changes resulting from those mentioned in the foregoing, but they have not been fully decided upon. In the case of Messrs. Callahan and Hartzler, the change is simply a desirable transfer, but in the case of Messrs. Kerr, Logue and Bart it is a decided promotion, and The Sentinel congratulates them. They are competent and faithful in the performance of their duties and further promotions will surely be their lot.

SHORTAGE OF EQUIPMENT.

Traffic managers of eastern railroads are worrying over the unusual shortage of freight cars. They declare that it is almost impossible to secure sufficient equipment, and that serious conditions are rapidly gaining shape. This shortage, unless speedily relieved, may result in a car famine similar to that which recently existed in Kansas City and other important Missouri river points. According to some of the traffic men the immediate cause of this demand for cars is the tremendous amount of freight that the roads are called upon to carry, both east and westbound. According to others the shortage in part is due to a shrinkage in ocean tonnage. The freight yards of the various roads are filled with cars waiting to be unloaded, and freight for shipment is piling up faster than it can be handled. A well-informed traffic official Saturday said that in the neighborhood of 20,000 cars were tied up in the various Atlantic ports. The central freight lines are among the greatest sufferers from this state of affairs.

OFF FOR MEXICO CITY.

R. G. Thompson, of the Wabash railroad, will leave next week for Denver, going thence to the City of Mexico. This trip is made now to perfect the advance arrangements for entertaining his guests on the occasion of the 1901 tour of Mexico, which will leave the latter part of next February. The Wabash Mexico tour last season was received with such marked favor that another is being arranged which will embrace not only the same royal appointments, but the most comprehensive itinerary that has yet been offered. Mr. Thompson will be accompanied on his trip next week by Master Mechanic G. S. McKee, of this city, and H. V. P. Taylor, of St. Louis, assistant general passenger agent of the Wabash. The trip will consume a couple of weeks.

CHANGES IN FREIGHT CLERKS.

This morning there was a change in the clerical force at the Pittsburg freight offices, brought about by the resignation of two men. The retiring ones are Fred McCracken, rate clerk, and Joseph Trentman, messenger. W. R. Garberding has been promoted to the office of rate clerk and Fred Clausmeier has been appointed messenger. Mr. Gardner, who came from the Chicago office, has been appointed second assistant cashier. Young Clausmeier is a son of ex-Sheriff Clausmeier. Fred McCracken will join his father in the insurance business.

VERY CREDITABLE RUN.

Engineer Herman Durnell, who was at the throttle of engine 283, hauling Pennsylvania train No. 21 yesterday, made a remarkable run to Chicago. The train consisted of one baggage, one express, one dining, one special, one combination, three sleeping cars and a coach—nine in all—and it covered the distance in quick time for a train of that size. It left one hour and twenty-seven minutes late and when it went into Chicago it was just fourteen minutes behind schedule time. From Fort Wayne to Clark Junction the train averaged forty-nine miles per hour, which includes three station stops and one stop for water. Excluding stops, the rate was fifty-four miles per hour. The sixty-two miles between Plymouth and Clark Junction, including a stop at Valparaiso, was covered in sixty-nine minutes. From Valparaiso to Clark Junction, twenty-two miles, the train traveled at the rate of 57.3 miles per hour, covering the distance in twenty-three minutes. This run, considering the weight of the train, beats any previous runs on record. The train also made a good run from Crestline to Fort Wayne, making up ten minutes of lost time en route. On this part of the run the conditions were not favorable to speed. Engineer J. C. McCarthy was at the throttle. No. 283 is a class X engine, which was designed by Fort Wayne men and built in this city in 1892. In many respects they are superior to any engines now owned by the company.

ONE MORE TOLEDO EXCURSION.

On account of the union meeting of the railway organizations at Toledo, the Wabash has been requested to make a special rate next Sunday and has agreed to do so. If there is evidence that the crowd will be of considerable proportions, the Wabash will run a special train to Toledo on that occasion; starting the train from Peru. All of the five great railway organizations will participate in the union meeting at Toledo.

JURISDICTION EXTENDED.

W. F. Beardsley, master mechanic of the Toledo division of the Pennsylvania company lines, with headquarters at Crestline, Ohio, has had his jurisdiction extended to the Marietta division of the system, vice J. Glaser, who has resigned. This order went into effect this morning.

DONS THE WORKING JACKET.

N. J. Eichhorn, who recently retired from the office of the storekeeper for the shop department of the Wabash, this morning entered the mechanical department to complete his trade. He was assigned to the erecting department in the locomotive repair shop. The clerical department does not afford opportunities for advancement that the mechanical department does and it is on this account that Mr. Eichhorn makes the change.

GEO. SCHMOLL TRANSFERRED.

As predicted in The Sentinel several days ago, George A. Schmoll has been transferred from Wellsville to Allegheny City and made general foreman of the Pennsylvania company's shops, succeeding Charles W. Cross, resigned to go with the Lake Shore. This change is in line of promotion, as Mr. Schmoll will have a good many more men under him at Allegheny than he had at Wellsville and there is a corresponding increase in salary. No appointment to the Wellsville position has been made.

Louis Wright, a truckman at the Wabash freight house, had a foot injured Saturday night by one of the bridges falling upon it. The "bridge" is a sheet of steel used to connect the freight platform and the car and is quite heavy.

William Brown and William Sullivan, machinists, this morning took positions in the Wabash shops. Howard McClure, a son of Roeser McClure, also entered the Wabash shops this morning. He will learn the machinists' trade. Yard Engineer A. P. Sullivan, of the Wabash, is sick and this morning went to the company's hospital for treatment.

J. H. Hilgeman has returned from Batavia, Ohio, where he set up some electrical machinery that was built by the Fort Wayne Electric company.

John W. Hall, clerk in the electric light offices, is passing the cigars around to the "boys" in honor of the arrival of a son at his home. The little fellow is said to be one of the brightest and prettiest babies ever sent to gladden the hearts of parents and John is duely proud of him.

The long continued efforts of the presidents to secure the maintenance of a higher rate on grain and its products from Kansas City to the Mississippi and Chicago seems to be bearing fruit. Some of the lines are absolutely refusing to accept grain on a lower basis than seven cents to the river and ten cents to Chicago.

John Shoup, the Nickel Plate brakeman who was killed at Linden last week, was buried at Findlay yesterday. It was at first believed interment would take place at Hagerstown, Md., the present home of the bereaved father, but other members of the family were buried at Findlay, the former home of Mr. Shoup, and he concluded to give his son burial at that place also.

Assistant Ticket Agent R. F. Douglas, of the Wabash, who was called east several days ago by a telegram announcing the serious illness of his mother, yesterday sent a telegram to his wife, informing her of the death of the sick lady. Mrs. Douglas, sr., resided in Three Mile Bay, N. Y., and was quite old.

The car shortage has extended to eastern territory. Roads between Buffalo and Chicago and St. Louis report that, whereas, recently, their sidetracks were congested with empty freight cars, the demand now largely exceeds the available supply. Western roads are having all the traffic they can readily handle.

An official of the Pennsylvania says the profits from the seashore travel this summer have been very large. The company has carried large crowds on its regular trains, and, besides, ran numerous excursion trains from Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and other points. Atlantic City has been well patronized by western people.

In future the Rock Island will refuse to haul private cars used by theatrical companies unless they are provided with steel wheels and are in a condition to stand a rigid examination. The notice to this effect was served on account of a recent accident caused by the breaking of a wheel on a private car controlled by a theatrical company. The accident is one of many which have occurred in the last twelve months, and resulted in several deaths.

A farewell dinner was given at the Duquesne club, Pittsburg, Friday night, by the members, merchants and professional men of Pittsburg to William Gibson, retiring superintendent of the Pittsburg system of the Baltimore and Ohio railway as a mark of high regard for what he has accomplished during his stay in that city. A splendid silver service was presented to him. Mr. Gibson this morning assumed the duties of general superintendent of transportation of the Baltimore and Ohio at Baltimore.

DR. ADAMS TO REST.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 1.—Dr. Charles Kendall Adams, president of the University of Wisconsin, has temporarily retired from the management of the University and will travel for his health. The board of regents formally announced yesterday that Dr. Adams had been given leave of absence for a year on half pay, owing to the unsatisfactory condition of his health. The president recently submitted to a thorough examination and the regents assert positively that as a result they are assured that his malady is curable. All traces of the organic disease are disappearing, and it is thought that a change of air, in a warm, equitable climate, with freedom from care, will speedily build him up to perfect health. Dean E. A. Birge has been chosen as acting president during the absence of Dr. Adams. President Adams has been at the head of the University of Wisconsin since September 14, 1892. He resigned the presidency of Cornell to accept the position, and under his able administration the Badger state college has made substantial progress.

VOTING IN CONNECTICUT.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 1.—The "little town" elections, annual affairs, are in progress in Connecticut today in all but six of the 168 towns in the state. City elections are being held also in Norwalk South Norwalk and New London. The two Norwalks are balloting for a full city government, while New London is choosing a mayor and one-third of the city council. In the town elections the following offices are filled: Town clerk, treasurer, selectmen, constables, collectors grand jurors, assessors, registrars of voters and school visitors. In the years of state and national elections those little elections preceding the more important contests by the narrow margin of a month, practically, are taken by many as straws indicating November possibilities.

ARIZONA'S CAMPAIGN.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 1.—The political campaign in the territory will formally open this week. The two rival democratic candidates for delegates to congress, Mark Smith and J. F. Wilson, will fight it out, holding separate meetings. Statehood has been made the rallying cry by both republicans and democrats.

Since the close of the Franco-German war Germany has been at peace; she has none of the extraordinary expenses that war brings. The result of that contest brought her, in addition to the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, the enormous sum of $1,000,000 in cash. She should be, therefore, in fairly prosperous condition; yet, according to the Freisinnige Zeitung, the debt of the empire has been trebled since the death of Emperor William, which occurred shortly after the war.

The indigo production in Java is rapidly falling off. Many of the planters are growing tobacco instead. The artificial product is steadily displacing it. A new process is being used, however, which permits of obtaining a higher percentage of coloring matter from the leaf and also produces a purer indigo.

WON FIVE GAMES

FORT WAYNES EXCELLED THE 1900 CHAMPIONS.

WON TWO GAMES YESTERDAY

THE SECOND RESULTED IN A WHITEWASH.

ERRORS WERE PLENTIFUL—BIG LEAGUE SCORES.

The Fort Waynes are winners of the post-season series with the Daytons, champions of the Inter-State league, and there are "fans" in Fort Wayne who believe that the local team could easily have won every game of the seven played. The result of the series stands five victories for Fort Wayne and two for Dayton, and in only two games did the champions show anything like championship form and Fort Wayneites wonder more than ever now how Manager Armour's youngsters ever won the pennant.

There was a double-header at League park yesterday and Fort Wayne won both games, and the Hoosiers will divide 60 per cent. of the receipts, while the champions will get the other 40 per cent. to split with each other, providing there is anything left when the expenses are paid. Fricken and Wicker were opposing twirlers in the first game, and the light-haired Dayton twirler did the best work, but the support he received from his catcher was very yellow, indeed. The other errors made by the champion players were quite costly. Umpire Hubbard made decisions on which both sides kicked, but Dayton got none the worst of it. Wicker led the hitting, putting the ball against the right field fence in the second inning and over the fence in the ninth.

The second game was a walkaway for Fort Wayne. The Daytons gave a miserable exhibition of fielding and Gilpatrick was very ineffective, being very wild. Wadsworth kept hits scattered and not a run was scored by the champions. Score:

SATURDAY'S GAME.

The Daytons won Saturday's game on account of Watkins' effective twirling. The little southpaw made no effort to strike out batsmen, but allowed them to hit the ball, which generally went right into the hands of some waiting fielder. Swaim was struck by one of Myers' hot ones and his leg so badly injured that he retired from the game, Cooper succeeding him. Cooper was very effective, but the Fort Waynes couldn't get a run. INTER-STATE MEETING.

President Mautner has received notice that the regular fall meeting of the Inter-State league will be held in Dayton this week and he will attend. The meeting promises to be the most important in the history of the league and it is a foregone conclusion that there will be some changes in the circuit, but no one appears to know just what these changes will be, although it is believed that New Castle will be dropped and possibly Wheeling will quit. The New Castle management failed to pay all the salaries due the Quaker players and it is generally supposed that the Pennsylvania town will make no effort to remain in the league. The street railway company in Wheeling backed the Stogie team during the latter part of the season and it is not believed the company will care to keep the club next season, especially if all the other cities are hundreds of miles away. It is possible that Grand Rapids and Saginaw may be selected to fill the vacancies, and there is also some talk of Terre Haute being elected to membership. Should this be done the circuit will be Fort Wayne, Toledo, Dayton, Mansfield, Anderson, Marion, Grand Rapids and Saginaw. Marion, being a very small city, may be dropped and Terre Haute selected in place of the gas town. But these are questions to be settled at the meeting and not by the newspapers. President Power has stated that he will not again be a candidate for the presidency. The league should be careful in choosing a successor, as more depends on the filling of the presidency than on the selection of new cities to make up the circuit. For four years has President Power kept the Inter-State league on its feet and if he positively refuses to accept a re-election the magnates should move slowly before choosing his successor. Here's hoping that a compact circuit will be selected and a competent president chosen at the Dayton meeting.

THE ENGLISH ELECTIONS.

London, Oct. 1.—Sixteen English and Irish boroughs, electing twenty members of the house of commons, are polling today, so tonight's returns will furnish some indication of the trend of opinion. Winston Churchill is among the candidates whose fate will be decided today. Another long list of unopposed returns brings the total number of those already elected up to 2:30 p. m. today to 110 as follows: Conservatives, 78; unionists, 18; liberals, 8; nationalists, 6.

THE MARKETS.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—Wheat started weak today, Nov. ⅜c under Saturday at 76½c to 76⅝c. This was due to the heavy deliveries, 2,000,000 bushels, lower Liverpool cables and the heavy world's shipment which aggregated 8,350,000 bushels. The sentiment turned on threatening weather in the northwest and buying by locals and November rallied to 77c. Local receipts were 350 cars, 10 of contract grade. Minneapolis and Duluth reported 857 cars against 850 last week and 1,354 a year ago.

The strength of northwestern markets and a visible increase of only 410,000 bushels were a help to the market later. November advanced and closed strong, ⅝@¾c higher at 77⅝@77¾c.

Local receipts of corn were 1,184 and the market opened easier. November ⅛c lower at 36½c. Deliveries were only 35,000 bushels, however, and world's shipments light, 2,812,000 bushels, and these two considerations were influential in a rally to 37c.

The close was firm, November ½c higher at 37⅛c.

Oats were quiet and sympathized with wheat and corn. November opened a shade down at 22⅛@22¼c and sold to 22¼@22⅜c. Receipts were 443 cars.

Provisions were firm on the light deliveries. January pork opened unchanged at $11.60 and advanced to $11.70; January lard a shade lower at $6.77½, selling to $6.82½, and January ribs a shade higher at $6.20@6.22½, rallying to $6.25.

THE CLOSE.

Prices at the close were as follows:

Wheat—Oct., 76⅜c; Nov., 77⅜@77¾c; Dec., 78¾c.

Corn—Oct., 30½c; Nov., 34¾c; Dec., 34½@34¾c; May, 35¾@35¾c.

Hogs—Receipts today, 14,000; tomorrow, 20,000; left over, 4,652. Market weak to 5c lower; choice about steady; others weak. Mixed and butchers, $5.00@5.60; good to choice heavy, $5.00@5.45; rough heavy, $4.85@4.95; light, 5c lower, $5.10@5.50; bulk of sales, $5.17½@5.37½.

THE DAY ON WALL STREET.

New York, Oct. 1.—Changes were much mixed at the opening of the stock market, but the Southwestern Grangers and the leading specialties were higher as a rule. American Tobacco was up a point, and New York Central gained a sharp fraction. Generally the changes were small.

An upward movement in the Steel group obtained great headway in the first hour, Pressed Steel Car gaining 2 points, Tennessee Coal 1¾ and kindred stocks large fractions. There was also a good demand for Sugar, People's Gas and Brooklyn Transit, which responded about a point. In a few of the railroads good gains were made, but the majority moved narrowly. Very heavy buying of Union Pacific advanced it 1¼.

Railroad stocks were in larger demand then for a long time and the specialties fell somewhat into the background. Improvements of a point or more were made by some of the western trunk lines, Southwestern and Pacific stocks. Sugar spurted up to 118 and Manhattan to 88.

Bonds were quiet and irregular.

THE MONEY MARKET.

New York, Oct. 1.—Money on call nominally at 2 per cent; prime mercantile paper, 4¾@5½ per cent; sterling exchange weak with actual business in bankers' bills at $4.85½@4.85⅝ for demand and at $4.82@4.82¼ for 60 days; posted rates, $4.82½@4.83½ and $4.86½@4.87; commercial bills, $4.81½@4.81⅝; silver certificates, 63½@64¼c; bar silver, 63⅝c; Mexican dollars, 49⅝c.

DEATH'S RECORD OF THE DAY

MRS. CHRISTINA HAKE EXPIRED THIS MORNING.

Was the Widow of a Former Prominent German Citizen—Other Mortuary Matters.

Mrs. Christina Hake died at 9:30 o'clock this morning at her residence, 28 Wells street. Mrs. Hake was the widow of the late Frank Hake, formerly a well known German citizen of this city who died nearly six years ago.

Mrs. Hake has been in poor health for several weeks and her death was due to an attack of pneumonia, combined with the infirmities of her advanced years. She was born in Germany sixty-nine years ago, and came with her husband to Fort Wayne in 1866, since which date this city has been continuously her home.

Her marriage to Mr. Hake occurred forty-three years ago, and to them were born eight children, five of whom survive. They are Mrs. Mary Dennis, Mrs. Regina Henkenius, Mrs. Christina Himbert and Mrs. Lena Bicker, of this city, the latter making her home with the mother, and Mrs. Nettie Thone, of Peoria Ill.

Mrs. Hake possessed a wide acquaintance and was universally esteemed as a kind, devoted Christian woman. She was for many years a member of St. Paul's Catholic church, and at the time of her death held membership in the Church of the Prescious Blood.

The funeral services will be announced later.

NIERMANN.

Delbert Niermann, the little son of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Niermann, of 410 Broadway, died at 11 o'clock Saturday night from inflammation of the bowels, at the age of three years and ten months.

Funeral services will be held from the residence Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment at Lindenwood.

FUNERAL ANNOUNCEMENTS.

Parnin.—Funeral services of Adolph Parnin will be held Tuesday morning at 9:30 from the residence, 5 Fulton street, and at 10 o'clock from the Cathedral. In the notice of Mr. Parnin's death previously published the name of a son, Louis Parnin, of Minneapolis, Minn., was inadvertently omitted.

Reid.—Funeral services of Francis M. Reid will be held from the residence, 5 Ewing avenue, Tuesday morning at 9 o'clock.

The funeral services will be under the auspices of the Fort Wayne Amateur Driving club, of which the young man was a member.

PASTOR DIES IN HIS PULPIT.

New York, Oct. 1.—Rev. Dr. Gilbert H. Gregory expired yesterday in the presence of his congregation at the morning service in St. Stephen's M. E. church, Marble Hill, at the upper end of Manhattan island. Dr. Gregory's physician had urged him to retire from active church work, as he had long been a sufferer from heart trouble. They told him that he might live for years if he would cease to labor, but if he continued to work he was liable to be stricken at any moment. The clergyman replied: "I prefer to meet death in that way to retiring and shirking my duty in order to live longer." The service had progressed to the singing of a hymn which precedes the sermon. Dr. Gregory arose and read three verses of the hymn, beginning "Lord, divine, all love excelling." While the music of the anthem filled the church Dr. Gregory seated himself and then fell limp over one of the arms of the chair. Members of the congregation went to his assistance and two physicians who happened to be passing the church were called in. But the minister was beyond human aid and in five minutes from the time that he was stricken Dr. Gregory was dead. Dr. Gregory was born in Medina, N. Y. He was 63 years of age.

A SIGH AND A SONG.

Love's a sigh and love's a song,
Love's a gloom and glory;
Shall we linger with him long—
Hear the old sweet story?
Heights to climb and deeds to do;
Shall we dream the springtime thro

Welladay! Love leads to May:
Though the winter's round us,
Somehow, in his artful way,
With a wreath he's crowned us.
Heights to climb and deeds to do,
Shall we dream a lifetime through?

Yes, if love in gloom and gleam
Come in sweetest seeming;
If he but direct the dream,
Sweet will be the dreaming!
Shall we only dream and go?
Yes, if love will have it so.

A LUCKY BLUNDER.

It Kept John Hobbs From Marrying the Wrong Girl and Led Him to Marry the Right One.

It was just 3:30 by the dusty clock that did duty in the editor's office of The Daily Telegram, when John Hobbs, manager and general factotum for that enterprising paper, from which he derived a snug little income, suddenly remembered the day of the week. It was Thursday and on the following evening the most select concert of the season would take place, where the social set of Wrensville would be in evidence.

Now for nearly a year John had been a frequent and more or less regular caller on Miss Mabelle Whitney, the very pretty daughter of a very rich merchant.

He had intended to invite her all along, but this delay in his invitation might mean a disappointment. He would soon know and why not embody in his note a declaration of his affections, and so put to the test whether she returned his love or not. This seemed a happy thought, so he began:

My Dear Friend—May I hope for the pleasure of your company at the concert tomorrow evening by the Singers' club? I have a question to ask you, the answer to which will make me either the most miserable or happiest of men. If you accept my invitation to the concert, I shall understand your answer will not be "No" to the more momentous question, and a refusal of my invitation I shall consider as a refusal of years, with deepest regard, JOHN ELLIOTT HOBBS.

For a man of so brilliant a mind this was really a very lame proposal, but John signed his name with a consciousness of having said just enough and not too much, feeling quite sure in the depths of his honest devotion to her that her answer would be what he hoped. With this load off his mind he turned to the perusal of his afternoon mail, with which his desk was littered.

Another story from the pen of Miss Davenport. Well, this one he had better reject, for she was really getting beyond her depth, or so it seemed to him. To be sure, she sketched her characters with an artist's skill and was decidedly original in plot and action, but the public, his public, must be amused, and her heroines never seemed happy, and, what was more, never married the heroes, nor any one else, for that matter. He did not want to personally say "no" to this girl, in whom unconsciously he had become so interested and whom he recognized as a clever writer, sure to win for herself a name in the world. But he had already made up his mind not to accept more of her work, and so talking up the stub pen which had certainly seen better days, he dashed off as follows:

My Dear Madam—Notwithstanding our appreciation of and admiration for your style we find we must discontinue acceptance for the present. Trusting to be of service at some future date, I am, yours very truly, JOHN ELLIOTT HOBBS.

"I flatter myself that is neatly done," thought John, so hastily placing the notes in their respective envelopes and addressing the same he rang for the office boy.

Friday morning dawned dull and rainy, with little prospect of clearing weather, and as John sat in his office his courage and spirits were at ebb tide. It was all owing to the weather, he thought, and not a premonition of failure. Anyway he had stopped at the florist's and ordered a box of gorgeous violets sent his love, and they must be received by this time.

Just then the postman opened the door. Not a line from her in this mail, only some advertisements, a bill or two, three cards of invitation, a check, thanks for that, and last of all, a small envelope in the well known handwriting of Miss Davenport. A reply to his dismissal of the day before, he presumed, and, fearing to open the note he read:

My Dear Mr. Hobbs—The contents of your letter, although a very great surprise to me, have made me very happy. It is hardly necessary for me to add that I "accept" your invitation and shall expect you this evening. With regards from my mother and self, I am, most sincerely,
MADELEINE E. DAVENPORT.

What did it mean. What invitation did she accept and why should his letter make her very happy? Quite the reverse, he had supposed. It sounded like some mystery of romance from her versatile pen, but it was no jesting matter he reflected, remembering the concert and his anxiety of mind concerning his answer from Miss Whitney. Just then, in his reflection, the door was flung open and a messenger boy sang out: "Mr. Hobbs! Very important. No answer." And depositing a package handed John his book for signature. John recognized the handwriting of the address and hastily tore it open. A large bunch of violets met his astonished gaze and a letter, which read as follows:

Mr. Hobbs:

Sir—Allow me to return your property, which by some mistake was sent to me. As to my style, I consider it presumptuous on your part to pass any comment on what cannot possibly be of interest or concern of yours. I most heartily indorse your desire to discontinue all future correspondence, as your insults are only less clever than your compliments. Yours, etc.,
MADELEINE WHITNEY.

Poor John read it with sinking heart, too utterly miserable to express the surprise it merited. Another riddle to [illegible] my heart to her. About the original of the photograph I reasoned this way: She would not be carrying her own miniature around in all probability. It must have been lost by a friend, and probably—here was the hard part of it all—by her lover. If I advertised it, he would claim it, and I should not meet her.

"I didn't advertise. I did something far more irrational. I spent my spare hours searching. I visited stores and walked the streets. I haunted the residence part of the city. I went to the opera and scanned the boxes rather than the stage. Needless to say, I did not find her; yet I never lost hope. I felt I must find her and look at her. I felt this afresh every time I opened this ense. I would not give up the search. When I had exhausted every resource of my own, I did something which I had shrunk from doing before; I haunted out the best detective in the city and told him to spare neither time nor money in finding her.

"Within two weeks I received a note from him. He was obliged to leave the town suddenly. He wrote something like this:

"'I've found her at 320 Water avenue, Imogene Monroe. Will give you particulars when I return tomorrow. She is anxious to recover the miniature.'

"But I could not await the next day, and saw no reason why it would be necessary. I had the photograph and would take it to her. Because of it I should insure myself a reception at least.

"I went to 320 Water avenue that evening. It is an elegant residence in perfect keeping with the case and face. I had scribbled on my card, 'The finder of the miniature.' The maid who admitted me said that Miss Monroe was at home. She took the card and left me in the reception room. It was one of the most—what shall I call it?—delicious rooms I was ever in. One side was lined with deep windows draped in soft, dainty curtains and filled with plants and flowers. The air was heavy with the scent of roses.

"I stood before one of the windows looking at the blossoms when she came. She came so quietly and gently that I did not hear her. It was only when the sweetest, lowest, clearest voice I had ever heard said, 'At last I am to have my miniature,' that I knew she was in the room. I confess I trembled as I turned and took the hand of"—

Alyn stopped and smiled. It was a half sad, half amused, wholly inscrutable smile. My sewing had fallen into my lap, and I leaned forward listening breathlessly.

"The hand of the original of the picture. These eyes, this mouth, this delicate complexion, this same soft curling hair. I was looking on it all, the same but"—

Alyn raised his eyes. The amusement had faded away.

"The hair was snowy white, and the skin was wrinkled. Hers was indeed the face of the miniature, the face of 50 years ago. My foolish fancy was destroyed, but in its place came the sweetest little white haired lady that man was ever privileged to call friend. And this miniature! Some way I had a strange reluctance to part with it, and so here it is with me now. That is all," concluded Alyn abruptly.

"That is enough," I said quietly. "I think that face has stood between you and"—

Alyn broke in hastily:

"Oh, that is nothing. I couldn't carry this," holding up the photograph, "into such places as I had been frequenting, and so—well, it's all right."

Alyn buttoned up his coat and smiled at me frankly as he went out by way of the office door.

The doctor has always said there was the making of a man in that boy. —St. Louis Star.

Some Simple Remedies.

In one of the United States health reports published in Washington a few simple remedies for emergency uses are suggested. Witch hazel is one and is recommended as one of the quickest soothers and restorers of a tired brain. Bathe the eyes and forehead freely with the liquid and apply a cloth wet with it at the back of the neck.

Cloths wet in a strong solution of borax water are very cool and healing in case of a burn; care should be taken, however, to exclude the air in putting them on.

A tiny pinch of powdered borax placed on the tongue and allowed to dissolve slowly will almost instantly stop a hacking, irritating cough that may be disturbing one at night. The same treatment relieves an ulcer in the throat, and at the slightest irritation or soreness of the throat a gargle of salt water and borax will be found efficient.

Learning a Language.

How is it that Englishmen are not the best linguists in Europe? Simply and solely because of the general and absurd "deaf and dumb" method of studying foreign languages. Foreigners learning English know better than to waste years over books; they simply "chatter" and learn one word and expression after another, and become familiar with them by constant repetition, with the result that in a few months they can speak and write our language sufficiently well for all practical purposes.—London Mail.

A strange feature of the Galveston calamity is the absolute disappearance of the natural scavenger of the country—the buzzard—just when he is most needed. Not one is to be seen anywhere, though it would be natural to suppose that the bodies of so many dead animals and human beings would attract thousands of buzzards from distant parts.

A Frenchman is constructing an automobile of 100 horse-power. Such a vehicle in view of the stringent anti-speeding law now being enforced throughout France, is likely to prove a white elephant on his hands.

Aluminum has been one of the coming metals for a long time, but at last it has arrived. It is now getting largely into the arts and utilities. Its range is all the way from a picture frame to a frying pan.

NOTES OF THE DAY.

One of the Liverpool clergy of the Established Church of England is trying to employ church women as regular supplementary curates, and he suggests that much organizing work of the parish might be better done by women than by clergymen. He declares that he can get three women to work for the price of one curate and to do three times the work.

It has developed that the majority of motor bicycles which have proved impracticable were unsuccessful because their builders placed the motor too high. This caused a tendency to slip when rounding corners. Other builders, in an effort to overcome this very defect, have placed their motors so low that there was danger of striking the ground when going over rough places.

M. Gain has examined the structure of the embryo of grains of wheat and barley obtained from Egyptian mummy cases and finds that although the grains have undergone but little change in external appearance, and the reserve substances have retained their chemical composition, the chemical composition of the embryo has been completely altered, and it is no longer capable of development.

An Audrain county, Missouri, man found that he could not live happily with his wife, and rather than sue for a divorce they signed a deed of separation which was filed with the county recorder. It is said to be the first instrument of the kind ever on record in Missouri. It divides the property and is more binding than a decree of divorce, in that it forever separates the contracting parties and provides against any reconciliation in the future.

FEW PROMOTIONS

FOR NICKEL PLATE DISPATCHERS AND OPERATORS.

NO. 21 MAKES A FAST RUN

FORT WAYNE TO CHICAGO IN THREE HOURS.

AGENT KIRKLAND REVISES HIS CLERICAL FORCE.

A month ago The Sentinel stated that Will and Ferd Urbahns would retire from the Nickel Plate's employ to engage in the life insurance business. The change occurred today and with it came several changes in the ranks of the dispatchers and telegraphers in Mr. Blair's and Mr. Caldwell's offices. Ferd Urbahns, who was Mr. Blair's chief clerk, has been succeeded by L. Bart, a telegrapher. This is the only change in that office. In the dispatcher's office, J. T. Callahan has been transferred from the night to the day trick, succeeding Will Urbahns, and will have the trick between the hours of 7:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m. Leroy Hartzler takes the night trick vacated by Mr. Callahan. This promotes Operator W. C. Kerr to dispatcher and Frank Logue to extra dispatcher. There may be one or two other changes resulting from those mentioned in the foregoing, but they have not been fully decided upon. In the case of Messrs. Callahan and Hartzler, the change is simply a desirable transfer, but in the case of Messrs. Kerr, Logue and Bart it is a decided promotion, and The Sentinel congratulates them. They are competent and faithful in the performance of their duties and further promotions will surely be their lot.

SHORTAGE OF EQUIPMENT.

Traffic managers of eastern railroads are worrying over the unusual shortage of freight cars. They declare that it is almost impossible to secure sufficient equipment, and that serious conditions are rapidly gaining shape. This shortage, unless speedily relieved, may result in a car famine similar to that which recently existed in Kansas City and other important Missouri river points. According to some of the traffic men the immediate cause of this demand for cars is the tremendous amount of freight that the roads are called upon to carry, both east and westbound. According to others the shortage in part is due to a shortage in ocean tonnage. The freight yards of the various roads are filled with cars waiting to be unloaded, and freight for shipment is piling up faster than it can be handled. A well-informed traffic official Saturday said that in the neighborhood of 20,000 cars were tied up in the various Atlantic ports. The central freight lines are among the greatest sufferers from this state of affairs.

OFF FOR MEXICO CITY.

R. G. Thompson, of the Wabash railroad, will leave next week for Denver, going thence to the City of Mexico. This trip is made now to perfect the advance arrangements for entertaining his guests on the occasion of the 1901 tour of Mexico, which will leave the latter part of next February. The Wabash Mexico tour last season was received with such marked favor that another is being arranged which will embrace not only the same royal appointments, but the most comprehensive itinerary that has yet been offered. Mr. Thompson will be accompanied on this trip next week by Master Mechanic G. S. McKee, of this city, and H. V. P. Taylor, of St. Louis, assistant general passenger agent of the Wabash. The trip will consume a couple of weeks.

CHANGES IN FREIGHT CLERKS.

This morning there was a change in the clerical force at the Pittsburg freight offices, brought about by the resignation of two men. The retiring ones are Fred McCracken, rate clerk, and Joseph Trentman, messenger. W. R. Gerberding has been promoted to the office of rate clerk and Fred Clausmeier has been appointed messenger. Mr. Gardner, who came from the Chicago office, has been appointed second assistant cashier. Young Clausmeier is a son of ex-Sheriff Clausmeier. Fred McCracken will join his father in the insurance business.

VERY CREDITABLE RUN.

Engineer Herman Durnell, who was at the throttle of engine 283, hauling Pennsylvania train No. 21 yesterday, made a remarkable run to Chicago. The train consisted of one baggage, one express, one dining, one special, one combination, three sleeping cars and a coach—nine in all—and it covered the distance in quick time for a train of that size. It left one hour and twenty-seven minutes late and when it went into Chicago it was just fourteen minutes behind schedule time. From Fort Wayne to Clark Junction the train averaged forty-nine miles per hour, which includes three station stops and one stop for water. Excluding stops, the rate was fifty-four miles per hour. The sixty-two miles between Plymouth and Clark Junction, including a stop at Valparaiso, was covered in sixty-nine minutes. From Valparaiso to Clark Junction, twenty-two miles, the train traveled at the rate of 57.3 miles per hour, covering the distance in twenty-three minutes. This run, considering the weight of the train, beats any previous runs on record. The train also made a good run from Crestline to Fort Wayne, making up ten minutes of lost time en route. On this part of the run the conditions were not favorable to speed. Engineer J. C. McCarthy was at the throttle. No. 283 is a class X engine, which was designed by Fort Wayne men and built in this city in 1892. In many respects they are superior to any engines now owned by the company.

ONE MORE TOLEDO EXCURSION.

On account of the union meeting of the railway organizations at Toledo, the Wabash has been requested to make a special rate next Sunday and has agreed to do so. If there is evidence that the crowd will be of considerable proportions, the Wabash will run a special train to Toledo on that occasion, starting the train from Peru. All of the five great railway organizations will participate in the union meeting at Toledo.

JURISDICTION EXTENDED.

W. F. Beardsley, master mechanic of the Toledo division of the Pennsylvania company lines, with headquarters at Crestline, Ohio, has had his jurisdiction extended to the Marietta division of the system, vice J. Glaser, who has resigned. This order went into effect this morning.

DONS THE WORKING JACKET.

N. J. Eichhorn, who recently retired from the office of the storekeeper for the shop department of the Wabash, this morning entered the mechanical department to complete his trade. He was assigned to the erecting department in the locomotive repair shop. The clerical department does not afford opportunities for advancement that the mechanical department does and it is on this account that Mr. Eichhorn makes the change.

GEO. SCHMOLL TRANSFERRED.

As predicted in The Sentinel several days ago, George A. Schmoll has been transferred from Wellsville to Allegheny City and made general foreman of the Pennsylvania company's shops, succeeding Charles W. Cross, resigned to go with the Lake Shore. This change is in line of promotion, as Mr. Schmoll will have a good many more men under him at Allegheny than he had at Wellsville and there is a corresponding increase in salary. No appointment to the Wellsville position has been made.

Louis Wright, a truckman at the Wabash freight house, had a foot injured Saturday night by one of the bridges falling upon it. The "bridge" is a sheet of steel used to connect the freight platform and the car and is quite heavy.

William Brown and William Sullivan, machinists, this morning took positions in the Wabash shops. Howard McClure, a son of Rosser McClure, also entered the Wabash shops this morning. He will learn the machinists' trade. Yard Engineer A. P. Sullivan, of the Wabash, is sick and this morning went to the company's hospital for treatment.

J. H. Hilgeman has returned from Batavia, Ohio, where he set up some electrical machinery that was built by the Fort Wayne Electric company.

The long continued efforts of the presidents to secure the maintenance of a higher rate on grain and its products from Kansas City to the Mississippi and Chicago seems to be bearing fruit. Some of the lines are absolutely refusing to accept grain on a lower basis than seven cents to the river and ten cents to Chicago.

John Shoup, the Nickel Plate brakeman who was killed at Linden last week, was buried at Findlay yesterday. It was at first believed interment would take place at Hagerstown, Md., the present home of the bereaved father, but other members of the family were buried at Findlay, the former home of Mr. Shoup, and he concluded to give his son burial at that place also.

Assistant Ticket Agent R. F. Douglas, of the Wabash, who was called east several days ago by a telegram announcing the serious illness of his mother, yesterday sent a telegram to his wife, informing her of the death of the sick lady. The car shortage has extended to eastern territory. Roads between Buffalo and Chicago and St. Louis report that, whereas, recently, their sidetracks were congested with empty freight cars, the demand now largely exceeds the available supply. Western roads are having all the traffic they can readily handle.

An official of the Pennsylvania says the profits from the seashore travel this summer have been very large. The company has carried large crowds on its regular trains, and, besides, ran numerous excursion trains from Chicago, Cincinnati, Cleveland and other points. The notice to this effect was served on account of a recent accident caused by the breaking of a wheel on a private car controlled by a theatrical company. The accident is one of many which have occurred in the last twelve months, and resulted in several deaths.

DR. ADAMS TO REST.

Madison, Wis., Oct. 1.—Dr. Charles Kendall Adams, president of the University of Wisconsin, has temporarily retired from the management of the University and will travel for his health. The board of regents formally announced yesterday that Dr. Adams had been given leave of absence for a year on half pay, owing to the unsatisfactory condition of his health. The president recently submitted to a thorough examination and the regents assert positively that as a result they are assured that his malady is curable. All traces of the organic disease are disappearing, and it is thought that a change of air, in a warm, equitable climate, with freedom from care, will speedily build him up to perfect health. Dean E. A. Birge has been chosen as acting president during the absence of Dr. Adams. President Adams has been at the head of the University of Wisconsin since September 14, 1892. He resigned the presidency of Cornell to accept the position, and under his able administration the Badger state college has made substantial progress.

VOTING IN CONNECTICUT.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 1.—The "little town" elections, annual affairs, are in progress in Connecticut today in all but six of the 168 towns in the state. City elections are being held also in Norwalk South Norwalk and New London. The two Norwalks are balloting for a full city government, while New London is choosing a mayor and one-third of the city council. In the town elections the following offices are filled: Town clerk, treasurer, selectmen, constables, collectors grand jurors, assessors, registrars of voters and school visitors. In the years of state and national elections these little elections preceding the more important contests by the narrow margin of a month, practically, are taken by many as straws indicating November possibilities.

ARIZONA'S CAMPAIGN.

Phoenix, Ariz., Oct. 1.—The political campaign in the territory will formally open this week. The two rival democratic candidates for delegates to congress, Mark Smith and J. F. Wilson, will fight it out, holding separate meetings. Statehood has been made the rallying cry by both republicans and democrats.

Since the close of the Franco-German war Germany has been at peace; she has none of the extraordinary expenses that war brings. The result of that contest brought her, in addition to the provinces of Alsace and Lorraine, the enormous sum of $1,000,000 in cash. She should be, therefore, in fairly prosperous condition; yet, according to the Freisinnige Zeitung, the debt of the empire has been trebled since the death of Emperor William, which occurred shortly after the war.

The indigo production in Java is rapidly falling off. Many of the planters are growing tobacco instead. The artificial product is steadily displacing it. A new process is being used, however, which permits of obtaining a higher percentage of coloring matter from the leaf and also produces a purer indigo.

MASS MEETING HELD SUNDAY

PROF. BROWN AND PASTORS MAKE ADDRESSES.

STATISTICS ARE STARTLING

TWO THOUSAND BOYS AND GIRLS SIGN THE PLEDGE.

At the Berry street M. E. church Sunday afternoon was held a largely attended meeting under the auspices of the Anti-Cigarette league and several of the pastors of the city. Rev. H. J. Norris presided, and after devotional exercises, conducted by Rev. Norris, Rev. Bailey and Dr. Ferguson, Prof. Willis Brown made an address, taking his text "from the gospel of the Sunday morning paper," as he stated it.

Professor Brown described at some length the effects of cigarettes upon boys and girls, for he stated that he had found many girl smokers in Fort Wayne—many girls of the public schools admitting that they had smoked cigarettes. He also stated that 80 per cent. of the boys of the public schools, above the third grade, whom he had visited admitted that they had smoked.

Two thousand boys and girls in Fort Wayne, he said, have taken the anti-cigarette pledge. In one school where all but twenty-three boys admitted they had used cigarettes, every pupil, both boys and girls, signed the pledge. Mr. Brown told of the manner in which many cigarettes are made from cigar stubs gathered from the gutters of the city streets and closed with an appeal to the fathers and mothers to co-operate in the fight against the evil.

SOME TERSE SENTENCES.

Professor Brown's address teemed with terse sentences, containing a wealth of forceful argument. Some of them follow:

"Stained fingers mean a stained soul."

"A boy with a cigarette makes a poor fighter for liberty.

"To breathe, to inhale the fumes of the cigarette is simply to nurture a million vipers, one of which will sooner or later sting and kill.

"A boy and a cigarette make a combination of smoke and brains that is not wanted in the channels of business.

"A man and a cigarette invariably visit the bankruptcy court.

"Many young girls imagine if they do not like the cigarette John will not like them. Result—John is not forced to choose between the girl and the cigarette until he is incapable of giving up the one, and that one isn't the girl.

"The cigarette trust will give a gold watch for 250 empty cigarette boxes—watch out: a bicycle for 500 boxes—go slow; a coffin for 1,000 boxes stop.

"A man who sells cigarettes to a boy is a fool or a knave—fool if he does not know that he violates his state law; knave if, knowing it, he barters in boys' souls for a few paltry pennies."

Following the address of Mr. Brown, Rev. W. D. Parr, of Wayne Street M. E. church; Rev. J. W. Lake, of Calvary U. B. church; Rev. A. K. Zartman, of Grace Reformed church; Dr. W. G. Ferguson, president of the board of trustees of the Anti-Cigarette league, and M. S. Willson, the treasurer, also delivered brief addresses in encouragement of the agitation against the evil.

OTHER MEETINGS.

Professor Brown addressed the union young people's meeting at the Third Presbyterian church Sunday, and also gave addresses at Trinity M. E. and Plymouth Congregational churches, the attendance in each case being large.

Today several meetings of local leagues are being held and the movement is under excellent headway. Tonight at the First Baptist church Mr. Brown meets representatives of the young people's societies and it is expected a federation of these societies will be formed in the city to carry forward the work that has been started.

The high school girls, following the plans of the Brooklyn young ladies, are securing charter members for an Anti-Cigarette league. They will receive no attentions from any young man who uses cigarettes. This is to be one of the rules.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hepp and daughter left this morning for Buffalo and Niagara Falls for a stay of a week or ten days. Mr. Hepp is foreman of the Wabash blacksmith shop.

Dr. N. R. Wenger left this morning for Peru on professional business.

ANOTHER

REVOLUTIONIZING INVENTION BY W. E. VAN AME, THE WELL KNOWN INVENTOR.

A Duplicating Credit System that Will Supplant Every Kind Heretofore Used.

W. E. Van Ame, the well known inventor of this city, has, through his attorneys, Chapin & Denny, applied for patents in this country and all foreign countries on an invention that will be a wonderful help to retail merchants in all classes of business. The article in question is the "Always Posted Duplicating Credit Book," and any merchant doing credit business by its use will be able to do business at a minimum for bookkeeping. Any clerk without the least knowledge of bookkeeping can use it. The duplicate sheets showing the purchase, is given to the customer, while the original entry remains in the book in bound form, each transaction is carried forward by the clerk without loss of time and the customer's account is always posted up to date both on the original and duplicate sheet. The books are kept in a neat cabinet, each customer having his own book in the case. This system will practically do away with the keeping of pass books, ledgers, cash books, etc. It will be accurate, as it not only shows an itemized list of purchases each time the customer goes to the store, but is posted up to date every time a purchase is made. The volume of business done by any store cuts no figure in its use, as it is equally as applicable to the department store as to the retail meat market. This improvement is a revolutionizer and is pronounced by those who have examined it to be a winner.

Through his attorneys, Chapin & Denny, Mr. Van Ame, in the past few years, has obtained patents on a number of useful, business facilitating articles, among which are the well known "Little Recorder" and the better known "Van Ame Duplicating Cash Check Book," a novel feature of which is that the carbon sheet always remains in the center of the book and does not have to be placed between the sheets by the clerk before recording a sale, the original and duplicate sheet being detached simultaneously.

Mr. Van Ame will in the near future establish quite an extensive plant in this city for the manufacture of his various patents, particularly two new inventions he has about completed, one being a novel electric cash carrier for retail stores and the other a new style of registering apparatus specially designed for use in meat markets.
